ALBERTA, PROVINCE OF, established Sept. 1st, 1905, when the Province of Saskatchewan, to the east of it, was created, both being districts carved out of the Northwest Territories of the Canadian Dominion. Its area, which now includes part of the unorganized district of Athabaska, to the north of it, is 253,540 square miles, with a population (1906), of 185,000. The seat of Government of the Province is Edmonton (adjoining Strathcona), on the North Saskatchewan River, with stations on the Canadian Pacific and Canadian Northern RR's. The province is governed under a Lieutenant-Governor by an Executive Council of 5 members, besides a Legislative Assembly consisting of 25 members. For judicial purposes the province is divided into two sections, Northern and Southern Alberta, each with its local judge, sheriff, crown prosecutors and public administrators. The province is represented at Ottawa by a member in the Canadian Senate and by members in the House of Commons. The constituencies in the Alberta Legislative Assembly are: Athabaska, Banff, Calgary city (pop., 11,937), Cardston (1,002), Edmonton city (11,534), Gleichen, High River, Innisfail, Lacombe (1,015), Leduc (391), Lethbridge (2,325), MacLeod (1,144), Medicine Hat, Peace River, Pincher Creek, Ponoka (473), Red Deer (1,420), Rosebud, St. Albert, Stony Plain, Strathcona (2,927), Sturgeon, Vermilion, Victoria and Wetaskiwin (1,648). The boundaries of the province are: on the north, the Mackenzie district; on the south, the United States; on the east, the Prov. of Saskatchewan; and on the west the Province of British Columbia, the dividing line being the Rocky Mountain range, in the southern portion of the province, and the meridian 120° west long. for the northern region. The province is finely watered, the chief rivers being the Peace, Athabaska, N. and S. Saskatchewan, Macleod, Red Deer, Battle, Pembina, Smoky and Buffalo rivers. In the northern section (formerly Athabasca dist.), there are a number of notable lakes. The climate is a vigorous, bracing one, though its coldness in the winter months is much modified by the warm Chinook winds, which so temper the cold season that horses and cattle are enabled to pasture out of doors the entire winter. The soil is of the richest, which gladdens the farmer's heart by enabling him to reap the finest and largest crops of wheat and other grains that are harvested on the continent, furnishing the most succulent of grasses for ranching purposes; while the nutritious grasses give succulent food for the horses and cattle, which thrive well out of doors all winter. For cattle ranching no region of Canada is more favourable than Alberta, and this and the wonderful wheat-growing capacities of the province are attracting towards it great numbers of settlers, including many from across the line, who are resorting to it with their families, live stock and household effects. The fertility of the soil in the province is shown, not only in its vast stretches of fine grazing land, but in the large annual yield of the best wheat in the world, amounting to 30, and even 40, bushels to the acre. Many of these rich ranching areas are now operated by companies, who are adding creameries and cheese factories to their husbandry operations, cattle herding and horse-rearing.

Anticosti was discovered by Cartier in 1534, and called by him "Assomption," on his second voyage. Jean Alphonse called it "Ascension Island" in 1542, while the Indian name "Naticocotec" has been corrupted to "Anticosti." Anticosti is made mention of so long ago as 1660, in the geographical folio work of the celebrated loyalist, Dr. Peter Heylyn, known as "Cosmographia." He reports that the island was then held by a tribe of Indians who were exceedingly kind and friendly to such mariners as landed there. The feif of the island was granted by Louis XIV., about 1680, to Sieur Louis Jollet, as a recompense for his discovery of the mouths of the Mississippi and the Illinois, and other services rendered to his Government; and it seems to have been held of so little account in its primitive state that Charlevoix, writing about 1722, in his "History of New France," says that Jollet "would perhaps, have preferred one of the smallest lordships in France." In La Hontan's "Voyages to North America" is a chart of the St. Lawrence, and a plan of the island, showing Jollet's Fort on the western flank. La Hontan was a French marine officer, and he mentions that Jollet was captured in his boat off the island by the English expedition against Quebec, in 1690, under Admiral Phips, but released after the failure of that expedition. Mr. T. Anbury, who sailed with Gen. Burgoyne's army in 1776, devotes three pages of his work, "Interior Travels through America," to the seal fisheries of Anticosti, and the method of catching these animals between the continent and the adjacent islands.

