INTRODUCTION.

THE plan of this work is unique and the conception original. There are biographies in abundance, but this appears to be the only Album on a national scale in this or any other country. Its title, THE CANADIAN ALBUM: MEN OF CANADA, is suggestive of its plan and scope, but it might well have been called "The Canadian Biographical Album," for this it really is. The usefulness and desirability of such a work can be readily seen. By that large class of persons spoken of as "the public," it should be highly appreciated. On every hand it is felt that the sources of information concerning THE MEN OF CANADA are very limited. Those who are rightly classed among the leaders of thought and action in the towns, cities, townships, and counties of Canada, as well as in the provinces, and in the Dominion itself, are not so well known as is desirable or necessary. How often one's mind seeks information concerning an individual who has suddenly become conspicuous in church or state? Who is he? Where did he come from? How old is he? What are his antecedents? His age? His business or professional education? His past attainments and present standing? And, finally, his personal appearance?

This work proposes to answer these questions briefly, but accurately, in sober prose, and in cold type, like any other condensed biography. But it does not end here by any means. It brings to its aid the poetry of the artist, with the skill of the engraver, thus transferring the very image of the man to the printed page, so that he may, as it were, speak for himself and answer all our queries.

The next best thing to seeing and conversing with a man is to see his portrait, especially if a pen picture accompanies it as in the present plan.

The benefit conferred upon the country by the publication of this work will be the more readily seen when the plans of the publishers are considered. If carried out in their entirety, the enterprise will not only be gigantic in its proportions, but a benefit to the people that can scarcely be overestimated. Taking the population of Canada roughly at five millions, and supposing that about one man to a thousand of the population is a representative man, there are five thousand men who ought to find a place in THE CANADIAN ALBUM. This would involve the publication of seven volumes with a little over seven hundred men in each. To this task the publishers have set themselves, and from their past record, they will doubtless succeed. Thus THE MEN OF CANADA, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, will live in our homes, telling the story of their lives, exerting the influence of those qualities of head and heart which have distinguished them, giving inspiration and entertainment to the young, and affording companionship for those of riper years, giving lessons in experience and a knowledge of human nature which cannot be found with similar fulness in any other volume. Nor does the value of this work end in sentiment only, important as that is. It has a business and a professional value. It will be equally in place in the libraries of the learned professions as on the business man's desk. How important to have a knowledge of the men with whom we do business? Mercantile reports are good so far as they go, but they give a man's financial "rating" only, and private reports are often necessary to find out who and what the man is. There is a felt need to know more about men than is indicated by their mercantile standing, because there are often other than business reasons which make information necessary. Character, capacity and capital are the qualities which tell the story of a man's worth, and, as a rule, the second "capacity" is a product of the first, while the third, "capital," is generally a result of the second. Still, as capital is only an incident in the life of a man of character and capacity, and not a necessary part of it, this work deals with the man himself—his character and capacity—so that those who desire such information have only to consult its pages, and by the aid of its copious index, they are at once made conversant with the man in all the phases of his life.

A man carries his character in his face to a much greater extent than is generally supposed. One look at a faithful portrait will often tell the story more than many pages of print. While physiognomy has hardly yet attained the dignity of a science, yet there is a well founded belief that there is an intimate connection between the features and expression of the face and the qualities and habit of the mind, and every man is conscious of instinctively drawing conclusions in this way for himself with more or less confidence, and of acting upon these conclusions, to a certain extent, in the affairs of life.

The family album has now become a household necessity, and very properly so. For similar reasons this "National Album" should also be a household necessity. We want our friends ever with us, and here they are—archbishops, bishops, moderators, general superintendents, presidents of churches and their various assemblies, synods, conferences, and conventions, together with our pastors and teachers. Here are our legal friends of the Bench and the Bar; those of the medical profession, our educationists, merchants, manufacturers and leading agriculturists. Statesmen of the Provincial Legislatures and the Dominion Parliament; public men and private citizens meet and greet us here from all parts of our fair Dominion. The East meets the West, and the middle provinces embrace both; space is annihilated, and each man visits every other man around his own hearthstone, in the library or in the office.

This is not a work of fulsome praise, but of facts. The man is a fact; his birth, education, professional or business training, early experiences, marriage, present position, church standing, and relation to the country as regards office or influence. These are matters not only gratifying to one's friends, but which no good man need blush to read concerning himself. On the other hand, the public have a right to know these facts concerning representative men. This kind of information is furnished within these pages, and so far as the facts are concerned, they have been verified by the men themselves, with very few exceptions, and are thus reliable. For the additional comments here and there, the editor and the publishers are alone responsible. Not every man fitted for a place in these pages will be found in this first volume, not even, perhaps, from the territory covered by it, but in future volumes it is the intention to include the entire Dominion and supply deficiencies in the territory herein represented.

Wm. Cochrane

REV. WM. COCHRANE, D. D., minister of Zion Presbyterian Church, Brantford, Ont., was born in Paisley, Scotland, February 9, 1831. His father was from Dalry, Ayrshire, and the family sprung from the renowned seamen Thos. Cochrane, Earl of Dundonald, or Lord Cochrane. His mother was from Arran. He began his education at the age of four and continued until twelve, when he entered the publishing house of Murray & Stewart, and remained ten and a half years. He possessed indomitable energy and devoted his leisure hours to study. In his twenty-first year he entered Glasgow University, going from Paisley to attend classes at five a.m. In his twenty-third year, two gentlemen in Cincinnati, Ohio, offered him means to enter the ministry. Accepting the proposal, he entered Hanover College, Indiana, in 1854, and graduated with the highest honours in 1857. Afterwards he studied theology, under Drs. Hodge and Alexander, at Princeton, N. J., and in 1859 was ordained as pastor in Jersey City. In 1862 he accepted the call to Brantford, where he has since remained, in spite of invitations to Boston, New York, Chicago, Detroit, Toronto, Newburyport and other great cities. In 1874 he founded Brantford Ladies' College, of which he is governor and lecturer in philosophy. For fourteen years he was clerk of Paris presbytery; for twenty years he has been clerk of the Hamilton and London Synod, and for about the same period, convener of the Home Mission Committee. For twenty years he has been president or chairman of the Mechanics' Institute and Public Library. He has had his full share of honours. Hanover College gave him the degrees of M.A. and D.D. In 1869 he represented his church at the British Assemblies; in 1873 and 1882 he went as deputy to the North-West and British Columbia; in 1882 he was moderator of assembly, and in 1884 and 1889 delegate to the Pan-Presbyterian Alliances in Belfast and London. In addition to platform and press contributions he has published six volumes.

RIGHT HON. SIR JOHN ALEXANDER MACDONALD, K.C. M.G., D.C.L., LL.D., was born in Glasgow, Scotland, on the 11th of January, 1815. He was the second son of Hugh Macdonald, Sutherlandshire, who emigrated to Canada when John was in his fifth year. The family first settled near Kingston, then moved to the Bay of Quinte, when John, being in his tenth year, was sent to the Royal grammar school at Kingston. When 16 years of age, he began the study of law in the office of George Mackenzie. One of his first efforts on the completion of his course was defending an unfortunate Pole, captured in the Rebellion of '37. His address brought him so prominently into notice that in 1844 he was elected for Kingston, his maiden speech being a reply to the Hon. Robert Baldwin. After this he was made Receiver-General, and, subsequently, Minister of Crown Lands. On the downfall of the Hincks-Morin administration, he became Attorney-General under Sir Allan McNab until its resignation, when Mr. George Brown was called upon to form a ministry. The Governor-General, however, refusing to dissolve the House, the old cabinet was recalled, with Sir John as leader of the Upper Canada division, and Sir George E. Cartier leader of the Lower Canada division. Then came the Sandfield Macdonald and Taché-Macdonald (John A.) administrations, followed by the "dead-lock" or "fatal balance of parties," that led to a coalition, when George Brown, Oliver Mowat and Wm. McDougall, representing the Reformers, entered the cabinet. In this movement Sir John displayed signal tact and rendered eminent service. From that period until the present (with the exception of the Mackenzie régime, from 1873 to 1878,) Sir John has remained in power. Honors have fallen upon him in rapid succession. A knighthood marked the completion of Confederation. Then in 1879 he was sworn in as a member of the Privy Council, D.C.L. came from Oxford University in 1865, and LL.D. from Queen's, and D.C.L. from Toronto.