Anticosti slopes gradually from its elevated northern coast to the grassy savannas which skirt the southern shore, and thus, in a great measure, the fertile portions of the country are protected from severe winter winds. Its climate is very healthy, and it certainly is not severer than that of the other maritime provinces. The winter's cold is considerably tempered by the waters of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and the heat of the summer is, to a certain extent, moderated by the same influence. Vegetation progresses very rapidly, and crops come to perfection in good season. The soil is of good quality, lying a rich loam intermixed with limestone; valuable forests are to be found on the greater part of the island, and although the timber generally is not of the largest size, it is of a superior quality, and well adapted for shipbuilding.

The fisheries around the island, which have been hitherto comparatively neglected, are valuable and important.

In his report for 1872, Commander Lavoie says: "Large shoals of herrings visit its shores about the same time they repair to Pleasant Bay, Magdalen Islands." He goes on to say: "The whole of Anticosti abounds with fish of all sorts, but harbors are scarce, even for fishing boats. Codfish on this coast are all large, and no finer are seen even on the Miscou and Orphan Banks." The number of fisherman frequenting its banks increases every year. Halibut are so plentiful that 199 barrels are at times taken in one day.

The seal fishery, which could be carried on here as well in winter as in summer, might be turned to profitable account, large numbers of these animals being visible during the former season, and thousands of them being observed in the summer and autumn at the entrance of almost all the bays and rivers, where they remain comparatively unmolested.

Hunting on the island is of considerable value, though of far less importance than its fisheries. The animals found on the island, whose skins are of marketable value, are black bears, which are very abundant, otters, martens, and the silver grey, red, black, and, sometimes the white fox. Great quantities of ducks, geese, and other wild fowl resort to the lakes and the bays of the island.

There are numerous natural harbors round the coast, which are comparatively safe in all winds, Ellis Bay and Fox Bay being especially so. The former is distant about eight miles from West End Lighthouse on the south side; the latter is fifteen miles from Heath Point Lighthouse on the north side. Ellis Bay is two miles in breadth, with deep water three-fourths of a mile from shore, but only with from three to four fathoms in shore. Fox Bay is smaller; the distance across its mouth is only one mile and a half, with deep water in the centre, extending up the bay nine-tenths of a mile, but shoaling near the shores of it; the whole length of the bay being one mile and two-tenths.

A company was once formed for the purpose of colonizing the island of Anticosti, and for working and developing its resources. They laid out town sites at Ellis Bay, Fox Bay, and at the South West Point, and divided the island into twenty counties, of about 120,000 acres, each subdivided into five townships. The scheme has not been a success. In 1880 the Government of Canada laid a submarine telegraph cable connecting the island with the mainland, an inestimable boon to the shipping trade.

Sir William E. Logan, in his Geographical Report of Canada, after referring to deposits of peat, or peat-bogs, in different parts of Canada, says: "The most extensive peat deposits of Canada are found in Anticosti, along the low land on the coast of the island from Heath Point to within eight or nine miles of South West Point. The thickness of the peat, as observed on the coast, was from three to ten feet, and it appears to be of an excellent quality. The height of this plain may be, on an average, fifteen feet above high water mark, and it can be easily drained and worked. Between South West Point and the west end of the island there are many peat-bogs, varying in superficies from 100 to 1,000 acres."

Near South West Point there are several large salt ponds, which, if labor was abundant, might be turned to a profitable account in the manufacture of salt.