In Memoriam.

Since the foregoing sketch was written, Sir John A. Macdonald has passed away. On Friday, May 29th, after taking part in the debate of the evening, he left the House of Commons, where for so long a period he had been chief actor, never to return. After lingering until Saturday evening, June 6th, during which period he was almost unconscious, the heart ceased to beat and the busy brain rested from its arduous labors. The tidings of his illness and death awakened feelings of deepest sympathy and regret among all classes and creeds, and evoked the sorrow of England's Queen and other Sovereigns in the Old World. The land lay under the dark shadow of a death, that only once in a long cycle of years can occur in any nation. Canada has lost many able statesmen in recent years, but the removal of one who, for nearly half a century, had made politics his study, and who, for a large portion of that time, had been leader of the Government and Premier of the Dominion, awakened feelings of sadness in every citizen. Those indeed who were the most bitter political opponents of Sir John Macdonald, were the first to acknowledge his matchless tact, marvellous control of men, singular knowledge of human nature, and surpassing courage and force of character, that enabled him to overcome obstacles that would have crushed weaker minds. The eulogies passed upon the dead statesman were legion, and, in many cases, touching and eloquent. Two of these deserve special mention in this volume—the one by Sir Hector Langevin, the acting leader of the House, and the other, the brilliant oration of the Hon. Wilfred Laurier, the leader of the Opposition, which will, for all time coming, be ranked among the noblest efforts of scholarly statesmen. As was fitting, the country which he loved so well gave him a national burial, the like of which was never before witnessed. In Ottawa and Kingston thousands of strong men with tear-dimmed eyes followed the bier. Faction and party spirit for the time were hushed as the hero “of a thousand glorious wars” was laid beside the dust of kindred.

“ ’Tis little, but it looks in truth
As if the quiet bones were blest,
Among familiar names to rest,
And in the places of his youth.”

And so we leave him to the verdict of posterity, which is for the most part just. The web of life is often very tangled and perplexing, but after death the pattern and colors come out in bolder relief. Incidental faults and imperfections are lost sight of in view of the grand results accomplished.

“ Peace while we shroud the man of men,
Let no unhallowed word be spoken ;
He will not answer thee again,
His mouth is sealed, his wand is broken.

Some holier cause, some vaster trust,
Beyond the veil he may inherit,
O, gently earth receive his dust,
And heaven soothe his troubled spirit.”

HON. WILFRED LAURIER, B.C.L., A.C., P.C., M.P., and leader of the Liberal party of the Dominion, was born November 24th, 1841, at St. Lin, L'Assomption, Quebec. He comes of an old and distinguished family. After finishing his literary studies at the College L'Assomption, he entered the law office of the Hon. R. Laflamme. He was called to the Bar of Lower Canada in 1865, having taken in the previous year the degree of B.C.L. at McGill University. In 1880 he was appointed Q.C. From an early age Mr. Laurier took a deep interest in public questions, and also gave his attention to literature and journalism. He was an earnest advocate of temperance, and delegate to the Dominion Prohibitory Convention of 1875. In 1871 he began public life by being elected to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Quebec. He remained there until 1874, when he entered the House of Commons. At once on taking his seat his brilliant abilities and high character were acknowledged. When Mr. Mackenzie was called upon to form an administration, the portfolio of Inland Revenue was assigned him. Since that time Mr. Laurier has been one of the most prominent and highly respected members of the House. An unflinching supporter of the Opposition, under the Hon. Edward Blake as leader, whom he was unanimously called upon to succeed. Since that time his exceptional ability, gentlemanly conduct, and comprehensive grasp of public affairs, has secured for him, not only the admiration of the Liberal party, but the respect of the government now in power. As a speaker he appears as one who recognizes responsibility attaching to every word he utters. He speaks with a very pure French accent, and is a most effective debater. During the political campaign of 1891 his labors were most abundant and successful, especially in his own province, where he changed the Government majority into a minority. Mr. Laurier was married to Miss Lafontaine May 13th, 1868.

RIGHT REV. JOHN WALSH, Archbishop of Toronto, was born in the parish of Mooncoin, Kilkenny County, Ireland, May 23rd, 1830, and is descended from a very old and influential stock. He received his education at St. John's College, Waterford, and the Seminary of the Sulpicians, Montreal. He was ordained in 1854, when he was appointed to the Brock Mission, Lake Simcoe. In 1857 he was appointed to St. Mary's, Toronto, and soon after the consecration of Bishop Lynch in 1859, he was summoned to aid him as rector of St. Michael's Cathedral, which position he filled for about two years. After this he resumed his administration of St. Mary's as Parish Priest and Vicar-General of the diocese. Shortly after this, owing to the impaired health of the Bishop of Sandwich, it was found necessary to appoint a successor, accordingly the hierarchy of the ecclesiastical Province of Quebec unanimously nominated Vicar-General Walsh as bishop, which was ratified by the Holy See. The consecration of His Lordship took place November 10th, 1867, in St. Michael's Cathedral, Toronto, with great pomp and ceremony. In this exalted office he displayed administrative talent of the highest order. In 1863 he was removed from Sandwich to London and created Bishop of London in 1869. The new cathedral of that diocese may be termed the great work of his episcopate. His Lordship had long set his heart upon raising in God's honor a temple worthy the solemn and sublime rites of the Church of Christ, and the wish of his heart was realized fully, when, in June, 1885, the cathedral was solemnly dedicated. The cost of this splendid structure being somewhat over $140,000. In 1882 he visited Ireland, and, on his return to London, was tendered a reception, accompanied with a purse of $1,000, as a testimony of esteem. After the death of Archbishop Lynch, Bishop Walsh was made Archbishop of Toronto, which elevated office he still holds. He is held in high esteem by all classes, irrespective of creed.

HON. OLIVER MOWAT, Q.C., M.P.P., LL.D., Premier of Ontario, was born at Kingston, Ont., July 22nd, 1820. His father came from Caithnessshire, Scotland, to Canada in 1816. Mr. Mowat received his education in Kingston, having among his fellow pupils Sir John A. Macdonald and the late Hon. John Hillyard Cameron. He began law with Mr. John A. Macdonald, then practicing in Kingston. In the Rebellion of 1837 young Mowat joined the Royalists. After four years he removed to Toronto, and completed his studies under Robert E. Burns. In 1841 he was called to the Bar, and entered into partnership with Mr. Burns, and subsequently with Mr. Vaukoughnet. He soon acquired a large practice. On the dissolution of the firm of Mowat & Vaukoughnet, he was associated with the firms of Mowat, Ewart & Helliwell, and Mowat, Roaf & Davis. About this time Mr. Mowat began to take a lively interest in politics, and entered the Liberal ranks as a pronounced, though constitutional, Reformer. In 1856 he was created Q.C., and appointed to consolidate the General Statutes of Canada. He resigned this position in 1857, and was elected to the House of Assembly for South Ontario. In the brief administration of 1858 he was Provincial Secretary. In 1861 he was re-elected for South Ontario. He held the position of Postmaster-General under the Sandfield Macdonald-Dorion and Taché-Macdonald administrations. In 1864 he was appointed to the Bench, and for eight years adorned the position. In 1872 he re-entered public life, and became Premier of Ontario, and has been representative of North Oxford from that date to the present. He enjoys the confidence of Ontario as an able, patriotic statesman, and despite of the local Opposition and Dominion Government, maintains his large majority. The many measures of legislation he has carried and his victories before the Privy Council of England are known to all. In religion he is a Presbyterian.

REV. A. CARMAN, D. D., General Superintendent of the Methodist Church, was born at Iroquois, Township of Matilda, County of Dundas, Ontario, on June 27th, 1833, and was married to Mary Sisk, eldest daughter of James Sisk, on July 19th, 1860. His parents were Philip Carman, son of Captain Michael Carman, and Emeline Shaver, daughter of Colonel Peter Shaver, U. E. Loyalists. His great-grandparents came in with Sir Johnston's army after the revolutionary war, and settled in Matilda Township. Dr. Carman received his education at the Matilda Common

School, the Dundas County Grammar School, and then at Victoria College, Cobourg, which he entered in 1851 and graduated in 1854. During his busy professional life he has occupied many important positions. From 1854 to 1857 he was head master of the Dundas County Grammar School; in 1857 and 1858 professor of mathematics in Belleville Seminary; from 1858 to 1874 he was principal of Belleville Seminary, president of Albert College, and chancellor of Albert University. From 1874 to 1883, he was Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Canada, and in 1883 was elected General Superintendent of the now united Methodist Church. He has also been principal of the Council of Public Instruction for Ontario; representative of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Canada; to the Methodist Episcopal Church in the United States; and of the Methodist Church, to the same body. Dr. Carman is one of the most genial of ecclesiastics, and whether on the platform, in the presidential chair, in committee work, or in the pulpit, commands the full confidence and esteem of his brethren. The amount of work that he attends to is amazing, for since the death of the lamented Dr. Williams, his colleague, Dr. Carman has attended to the multifarious details of the former joint office. He is a powerful preacher, a writer of great force, but his distinguishing characteristic is probably, as a presiding officer and administrator, of ecclesiastical law.

SIR DANIEL WILSON, LL.D., F.R.S.E., president of University College, Toronto, was born in the ancient metropolis of Scotland in 1816. After passing through the High School, he entered the university of his native city. At the age of twenty-one he betook himself to London to push his fortunes there. After a residence of several years, during which he relied for support chiefly on the rewards of literary work, he again turned his face northward and continued to wield the pen in Edinburgh. Sir Daniel was also then, and still is, distinguished by an ardent love for archæological studies; and naturally gravitated towards the society of antiquaries. Before his departure from Scotland three works proceeded from his pen—"Memorials of Edinburgh in the Olden Time," "Oliver Cromwell and the Protectorate," and "The Archæology and Prehistoric Annals of Scotland." This volume received the warmest praise from reviewers, both in Britain and America. In 1853 he was invited to accept the chair of History and English Literature in University College, Toronto. In 1862 his new work appeared—"Prehistoric Man; Researches into the Origin of Civilization in the Old and New World;" "Chatterton; A Biographical Study," was published in 1869; "Calitan, the Missing Link," appeared in 1873, and during the same year he republished a collection of poems entitled "Spring Flowers." In 1878 Sir Daniel issued his most recent work, "Reminiscences of Old Edinburgh." In addition to these works, he has contributed a number of articles, both to the eighth and ninth editions of the "Encyclopædia Britannica." Sir Daniel is connected with various public institutions in Toronto, such as the Boys' Home, the Newsboys' Home, and in the Young Men's Christian Association he has taken an active part, and was for some years its president. He is an earnest member of the Church of England and an ardent adherent of the Evangelical party, but his sympathies are too broad to be contained in any one church.

RIGHT REV. A. SWEATMAN, D.D., D.C.L., Bishop of Toronto, was born at London, England, in November, 1834. He is a son of Dr. John Sweatman, of the Middlesex Hospital, London. He received his early education at the hands of private tutors. In 1855 he entered Christ's College, Cambridge, and obtained a scholarship the following year, and in 1859 graduated B.A., taking honors in mathematics. The same year he was ordained deacon in St. Paul's Cathedral, and in the following year was ordained priest at Chapel Royal, Whitehall, by the late Right

Rev. Dr. Tait, then Bishop of London, and afterwards Archbishop of Canterbury. For some years after this he held, first—the Curacy of Holy Trinity, Islington, and then a mastership in the Proprietary School, at the same time officiating as curate of St. Stephen's, Canonbury. Mr. Sweatman proceeded M.A. in 1862, and in 1865 he was offered the position of head master in the Hellmuth Boys' College in Canada, which position he accepted and filled with great satisfaction for seven years. He then accepted a position in Upper Canada College as mathematical master, but in 1872 resigned this position to accept the rectorship of Grace Church, Brantford, where he ministered for two years, when he was again induced to assume charge of Hellmuth College. In 1875 he was appointed canon of the Cathedral at London, and shortly afterwards was created archdeacon of Brant, and rector in charge of St. Paul's, Woodstock. In 1879 he was chosen, by the almost unanimous vote of the Synod, to the vacant Bishopric of Toronto, which high and responsible office he still fills and adorns by his learning, his virtues, and his zeal. The capacity for administration in His Lordship as a teacher and a priest, finds fuller scope for its exercise in the episcopal seat, and is there revealed more fully, and there more brightly shine his intellectual gifts. Dr. Sweatman received his degree of D.D., jure dignitatis, from the University of Cambridge in 1879.

HON. JOHN H. HAGARTY, Chief Justice of Ontario, was born on September 17th, 1816, in Dublin, Ireland. His father was examiner of Her Majesty's Court of Prerogative for Ireland. After the careful training of a private school, he entered Trinity College, where he completed his education. He came to Toronto in 1834, entered the law office of the late George Duggan in 1835, and was called to the Bar in 1840. He at once began practice in Toronto, and in 1846 entered into partnership with the late John Crawford. His first appearances at the Bar gave promise of a brilliant future, and he soon acquired a large and lucrative practice. In 1850 he was made Q.C. by the Baldwin administration. In 1856, a vacancy occurring on the Bench, he was offered the appointment, which he accepted. He was not less distinguished among his brother judges than he had been at the Bar, so that when, in 1868, a vacancy occurred in the Chief Justiceship of Common Pleas, he was elevated to that office. In his judgments Chief Justice Hagarty shows a wide knowledge of law, a thorough grasp of principles, and a fearlessness in the discharge of duty. They are all marked by careful thought and elaborate research. In addition to his high judicial abilities, his name is not unfamiliar to the lovers of belles lettres in connection with his poetical contributions from time to time. Indeed, it has been said, that in Chief Justice Hagarty "a good poet was sacrificed to the lawyer and the judge." With general literature he is also thoroughly familiar, and there is a thrill of literary fervor in his conversation when he meets with congenial spirits. Among the many eminent men who have given grace and dignity to the Bench in Canada, Chief Justice Hagarty occupies the very front rank. Apart from his eminent judicial abilities, he is held in the highest esteem by all classes in the Dominion, and in his position as Chief Justice he commands the confidence of the Bench and the Bar.

DAVID LESLIE PHILIP, M.D., was born at Richmond, Que., on the 2nd of January, 1841. He was educated at the High School, Vankleek Hill, and subsequently at McGill College, Montreal, where he graduated in 1863, obtaining first prize for thesis, and also in clinical medicine. His parents, on coming to Canada, settled in Richmond. On graduating he settled in Woodstock, in partnership with Dr. Torquand. He afterwards went to Plattsville where, for six years, he enjoyed a very large practice, and then removed to Brantford. On leaving Plattsville, the medical profession entertained him at dinner and presented him with a handsome case of surgical instruments. Dr. Philip has been for twelve years member of the Collegiate Institute board, and for three years, chairman. In 1884 he was elected vice-president of the Ontario Medical Association, and in 1885 representative to the Erie and Niagara division of the Ontario Medical Council, and again in 1890, without opposition, for a second term of five years. He is a member of Zion Presbyterian Church and of the board of management; also a member of various local societies.

DAVID LESLIE PHILIP, M.D.

ROBERT HENRY.