Four lighthouses are erected on Anticosti: one on Heath Point, at the east end of the island; another at South West Point; the third at West Point; and the fourth at South Point, at Bagot's Bluff. That on Heath Point is a round tower, built of a grayish white limestone, quarried on the island, and is ninety feet high; it shows at an elevation of 110 feet above the level of high water, a fixed white light, which in clear weather should be visible from a distance of fifteen miles. The lighthouse on South West Point is built of the same stone as the previous one (quarried on the spot) is seventy-five feet high, and of the usual conical form, exhibits a white light, which revolves every three minutes, and is visible at fifteen miles, with the eye ten feet above the sea; with the eye at fifty feet, it can be seen nineteen and a-half miles, and with the eye at an elevation of 100 feet, it will be visible about twenty-three miles. The third lighthouse, erected on the West Point of Anticosti, is a circular stone tower, faced with fire-brick, 109 feet in height. It exhibits, at 112 feet above high water mark, a fixed white light, visible from a distance of fifteen miles. A gun is fired every hour during fog and snow-storms. The lighthouse at South Point is a comparatively new building, the light having first been exhibited in August, 1870. It is a hexagonal tower, painted white, seventy-five feet above high water mark, with a revolving white flash-light every twenty seconds. It should be seen at from fourteen to eighteen miles distance, and is visible from all points of approach. A powerful steam fog-whistle is also stationed there, about 300 feet east of the lighthouse. In foggy weather, and during snow-storms, this is sounded ten seconds in every minute, thus making an interval of fifty seconds between each blast, which can be heard in calm weather, or with the wind, from nine to fifteen miles distance, and in stormy weather, or against the wind, from three to eight miles. The lights are displayed, when navigation is open, from the 1st of April to the 20th of December of each year.

Provision depots are now established on the island for the relief of wrecked crews. The first of these is at Ellis Bay; the second at the lighthouse at the South West Point; the third, which was formerly at Shallop Creek (Jupiter River), was lately removed to South Point, where the new lighthouse and steam fog-whistle have been located; and the fourth at the lighthouse on Heath Point. Direction boards are erected on the shore, or nailed to trees, from which the branches have been lopped off, near the beach, and on various points of the coast. These boards are intended to point out to shipwrecked persons the way to the provision posts.

Vessels are more frequently lost on Anticosti in the bad weather, at the close of navigation, than at any other time, and their crews would perish from want and the rigors of a Canadian winter if it were not for this humane provision made by Government.

The currents around the island of Anticosti are very variable and uncertain, and to this cause may be attributed many of the shipwrecks that have from time to time occurred. The tide around the island only rises from four to seven feet.

Streams of excellent water reach the sea on every part of the coast of Anticosti. They are for the most part too small to admit boats, becoming rapid immediately within their entrances, and even the largest of them are barred with sand excepting for short intervals of time, after the spring floods, or after continued heavy rains.

Portions of the preceding account are from an article by the late Wm. Smith, when Dep. Min. of Marine.

ARCTIC OCEAN (named from the Greek word "Arotos," the "Bear," the constellation of which is principally included within the celestial Arctic Circle), that portion of the Northern Sea extending from the Arctic Circle (67° 70' N. lat.) to the North Pole. The Arctic Ocean enters deeply, in the form of gulfs, bays, etc., into the N. parts of the continents of Europe, Asia and America. The chief of these indentations are the White Sea, in Europe; Sea of Kara, Gulfs of Obi and Yenisei, in Siberia; and Baffin Bay in North America. It is connected with the Pacific by Behring Strait, and with the Atlantic by Baffin Bay and Davis Strait, and by a wide sea extending from Greenland on the W. to Norway and Lapland on the E. This portion of the Arctic ocean contains one of the largest archipelagos on the globe. The middle of it is occupied by Greenland, and on the E. is an extensive group of islands known under the name of Spitzbergen, the small island of Jan Mayen, and Iceland. West of Greenland, and divided from it by Davis Strait and Baffin Bay, there are a number of islands of great size belonging to the Dominion of Canada. In October, 1895, the Dominion Government embraced the area of the Arctic seas lying to the north of Canada under the designation of the Franklin district, an estimated area (roughly) of 500,000 sq. miles. The regions embraced by the more restricted limits of the Arctic Ocean (namely, from lat. 70-80° N.) are, perhaps, the most dreary and desolate on the face of the globe. The shores are covered with eternal snows, and the entire surface of their seas with large fields and huge masses of floating ice, in perpetual motion, and whose constant and tremendous collisions are attended with the most appalling sounds. Dense fogs, violent storms and endless nights add to the horror of the scene. There is but one month in the year (July) in which snow does not fall. The Arctic Ocean freezes even in summer; and, during the eight winter months, a continuous body of ice extends in every direction from the pole, filling the area of a circle between 3,000 and 4,000 miles in diameter. Some of the masses of ice that line the shores of this ocean extend many miles in length, and present sea fronts of 200 feet in height; while fields of ice 20 or 30 miles in diameter, and from 10 to 40 feet in thickness, are frequent, and sometimes extend over 100 miles, so closely packed together that no opening is left between them. They are also found to have a violent rotary motion, by which they are dashed against one another with tremendous force. The icebergs, of which vast numbers are seen floating about, vary from a few yards to many miles in circumference, and rise to several hundreds of feet in height. The ice in these regions is very transparent and compact, and remarkable for the variety and beauty of its tint. The water of the Arctic Ocean is extremely pure, snells being distinctly visible at a depth of 80 fathoms. The first attempt to navigate this sea was made in 1500. From 1745, England, anxious to find out a shorter passage to her East India possessions than round by the Cape of Good Hope, despatched successive expeditions to the northern coast of America, and offered a reward of £20,000 to the successful discoverer of a north-west passage. At length, in 1852,

Sir Robert McClure made this passage. Sir John Franklin attempted the passage in 1845-46, but neither himself nor crew ever returned. In 1857-59 Sir Leopold McClintock found at King William Island a record of his death and of his lost expedition.

ARCTIC RED RIVER, situate to the east of the northern ranges of the Rockies, in Mackenzie dist., N.W.T. It is a tributary of the Mackenzie River, which has its outlet in the Arctic Ocean.

ARDAGH, a settlement on Pickerel River, Parry Sound district, Ont., 26 miles from Trout Creek, a station on the G.T.R. (Toronto and North Bay div.), 20 miles south of Callander. It contains 1 Methodist church.

ARDAL, a post office in Selkirk co., Man., on the Icelandic River, 45 miles from Winnipeg Beach. It has 1 store.

ARDEN, a post village in Frontenac co., Ont., on the Salmon River, and on the C.P.R., $\frac{1}{2}$ a mile from the railway station of Arden—the lake port being Clear Lake. It contains 2 churches (Methodist and Church of England), 6 stores, 2 hotels, 1 flour and saw mill, cloth cheese and furniture factories, 1 bank, telegraph and express office. This is a growing village, said to be unsurpassed in beauty of situation and charming surroundings. In addition it has a post office money order and savings bank. Pop. 450.

ARDEN, a post village in the electoral district of Beautiful Plains, Macdonald co., Man., on the White Mud River, and a station on the Northwestern (Minnedosa) branch of the C.P.R., 52 miles northwest of Portage La Prairie and 9 miles south east of Neepawa. It contains 3 churches (Methodist, Presbyterian and Anglican), 9 stores, 1 hotel, 1 flour mill, 5 elevators and telegraph and express offices. The direct road to Lake Dauphin is along the beach of Lake Agassiz. Pop. 250.

ARDNESS, a post settlement in Pictou co., N.S., 7 miles from Avondale on the I.C.R. It has 1 store. Pop. 70.

ARDOCH, a post village, in Frontenac co., Ont., on the Mississippi River, 17 miles from Clarendon Station, on the Kingston & Pembroke Ry., 3 miles from Long Lake, and 6 miles from Cross Lake. There are 3 churches (Episcopalian, Roman Catholic and Methodist), 1 store, 1 boarding house, 1 saw mill, 1 cheese factory and a school. It is in a purely agricultural district. Pop. 155.

ARDTREA, P.O., a post and farming settlement in Simcoe co., Ont., 1 mile from Lake Couchiching, and $\frac{1}{2}$ miles from Orillia, on the G.T.R. It has 2 churches (Methodist and Presbyterian), 1 blacksmith shop, post office, and, at Orillia, express and telegraph offices.