ROBERT HENRY, of the firm of A. Watts & Co., Brantford, was born on the 30th of November, 1845, in Perthshire, Scotland, from whence his parents came in 1854, and settled in Brantford. He was educated at the Brantford schools. Beginning business life early he has, by indomitable energy, raised himself to a prominent position in the mercantile world. He was married on the 16th of December, 1879, to Carrie, daughter of the late Mr. Anthony Philip, of Vankleek Hill. Mr. Henry has been president of the South Brant Agricultural Society, of St. Andrews Society, of the South Brant Conservative Association, and is a director of the Brantford Young Ladies' College and vice-president of the board. In religion he is Presbyterian, and member of the board of management of Zion Church. In 1878 and 1879 he was mayor of Brantford, and again elected in 1887. In politics he is conservative and at election time does yeoman work for his party. There is no man held in higher esteem by all classes in the community, or one who is more devoted to the interests of his adopted city.

HUGH ROBERTSON, M.D., Professor of Anatomy, Trinity Medical College, was born in Thorold, County of Welland, Ont. His parents were John and Jean Taylor Robertson, natives of Scotland. The family are descendants of the Robertsons who acquired Orkney and other lands in Nairnshire (1450 A.D.), and also possessed the estate of Struan in Perthshire. He entered Victoria Medical College in 1867. In 1870 he graduated from Toronto University with honors, and was licensed by the College of Physicians and Surgeons. He then went to Europe, studied in St. Thomas' Hospital, London, and received the degree of M.R.C.S., England. In 1872 he began practice in Toronto and was elected professor of anatomy in Trinity University, and in 1874 examiner of anatomy in the College of Physicians and Surgeons. In 1879 he was elected treasurer of Trinity Medical College, and in 1887 its representative on the senate of the University of Toronto. In 1880 he was chosen as medical director of the Canadian Mutual Life Association, and in 1888 a director of the British America Assurance Co. Dr. Robertson is a member of the Presbyterian Church.

EMERSON COATSWORTH, Jr., M.P., LL.B., barrister, Toronto, was born in that city March 9th, 1854. He was educated at the public schools, and studied privately for matriculation into the Law Society. Afterwards he attended Osgoode Hall, and graduated in law in Toronto University in 1886. His father, now City Commissioner of Toronto, was a builder, which trade his son also followed until 1873, when, on his father accepting his present office, he, his brother and cousin continued the business until 1875, when the firm dissolved. Mr. Coatsworth began the study of law in 1875 with Mr. (now Justice) Rose, and completed his course in 1879, when he entered the firm of Rose, Macdonald, Merritt & Coatsworth. This firm continued until 1883, when Mr. Rose was made Judge. Mr. Coatsworth then practiced alone, and afterwards entered into partnership with Frank E. Hodgins. Subsequently Walter A. Geddes was added, and it is now known as Coatsworth, Hodgins & Co. The firm has now a high standing. Mr. Coatsworth was married September 19th, 1883, to Helen, daughter of John Robertson, of De Cew Falls. He was elected M.P. for East Toronto in 1891.

WILLOUGHBY STAPLES BREWSTER, barrister at law, was born on the 9th of July, 1860, in Haldimand, county of Northumberland, and was married on the 16th of August, 1887, to Mary L. Horning, daughter of James Horning, librarian, Brantford Public Library. He was educated at Cobourg Collegiate Institute, and finished his art course at Victoria College, where he took his degree in 1882. He took several honors, such as gold medals in classics and Prince of Wales' silver medal. In his early years he was brought up on a farm and during his attendance at college worked on the farm during vacation. In the year 1880 he retired from active agricultural pursuits and settled in the town where he has resided ever since. During recent years he has not engaged in any business, but has devoted considerable time to the interests of the town, filling numerous offices of importance. He was married on the 17th of November, 1875, to Annie Salina, youngest daughter of Captain James B. Harris, late of Her Majesty's 24th Regiment. Coming from a military race, his father being Colonel of Her Majesty's 56th Foot, Captain Cox having passed his military examinations, joined the volunteer forces of Canada in 1871. He commanded the Paris Company for eight years, and retired with rank in 1882. In politics Captain Cox is a Liberal-Conservative, and is president of the Conservative Association for the South Riding of Brant. He is also secretary of the Paris Board of Trade, and of the Masonic fraternity, offices which he has held for some years, and he is a Past Master of the latter. He has been connected with various local athletic associations. Capt. Cox is a member of the Anglican Church, warden of St. James Church, Paris, and delegate to the Synod of Huron. Mr. Echlin received his education at Cobourg Collegiate Institute and Victoria University, where he graduated as B.A. in 1878, obtaining the Prince of Wales silver medal for general proficiency. Three years later he received the degree of M.A. While an undergraduate he taught two years as assistant master in the Brantford Collegiate Institute, and after graduation held the position of head master in the Caledonia High School. At college he was a general favorite with all his fellow students, who elected him by acclamation, in his final year at college as president of the Literary Society of Victoria University. In September, 1880, Mr. Echlin entered the law office of Messrs. McClive, Gilleland & Pattison, St. Catharines, and two years later the office of Messrs. Blake, Kerr, Lash & Casseles, Toronto. He was called to the Bar in the Easter term of 1883, and shortly afterwards commenced the practice of his profession in Toronto. While courteous to all, he is a man of aggressive nature. In professional contests he is neither disposed to grant nor accept favors. His recognized abilities and exceptional capacity for work must place him ere long in the front rank of his profession, and probably lead ultimately to the Bench, which is the desired goal of the legal profession. Mr. Echlin is a member of the Ontario Reform Club and Young Men's Liberal Club, and an office-holder in the Reform Association, Toronto. In politics he is an advanced Liberal. On his removal from the London to the Kingston Asylum, he was presented with a handsome gold watch by the officers and employees of the former institution, and on leaving Kingston was presented with a fine microscope. He has devoted considerable time to botany and has a fine collection of the Canadian flora. Dr. Millman is a member of St. Philip's Episcopal Church, Toronto, and holds the office of church warden. He is a Mason of fifteen years' standing and a Past Master of the Order. He left school at the age of sixteen and commenced business with his father, I. Cockshutt. Furness & Co., provision merchants and steamship owners, and then to London; and through Messrs. Peek Bros. & Co., wholesale tea and spice merchants, he received instructions in that branch of trade. After remaining in London a few months he came back to Canada and took the management of a branch of his father's business until 1882, when he commenced business for himself. He has now an extensive business in groceries and provisions, and also in hardware. For many years Mr. Cockshutt was a member of the Farringdon Church, and an acceptable preacher among them, but latterly he has been an adherent of Grace Episcopalian Church, Brantford. He has taken great interest in the Farringdon Debating Society, being one of the charter members of the re-organized society, and for two years its president. In 1887 he was the Conservative candidate to contest the riding of South Brant with Wm. Patterson, M.P., but after an able campaign was defeated. He was president of the Brantford

Board of Trade in 1888. For about three years he was president of the Cockshutt Plow Co., from which he retired in 1889. He is a member of the Toronto Board of Trade, and is well and favorably known to the business community of that city and also of Montreal. Mr. Cockshutt visits Europe once a year, and enjoys the full confidence of many of the great mercantile houses in the United Kingdom. He has been a great traveller, having crossed the Atlantic twenty-four times, the continent four times, and made a complete tour of Cuba, Mexico, United States and Canada.

ALBERT OGDEN, barrister and solicitor, Toronto, was born 29th September, 1847, in the township of Toronto, County of Peel, Ont. His parents were William J. Ogden, officer in the York County Militia, and Rebecca Ogden. His father's family can be traced back to the time of Charles II., and one of his ancestors received recognition and coat armor for services rendered the king. He was educated at the public schools, a commercial college, and the Toronto Collegiate Institute. In 1871 he entered the law office of Cameron, McMichael and Hoskin, was called to the Bar in 1876, and became junior member of the firm. On the elevation of Mr. Cameron to the Bench in 1878, the firm became McMichael, Hoskin & Ogden. In 1889 Messrs. Hoskin and Ogden formed their present partnership. He is a member, and the chief official for many years, of Queen Street Methodist Church, also a member of the I.O.O.F., being a Past Master of his lodge, and is a member of the Sons of England Society and other organizations. In politics he is a Liberal. On the 20th December, 1877, he was married to Mary, daughter of Edward Leadlay, merchant, of Toronto.