ARGENTA, a mining settlement in Kootenay dist., B.C. It has a post office, and is reached by steamer 3 times a week, plying between Lardo and Kaslo, on Kootenay Lake.

ARGENTEUIL, a county of Quebec, situate in that part of the Province which comprises the Lower Ottawa valley. Area, 501,355 acres. The Ottawa River washes about 30 miles of its border, and forms its southern boundary. It is watered by the Rouge and North Rivers, and several smaller streams. On the east and north it is bounded by the counties of Two Mountains and Terrebonne; and on the west by Labelle county. The famous Laurentian mountain range traverses the heart of the county from east to west, and the rich mineral deposits of this range assure a future of great prosperity and wealth to the fortunate possessor of lands in the neighborhood. Fully two-thirds of these are English-speaking persons, settlers and descendants of settlers from Great Britain and Ireland; about a third of the people are French Canadians. The county is rich in pasture lands, and is well adapted for dairy operations. Possibly the time is not distant when its immense water-power and its mineral deposits will be more fully developed. At the present time an industrious settler can derive a very comfortable subsistence from the pursuit of agriculture or dairy farming; most of the people are in comfortable circumstances, while not a few of the older farmers are undoubtedly men of wealth. The county is reached from Montreal (in the summer months) by the steamers plying on the Ottawa River, the point of debarkation being Carillon, in St. Andrews parish, and the foot of the Rapids, which are overcome by those costly public works, the Grenville and Carillon canals. Since the line of the C.P.R. has traversed the county, Argenteuil has enjoyed communication with Montreal and Ottawa by several trains each way daily. It is also traversed by the Great Northern, and by the Montfort & Gatineau Colonization RR. Chief town, Lachute. Pop. (1901). 16,407.

ARGENTEUIL, a station on the Quebec, Montreal and Southern Ry., in St. Hyacinthe co., between St. Hyacinthe and St. Damase.

ARGENTIA, a fishing settlement in Placentia dist., Nfld., on Placentia Bay, 5 miles from Placentia, a terminal station on the Reid Nfld. RR. It has 1 Roman Catholic church, 3 stores and 1 lobster canning factory; besides 2 whaleries in the Bay, at Roches and at St. Lawrence. Pop. 700.

ARGENTIA, formerly Little Placentia, a post settlement in the district of Placentia and St. Mary's, Nfld., 5 miles from Placentia, a station on the Reid-Nfld. Ry.

ARGENTITE, a station in Nipissing dist., N. Ontario, on the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario RR., between Cobalt and Haileybury, 7 miles south of New Liskeard, and 106 miles north of North Bay, on Lake Nipissing.

ARGUE, a farming settlement in Man., and a station on the Canadian Northern Ry. It has 2 grain elevators.

ARGYLE, a post village in Carleton co., N.B., 13 miles east of Bristol Station, on the C.P.R., 26 miles north of Woodstock. It contains 1 Methodist church, post office and 1 saw and grist mill. Pop., about 200.

ARGYLE, a post settlement on Oak Creek, Macdonald co., Man., 10 miles west of Stonewall, a station on the Teulon branch of the C.P.R., 20 miles northwest of Winnipeg. It contains a Lutheran church and post office. Pop., about 250.

ARGYLE, a post settlement in Victoria co., Ont., and a station on the Lindsay & Cobocook branch of the G.T.R. It contains 1 Presbyterian church, 1 store, 1 hotel and 1 blacksmith shop. Pop. 50.

ARGYLE, a post village and township in Yarmouth co., N.S., on Halifax and Yarmouth Ry. It contains 5 churches (Baptist, Free Baptist and Methodist), 6 stores, 5 hotels, 1 saw mill, telegraph and express offices. Pop. of township 931.

ARGYLE HEAD, a beautifully situated village on Argyle River, in Yarmouth co., N.S. There are several lakes in the district. It contains 1 Baptist church, 1 store, 1 lumber mill and 1 express office. Pop. 150.

ARGYLE RIVER, a river or Yarmouth co., N.S., on which is a village of the same name.

ARGYLE SHORE, a post settlement in Prince (East) co., P.E.I., on Northumberland Strait, 11 miles from North Wiltshire, a station on the P.E.I. Ry. It has 1 store, post office and 4 lobster factories. Pop., about 225.

ARGYLE SOUND, a post village on Lobster Bay in Yarmouth co., N.S. It contains 2 churches (Baptist and Free Baptist), 2 stores. Pop. 350.

ARICHAT, a port of entry, post town, with money order office, on Arichat Island, in Richmond co. (Cape Breton Island), N.S., 10 miles from Grand Anse on Cape Breton Ry. It is an old historic place, being founded by the French in 1730, and has a good harbor. Farming, fishing and shipping are the chief industries. It has 3 churches (Roman Catholic, Episcopal and Presbyterian), 12 stores, 3 hotels, 2 banks (Union of Halifax, and private one), 1 printing and newspaper office ("Richmond Record"), besides post, telegraph and express offices. Pop. 900.

ARICHAT (EAST SIDE), a village in Richmond co., N.S., 9 miles from Grand Anse Station, on the Cape Breton RR., and 15 miles from McIntyre's Lake Station, on the I.C.R. The principal industry is fishing. The fish are chiefly cured for foreign markets, though in the fall they are shipped fresh to the Upper Provinces. Pop., about 700.

ARIEL, a post office in Pary Sound dist., Ont., 4 miles north of South River, a station on the Toronto & North Bay div. of the G.T.R., 11 miles south of Trout Creek, and 18 miles north of Burks Falls.

ARISAIG (UPPER and LOWER), a post village in Antigonish co., N.S., situated on Northumberland Strait, 7 miles from Antigonish, on the I.C.R. It contains 1 church, post office and 1 lobster factory. In the harbor which affords shelter to vessels, the steamer from Pictou to Mabou stops three times a week. Pop., about 200.

ARISTAZABLE ISLAND, in Hecate Strait, B.C., situate to the west of Princess Royal Island, in the Skeena dist. The Laredo Channel separates the two islands.

ARIZONA, a settlement on the Assiniboine River, in Portage la Prairie co., Man., and a station on the Prince Albert branch of the Can. Northern RR., 40 miles west of Portage la Prairie, and 96 miles from Winnipeg. It is in a fine, thickly settled wheat country, and has 2 churches (Presbyterian and Methodist). Pop., about 200.

ARIZONA JUNCTION, a station on the Can. Northern RR., in Macdonald co., Man., 1 mile west of Portage la Prairie, 57 miles west of Winnipeg, and 39 miles east of Arizona Station.

ARKELCENIK RIVER, in Mackenzie dist., N.W.T., flowing north-eastward into Lake Aberdeen, thence through Schultz and Bakers Lakes into Chesterfield Inlet, Hudson Bay.

ASHUANIPI, or HAMILTON, the great river of Labrador, which separates north Quebec from Ungava dist., has its source near the head waters of the east branch of the Moisie, and after a course of 600 miles enters the Atlantic through Esquimaux Bay or Hamilton Inlet. At its mouth it is nearly $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles wide, and 25 miles up its breadth varies from $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ mile. About 100 miles up occur the great falls, one of the grandest spectacles in the world. Six miles above the falls, the river suddenly contracts to about 100 yards, then rushing along in a continuous foaming rapid, finally contracts to a breadth of 50 yards ere it precipitates itself over the rock which forms the fall; when, still roaring and foaming, it continues its maddened course for about 30 miles, pent up between walls of rock that rise sometimes to the height of 300 feet on either side. This stupendous fall exceeds in height the Falls of Niagara.