WILLIAM CASE ADAMS, L.D.S., practicing Dental Surgeon, Toronto, Ont., was born on the 18th of October, 1823, at Lundy's Lane, Niagara, and is the son of the late Rev. Ezra Adams, Methodist minister. In 1857 he married Matilda Osman, daughter of John Osman, Esq., of Seneca Falls, N.Y., by whom he has one daughter. Dr. Adams' education was carried on under difficulties, his father being an itinerant minister. At an early age he was left to make his own living. When only sixteen he left home and commenced working at the carpenter's trade, and soon earned enough money to attend school; he afterwards taught school, and finally attended Victoria College and was studying medicine, when he was advised by a dentist to turn his attention to dentistry. He took the advice and studied under the direction of an English practitioner. In 1852 he began practice and settled in Toronto in 1854. He is now the oldest practicing dental surgeon in the city. Dr. Adams is a member of the Methodist Church, and has been class leader for many years. He is also a member of the Masonic Order, and is Past Chaplain in the Royal Arcanum Lodge, Toronto.

THE HON. EDWARD BLAKE, Q.C., eldest son of William Hume Blake, was born at Bear Creek, county of Middlesex, on the 13th October, 1833. When Edward was a few months old his father removed to Toronto. As a lad he gave evidence of great mental powers. He was an omnivorous reader, had unusual capacity for assimilation, and an excellent memory. He was a successful competitor for the Governor-General's prize, and subsequently entered the Toronto University. He was admitted as attorney in 1856, and the following Michaelmas term was called to the bar. He carried on business for some time alone, and then entered into partnership with Mr. Stephen Waule Jarvis. Thereafter, the name of the firm many times changed. In 1858 he married Margaret, daughter of the late Bishop Cronyn, of Huron.

Ever since 1867 the Reform party recognized what a gain it would be to add Edward Blake's ability and high character to its ranks. After much earnest solicitation he consented to their request and was elected to the House of Commons for West Durham. In December, 1869, he became leader of the Provincial opposition. In the Ontario elections of 1871 John Sandfield Macdonald's Government lost many supporters. On the assembling of the Legislature, Mr. McKenzie moved a want of confidence and Mr. Blake supported the motion. The ministry being overthrown, Mr. Blake was called to form a government, a task which he accepted against his inclination. In the autumn he resigned his leadership to take his seat in the House of Commons. On the downfall of Sir John A. Macdonald's administration, Mr. Blake entered Mr. McKenzie's cabinet, without portfolio, but resigned on the following February. In 1875 he accepted office again as Minister of Justice. In 1877 he resigned this office and became president of the council. Shortly after the downfall of the administration, he was chosen leader of the Opposition in place of Mr. McKenzie, and was succeeded by Mr. Laurier.

He was brought up in the Presbyterian faith, and attends the Bloor Street Presbyterian Church, Toronto, but is a Unitarian in belief.  was called to Caledonia immediately on completing his theological studies, and was ordained and inducted on June 5th, 1888. He was unanimously called to Hamilton in January, 1891.

PROF. GOLDWIN SMITH, M.A., LL.D. and D.C.L., Toronto, was born on the 13th of August, 1823, at Reading, England, where his father had been for some time a practicing physician. Like so many other distinguished Englishmen, he received his early education at Eton, which school was soon to receive added honors by his brilliant university course at Oxford. He first entered as an under-graduate of Christ Church, but on being elected to a demyship in Magdalen he completed his course in that college. Two years after graduation, he was offered and accepted a fellowship of University College, of which institution he became tutor. In 1840 he was called to the bar at Lincoln's Inn, but minds like his seldom find in the law a permanent attraction, and Mr. Smith was won to life-long service to literature. In 1858 he was elected professor of modern history at Oxford. When he visited America in 1864 he received from the Brown University the degree of LL.D. From his own university at Oxford he subsequently had conferred upon him the degree of D.C.L. He staunchly advocated the abolition of slavery, and warmly sympathized with the North during the Civil war. Four years after his first arrival in America he was appointed lecturer in English and constitutional history in Cornell University at Ithaca, N.Y., and this office he still holds, although for the past twelve years he has been a resident of Toronto. In 1872 he was appointed a member of the Senate of Toronto University, was elected the representative of the public school teachers on the council of public instruction, and for two years president of the Provincial Teachers' Association. Since coming to Canada, Mr. Smith has devoted his time and genius to a furtherance of all projects that can advance the people, intellectually, socially, and morally. He established The Bystander, and took part in establishing The Week. In 1875 he married the widow of the late Wm. Boulton, of Toronto. As a master of style, he has no superior.

EDWARD HARTLEY DEWART, D. D., editor of the Christian Guardian, Toronto, was born in county Cavan, Ireland, in 1828, and was married June 25th, 1856, to Miss Matilda Hunt, of Hamilton. When he was six years old, he came with his parents to Canada, the family settling in Peterboro county, Ontario. Educational advantages at that time were few, but young Dewart was a persistent student. In 1847 he became a student of the Normal School, and afterwards taught school, and, in coming back for another session, assisted the professors in teaching. In 1851 he was called to the ministry of the Wesleyan Methodist Church, of which he had been a member since 1843. His ministerial labors commenced in St. Thomas circuit, he then travelled for one year each in Port Hope and Thorold circuits. On the completion of his probation he was stationed in Dundas, then in 1856 as superintendent of St. Andrew's circuit on the Ottawa River, then on the Odelltown circuit, and in 1860 in Montreal West. Owing to enfeebled health, resulting from overwork, he was compelled to retire for nearly a year. Restored to health, he was for three years superintendent of the St. John's circuit, and afterwards stationed at Collingwood, Toronto, and Ingersoll. In 1869 he was elected editor of the Christian Guardian, a position which he has filled for over twenty-one years with marked ability. At the late General Conference he was re-elected for another term. In 1873 Dr. Dewart was a delegate to the English Wesleyan Conference, and in 1881 to the Ecumenical Methodist Conference held in London, England. He was president of the Toronto Conference in 1883, and of the Canadian Press Association in 1889, and a delegate to the Methodist Ecumenical Conference of 1891. Notwithstanding the large amount of church work and editorial duties devolving upon him, he has done a good deal of enduring work with his pen, in prose and verse. He is a vigorous writer, a powerful debater, and an able preacher.

In 1867 he was appointed assistant curate at St. George's, Toronto, and in 1867 went to England, and became assistant curate of the Anglican Church at Stratton, St. Margaret's. Returning to Canada in 1868, he became missionary successively at Beverley, Woodbridge and Vaughan, where he remained five years. In 1873 he came to Toronto and took charge of the mission parish of St. Matthias—since the "mother" of several churches. In 1877 he was delegate to the Provincial Synod at Montreal. REV. CHENEY BURDETT, superannuated Methodist minister of Ridgetown, Ont., was born on May 1st, 1826, in England. He lost his parents in very early life, and was left entirely to his own unaided exertions, not only to gain a livelihood, but to procure his education. Notwithstanding, however, all these drawbacks, by diligence, perseverance, and force of character, he acquired solid attainments in the departments of science, theology, ecclesiastical history, and other departments of study. During the thirty-three years of his active ministry he was the stationed superintendent of eighteen different circuits. Mr. Burdett is an exceedingly forcible speaker, and has been unusually successful in revival services, and in the great camp meetings of former years in Canada. He was married on May 2nd, 1852, to Nancy Rouse, who died in 1881, leaving four children, one of whom is Mrs. Dr. Brien, of the County of Essex, and afterwards was married to Mrs. Emily McTavish, on November 14th, 1882. Men of Mr. Burdett's stamp have done much to mould the moral and religious life of this country.