ASHUAPMOUCHOUAN ("The Indians Am-bush," or "The place where the Elk is laid wait for"), a lake of N. W. Quebec, 150 miles W. of Lake St. John. Lat. $49^{\circ} 27' N.$, lon. $78^{\circ} 55' W.$ Length 10 miles; average breadth 4 miles. It receives the waters of several large lakes, and has its outlet in the River Ashuapmouchouan. At the north-east extremity of the Lake, 147 miles north of Montreal, is a Hudson Bay Company's trading post. There are good sized trees around the lake, and fruit, grass, etc., thrive well.

ASHUAPMOUCHOUAN, or CHAMOUCOUAN, a large river of north-western Quebec, rises in the highlands separating the watershed of the rivers flowing into the St. Lawrence from those flowing into Hudson Bay, 80 miles north-east of Metiscan, and running south-east enters the west side of Lake St. John, lat. $48^{\circ} 39' N.$, lon. $72^{\circ} 10' W.$ Length about 170 miles. In its course it receives the tributary waters of the Shecoubish, Roche Coupe, and Salmon rivers. Its navigation is obstructed by falls and cascades. The valley of the Ashuapmouchouan differs but little from that around Lake St. John, being underlaid with clay, which forms an excellent soil. All kinds of grain and many vegetables yield well. Towards the 36th mile sand hills predominate, rendering the land less fit for tillage. The Shecoubish River enters it 53 miles from Lake St. John, and 23 miles further it receives La Loche brook. A little above the 92nd mile it divides into two branches. One of these comes from the N. N. E., and being the larger is called by the Indians the Chief River. The other branch retains the name of the Ashuapmouchouan. 24 miles up is Lake Ashuapmouchouan. From here to its source the river is called the Nikoubau.

ATLANTIC OCEAN, one of the five great hydrographical divisions of the globe, occupies an immense longitudinal valley, and extends from the Arctic Circle on the north to the Antarctic Circle on the south, bounded west by the coast of America to Cape Horn, and thence by a line continued on the same meridian to the Antarctic Circle, and east by the shores of Europe and Africa to the Cape of Good Hope, and thence prolonged to the meridian of Cape Agulhas till it meets the Antarctic Circle. Its extreme breadth is about 5,000 miles, and its area is computed at 30,000,000 square miles. The North Sea or German Ocean, the Caribbean Sea, and the Irish Sea form portions of the Atlantic. Its principal gulfs are, in Europe, the Bay of Biscay; in Africa, the Gulf of Guinea; in America, the Gulf of Mexico and the Gulf of St. Lawrence. The chief Islands are, in Europe, the British Isles and Iceland; in Africa, the Azores, Madeira and Canary Islands, and the Archipelago of the Gulf of Guinea; in the New World, the Antilles, Newfoundland, and the islands in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. The chief affluents are, in Europe, the Rhine, Loire and Tagus; in Africa, the Senegal, Niger and Congo; and in America, the St. Lawrence, Mississippi, Orinoco, Amazon and La Plata. The bed of the Atlantic is very unequal in elevation, in some places rising an immense sand bank to within a few fathoms of the surface, and in others sinking to unfathomable depths. The most extensive banks are those of Newfoundland, the Dogger bank in the German Ocean, and the Agulhas bank off the south point of Africa. The minimum depth on the banks of Newfoundland is 60 feet. The German Ocean varies in depth from 66 to 500 feet. In many places the Atlantic is over 13,000 feet deep, and in lat. 15° 3' S., lon. 23° 14' W. (15° E. of the coast of Brazil) Sir James Ross had no soundings with a line of 4,000 fathoms (27,000 feet, or nearly 5½ miles). In the Antarctic ocean Sir James Ross found the depth to be generally 2,000 feet; but on one occasion a line of 24,000 feet failed to reach the bottom. Fish are met with in greater abundance in the North Atlantic than in the South. In the latter there are only whale fisheries, while in the former there are the cod fisheries of Newfoundland, the herring fisheries of Great Britain, the pilchard fisheries in the British Channel, and the whale fisheries of Greenland, etc. The Gulf stream in the North Atlantic is the circulatory system, flowing from the Gulf of Mexico, along the eastern shores of the United States. The North Atlantic is now traversed by countless steamers connecting with United States and Canadian ports.