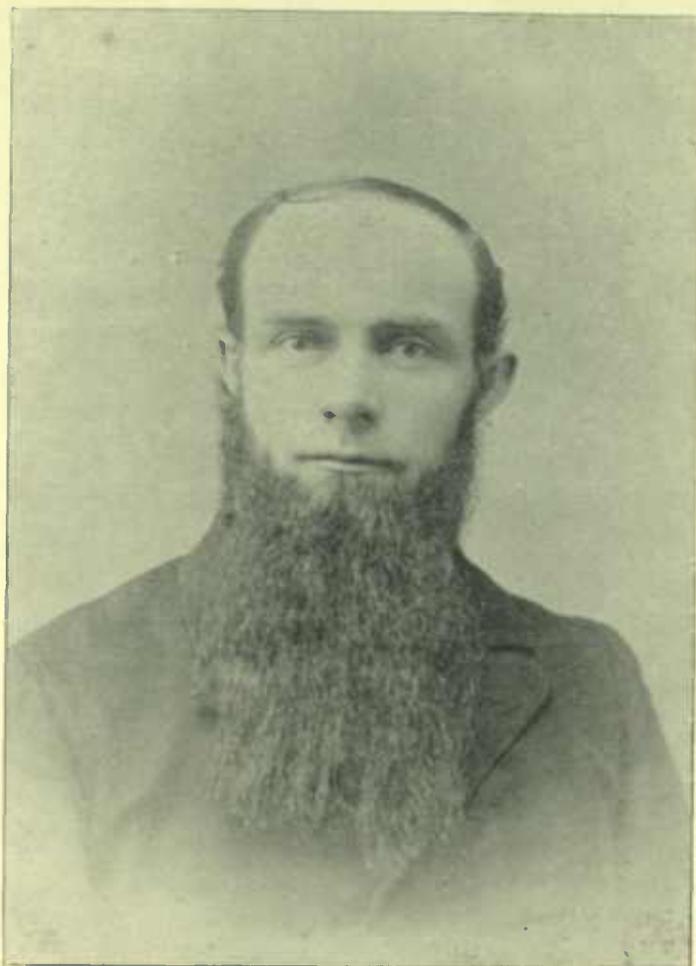

REV. CHENEY BURDETT.

REV. JOHN KAY, pastor of Wellington Street Methodist Church, Brantford, was born in Napanee, Ont., on the 20th May, 1838. His father was from Ireland and his mother a native of England. His father studied for some years in preparation for the ministry, but did not complete his course. He was an excellent public speaker. He followed the lumber business in the village of Newburgh, where young Kay received the rudiments of his education. When he had scarcely reached his fourteenth year, his father died, leaving a widow and three children, of whom the subject of our sketch was the oldest. The family shortly afterwards left Newburgh and settled in Camborne, in the vicinity of Cobourg. Here he consecrated himself to the church and became a local preacher, prosecuting, while still engaged in other business, his studies in preparation for the ministry. In 1862 he was received into the Conference and was appointed to assist the Rev. S. B. Gundy in St. Mary's. He made satisfactory progress in his literary curriculum, taking also a course in philosophy and theology under the late Rev. Wm. McClure. Mr. Kay has, since his ordination, been stationed in Ingersoll (twice), Milton, Waterdown, Tilsonburg, London, Waterford, Thorold, Hamilton and Brantford, where he has entered upon his third year. He has occupied important positions, such as secretary of the Conference, chairman of Districts, was representative to the General Conference in Toronto in 1886, in Montreal in 1890, and president of the Niagara Conference in 1890. He has always been a strong friend of the temperance movement, and has been a member of the Sons of Temperance, the Good Templars and Royal Templars. In theology he is progressive, yet conservative. In 1871 he published an interesting biography of his father-in-law, the Rev. W. Gundy, and has on several occasions contributed to periodical literature. He also takes a lively interest in educational matters, and in everything pertaining to the welfare of his native land.

REV. B. F. AUSTIN, M.A., B.D., Principal of Alma Ladies' College, St. Thomas, was born on September 21, 1850, in the township of Brighton, County of Northumberland, and was married on the 16th June, 1881, to Miss Frances Amanda Connell. Mr. Austin was educated at Albert University, Belleville, having his preparatory training at the Brighton grammar and common schools. At the age of sixteen he began teaching in the township of Brighton, where he remained three and a half years. In 1871 he entered the ministry of the M. E. Church, and was ordained in 1877. During his attendance at the university, he edited the Temperance Union, and in vacation time lectured and organized lodges. He graduated B.A. in 1877 and B.D. in 1881, preached a year in the Brighton circuit, a year in Frankford circuit, one year each in Cobourg and Ottawa, three years in Prescott, and then went to the Metropolitan Church in Ottawa, from which, after a three months pastorate, he was taken to his present position in Alma College. Since that date (1881), he has, with singular ability and success, promoted the interests of this important institution. Mr. Austin has been busy with his pen for many years. In 1879 he published a volume of sermons by various ministers, under the title of "The M. E. Pulpit," the profits being given for mission purposes. In 1880 he published a small volume, entitled "Sins of the Times;" in 1884, "The Gospel to the Poor vs. Pew Rents;" in 1889, a pamphlet on "The Jesuits," which has already run through four editions; and in the same year he edited a handsome volume, entitled "Woman: Her Character, Culture and Calling." Mr. Austin is much sought after for the platform and pulpit, and renders valuable service to churches of his own and other denominations. He is a strong advocate of union between the Evangelical churches, and a prominent member of the Equal Rights Party, in its efforts to spread sound Protestant doctrines and thwart Romish aggression.

REV. WM. BRIGGS, D.D., who has recently been unanimously elected for the fourth time as Book Steward of the Methodist Church, is a native of the Emerald Isle. His parents were members of the Wesleyan Church. When about six years old he was taken to Liverpool, where he received his early education, being for some time under the training of the celebrated Dean Howson. His diligence as a student gave promise of great usefulness in the future. In early boyhood he professed the faith of his parents and soon began to exercise his gifts. Eventually his name appeared on the local preachers' list in the Liverpool circuit. In 1859 he was called to the ministry, and introduced to the Wesleyan Conference in Canada by the president, the late Rev. Dr. Stiinson. Commencing his ministry in the province of Quebec he came westward to such important centres as Montreal, Belleville, Cobourg, Toronto, London, and Hamilton, in some of which he was stationed more than one term. He has also been chairman of districts and president of the Toronto Conference. Dr. Briggs' early business training has been of immense benefit to him in his present position. Under his management the book room has become the largest publishing house in the Dominion. For well nigh half a century its headquarters were in King street, Toronto, until increasing business demanded greater space. Now Wesley buildings is one of the attractions of the Queen City of the West. In addition to his business engagements, Dr. Briggs preaches nearly every Sabbath in some part of Canada, and his pulpit ministrations, fresh and vigorous, are eagerly sought after. He is a man always ready to help in every good cause, who has the courage of his convictions, and is respected for his manly independence. Rarely do we find combined in one man such power to grasp the details of a large business, and at the same time, a pulpit eloquence which thrills the large audiences that constantly greet him.

SIR WILLIAM PEARCE HOWLAND, C.B., K.C.M.G., Toronto, is of English descent, his American progenitor being one John Howland, a Quaker, who emigrated with the band of pilgrims who landed on "the bleak New England shores" in 1620. He is a native of Dutchess county, New York, and was born in the town of Paulings 29th of May, 1811. He was educated at the Kinderhook Academy, and came to Canada in 1830, settling in the township of Toronto and engaging in business in partnership with his brother. Sir William has been an influential member of the Toronto Board of Trade, and its president for several years. He is also president of the Ontario Bank, the Anchor Marine Insurance Company, the London and Canadian Loan and Agency Company, the Ontario Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and the Confederation Life Association of Canada. He was a member of the executive council, July 1st, 1867, was sworn in one of the Privy Council and became Minister of Inland Revenue, holding that position until July, 1868, when he was appointed Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario. From 1857 to 1868 he represented the constituency of West York. He has at different times been minister of finance, receiver-general, postmaster-general, a member of the Privy Council, a commissioner to visit Washington, and to the London Conference 1866-67, and in 1873 filled the position of Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario. Her Majesty created him C.B. in July, 1867, and in May, 1879, conferred upon him the order of Knighthood. Sir William has been twice married, first in 1843 to Mrs. Webb, who died in 1859; again in 1866 to the widow of the late Captain Hunt. He is modest and unassuming in disposition, honorable in the highest sense, and possessing the instincts of a true gentleman.

CHARLES O'REILLY, M.D., C.M., (McGill College), Medical Superintendent of Toronto General Hospital, was born in Hamilton, Ont., 19th of June, 1846. He is the eldest son of the late Gerald O'Reilly, M.D., L.R.C.S.I., of Ballinlough, County Meath, Ireland, and a descendant of the ancient family of Brefney O'Reilly, A.D. 611. Dr. O'Reilly was educated in Hamilton at private schools, and, in 1863, matriculated at McGill, where he passed through the regular curriculum of four years for the degree of Doctor of Medicine and Master of Surgery. As he was not of age when he finished he did not receive his diploma until he attained his majority, when he was unanimously appointed Resident Physician of the Hamilton City Hospital. He held this position from 1867 to 1876, when he removed to Toronto. In 1868 he was gazetted Assistant Surgeon of the 13th Battalion, Hamilton, and in 1870 was elected secretary and treasurer of the Hamilton Medical and Surgical Society, the duties of which office he performed for years. His recognised medical skill and experience in hospital management then led to his appointment as Medical Superintendent of the Toronto General Hospital. On leaving his native city, Dr. O'Reilly was the recipient of many flattering testimonials. During his connection with the Toronto Hospital many important additions have been made.

He is now Clinical Examiner in Surgery for both the Medical Council of Ontario and the University of Toronto, and is also Examiner in Surgery of Trinity. In 1890 he received the honorary ad eundem degree of M.D. from Trinity University in recognition of his services on behalf of practical medical education. In 1876 he was married to Sophia, youngest daughter of the late George Rolph, barrister, Dundas, and neice of Hon. John Rolph, M.D., Toronto. Dr. O'Reilly has three brothers—Dr. Gerald O'Reilly, of Fergus, Dr. E. B. O'Reilly, of Hamilton, and Mr. H. H. O'Reilly, agent of the Bank of Hamilton, Owen Sound.

In 1879 he made a lengthened visit to Europe and studied in the hospitals of Dublin, Edinburgh and London. For some years past he has spent several months each summer in the hospitals and post graduate medical schools in New York, devoting special attention to diseases of the skin and the kidneys. Immediately after graduation, Dr. Stuart was appointed Professor of Practical Chemistry in Trinity Medical College, Toronto, and is now Associate Professor of General Chemistry. In 1878 he was appointed Professor of Anatomy and Physiology in the Royal College of Dental Surgeons, Ontario, and in 1879 was appointed Professor of Chemistry, which professorship he still holds. Dr. Stuart took a certificate from the Toronto Military School under Colonel Denison, and still takes a deep interest in military affairs.

In his youth he was an adherent of Zion Presbyterian Church, Brantford, (Rev. Dr. Cochrane's) and is now a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Toronto. He is married to Margaret B. Gibson, daughter of the late Rev. Hamilton Gibson, Presbyterian clergyman. His brother, the late Rev. J. L. Stuart, of Trenton, Ontario, (who died in the Southern States), was celebrated for his literary and poetical productions, and his surviving brother, Rev. J. G. Stuart, is now the successful minister of St. Mark's Presbyterian Church in Toronto.

RICHARD CADDICK, solicitor and attorney-at-law, Toronto, was born 23rd November, 1833, at Westbromwich, Eng. His father was Richard Caddick, coal master and corn merchant there. He was married February 13th, 1869, to Elizabeth, daughter of Wm. Howe, Norfolk, Eng. Mr. Caddick was educated at Mackworth College, Derbyshire, and Sheffield Wesleyan College, Eng. In 1868, on account of ill-health, he came to Canada, and in 1870 entered the law office of Blake, Kerr & Cassels, Toronto, and was admitted to practice in 1872. Mr. Caddick is a member of the Methodist Church, and takes an active part in denominational matters, having filled many important offices. STEPHEN MOFFATT HAY, M.D., practicing physician, of Toronto, Ont., was born on the 1st of October, 1857, in Wellington County, Ont., and is the son of the late Robert Hay, of Maryboro. Dr. Hay was educated at Listowel, Guelph and St. Catharines Collegiate Institutes. In 1881 he entered the Toronto School of Medicine and graduated in 1885 from Victoria University. Although still a young man, he has gained the confidence of the medical profession to a very large extent, and has reached his present position by well recognized ability and indomitable effort. Dr. Hay is a member of Queen Street Methodist Church, Toronto, a member of the official board of that congregation, and takes an active interest in all good works connected with his church. He is also a member of various fraternal societies.

Mr Hague helped to start the Sheffield Free Press, for which he wrote many editorials. At the age of twenty-two he left business in order to prepare for Oxford, and read two years with Dr. Moorehouse, now Bishop of Manchester. He won a scholarship, but being beyond the statutory age, he went back to business as sub-manager of a private bank near Wolverhampton. He has been delegate to Ruri-Decimal Conferences and Diocesan Synods of the Church of England, and has ever been an enthusiastic supporter of social reforms, universal education, and all efforts to ameliorate the lot of the poor. He came to Canada in 1871, and since then has contributed largely to the press of the Dominion on finance and social topics, and is the author of well-known pamphlets. He then entered the wholesale shipping house of Kennedy, Sholes & Co., and, after two years, took the management of the shipping department of William Graham & Co., Manchester, Eng. After remaining in this position five years, he came to Hamilton in 1863, and has remained there ever since, having been for the past five years manager of the Singer Manufacturing Company in that city. Mr. Hargrove was brought up an Anglican, but is now a Methodist. He is a member of the Masonic body, is a Royal Arch Mason and Knight Templar, and in politics is an active Conservative.

THOMAS V. GEARING.

THOMAS VERNON GEARING, Toronto, was born January 17th, 1853, at Llangadock, Caermarthanshire, South Wales. He was educated in the National schools of England, and began life as a telegraph operator in the Great Western Railway. In 1870 his uncle, Joseph Gearing, contractor, Toronto, when on a visit to England persuaded him of the great advantages offered young men in Canada, to which he came in 1871, and entered his uncle's employment as a carpenter. In 1880 he began as a builder and contractor, and has built many of the finest blocks and dwellings in Toronto, among which may be mentioned the Medical Hall on Bay street. Mr. Gearing is a member of the Anglican Church. He also belongs to the Masonic brotherhood, is Past Grand Master of the Canadian Order of Odd Fellows, member of the Select Knights of the A.O.U.W., of the Sons of England Society, and other organizations. In politics he is a Conservative. In May, 1887, he married Miss Mary Frances Doward, of Toronto. He stands high in his line of business.

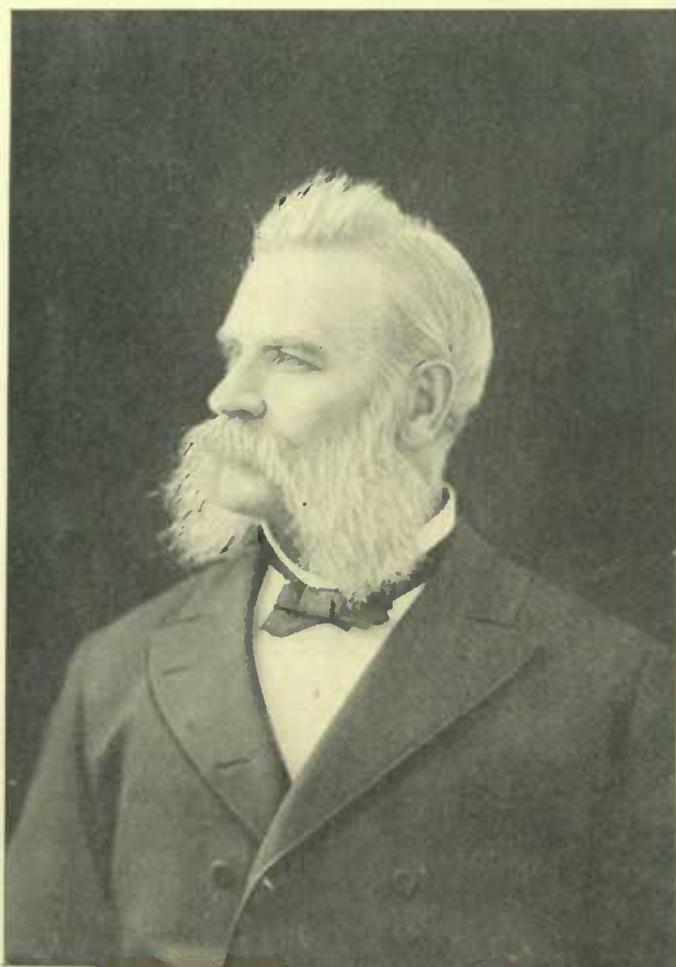

THOMAS HENDERSON, L.D.S., D.D.S., Toronto, Ont., was born on February 27th, 1853, in York County, Ontario, and is the fourth son of Robert and Frances Watson Henderson. When two years old he moved with his parents to a farm in Artemesia Township, County Grey, where he spent his youthful days. Dr. Henderson received his education in the public schools and Collegiate Institutes of Ontario. At the early age of eighteen he began teaching, and taught for nine years, during a portion of which time he was the successful head master of Alliston public school. In 1881 he entered the Royal College of Dental Surgeons of Ontario, and graduated with honors in March, 1883, receiving the college gold medal for theory and practical work. The degree of L.D.S. was also given him, and in 1889 the degree of D.D.S. was conferred upon him by Toronto University. Dr. Henderson is a member of Sherbourne Street Methodist Church, a member of the I.O.O.F., the Society of Foresters, the Ancient Order of United Workmen, and other societies. THOMAS HENDERSON, L.D.S.

WILLIAM MAGILL, Toronto, Ont., was born in Dublin, Ireland, on the 8th of February, 1823, his father, John Magill, being a resident of that city. He was married on the 21st of January, 1862, to Charlotte Ballard, daughter of the Rev. Thomas Ballard, Wesleyan minister. Mr. Magill received his early education in Dublin, and served four years in the study of civil engineering. At the age of twenty he began his career as a teacher, having graduated from the Dublin Normal School, and taught for seven years. During that period he was offered a position in one of the Normal Schools. After this he became the manager of estates, continuing thirteen years in that occupation. In 1866 he came to Canada and settled in Toronto. After a time he took charge of the Academy, formerly conducted by the Rev. Alex. Williams, M.A. In 1871 he removed his establishment to Simcoe street, where he opened a boarding and day school, and gave himself exclusively to the training of boys for the higher walks of professional life, and preparing them for the entrance examinations to the different colleges. Many hundreds of the chief business men of Toronto were trained in Mr. Magill's school, and no man is more favorably known. In Mr. Magill's day the facilities for higher education, now provided, were not within the reach of young Canadians, and, in the opinion of some, it is still held that the individual training of boys in such schools was superior to what is now received in many cases in government institutions. While the classes were not so large, and the competition, possibly, not so great, there was the advantage of individual contact between master and pupil for a longer period than at the present day. In his professional work Mr. Magill has been ably assisted by his wife as teacher of French, music, drawing, English literature, etc. Mr. Magill is a member of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and also of various benevolent societies.

JOHN JAMES MACLAREN, D.C.L., (McGill), LL.D., (Victoria), and Q.C., Toronto, was born near Lachute, Quebec, July 1st, 1842. His parents came from Perthshire, Scotland. He was called to the Bar of Lower Canada in 1868, and in 1878 appointed Q.C. He practiced for some years in Montreal, being senior partner of Maclaren, Leet, Smith & Smith. In 1884 he removed to Toronto. For years he has been a leading counsel at the Bar. Among the famous cases in which he has been engaged are "The Oka Indian Trials," "The winding up of the Mechanics Bank," "The Allan-Witness Libel Case," and those connected with "The Commercial Travelers Association," "The defence of the Canada Temperance Act," which he finally won in the Privy Council. In contested election cases he is frequently retained. Davis, daughter of N. H. Davis, of Hamilton, who died in 1881, leaving one son, Allan Davis Dame, who still survives her. Dr. Dame was educated in the public and private schools, and at the early age of seventeen years began teaching. He entered the Royal Military College at Kingston and graduated in 1866. During the Fenian Invasion he was in command of one of the companies at the frontier. After this he entered the Royal Medical College of Queen's University, Kingston, and graduated with honors, receiving a gold medal as a special reward of merit. After graduating he began his profession in Lincoln County, and, in 1889, removed to Toronto, where he enjoys a large and lucrative practice. Dr. Dame has been a member of the Masonic body since 1872.

REV. JAMES CRAIG TOLMIE, Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Brantford, Ont., was born October 8th, 1862, at Innerkip, County of Oxford, Ont. He is the son of the Rev. A. Tolmie, who, for the last twenty-seven years, has been pastor of the Southampton Presbyterian Church. office of president of Knox College Metaphysical and Literary Society. Mr. Tolmie did very successful work as a missionary in various fields. His father was William Scott, a well known carriage builder in Milton, Ont. He received his education at McGill College, Montreal, and Victoria University, Cobourg. In the year 1881 he entered the ministry of the Canada Methodist Church, and was ordained in June, 1887, since that time he has filled but two appointments—Enniskillen and West Lorne, both in connection with the London Conference. In the following year he began the study of dentistry in the Royal College of Dental Surgeons of Ontario, and graduated with honors in the spring of 1889. In the same year he was granted the degree of D.D.S. by the Toronto University, and at once began the practice of his profession in Toronto. At the inauguration of the Toronto Dental Society in 1890, Dr. McLaughlin was chosen as its first president. He is one of the rising professional young men of the city of Toronto, and occupies a prominent place in the dental profession. He has all the qualities for a successful career.

RICHARD G. McLAUGHLIN.

THE LATE JACOB DANIELS, whose portrait appears on this page, was born in Blenheim Township, Oxford County, Ont., on December 9th, 1834, and died September 18th, 1890. He was married in the year 1854 to Ellen Moore, who, with one son and two daughters, survive him. He learned the business of a saddler and harness maker at Dundas and became an expert workman. After his marriage he started business for himself at Drumbo in the year 1855, and carried it on with growing success for eleven years. He then lost all he had through fire, but with unbounded energy and good credit started business again. In the year 1867 he moved to the city of Brantford and commenced business there, and from that time to the day of his death, was one of the steady, upright, much esteemed, and successful business men of the city. Mr. Daniels was converted in a revival meeting and joined the Methodist Church while at Drumbo early in his married life. He became an earnest Christian man, erected the family altar, on which he never permitted the fires to cease burning until he was called hence. He took a prominent part in church matters from the beginning, and, on his removal to Brantford, he joined the Wellington Street Methodist Church. He was trustee, class leader and steward for many years, a right hand man to the various pastors, and a pillar in the church. He was always at his post of duty, and by his sterling, unostentatious piety, made friends of all the members of the church and congregation. In his death the city of Brantford has lost one of its oldest and most respected business men, and the Wellington Street Methodist Church one of its efficient officials and most exemplary members, while the cause of Christ on earth is deprived of the example and work of a true man. It is to be devoutly hoped that his mantle will fall upon his son Arthur, who is now conducting the business so long and honorably carried on by his father.

JAMES WASHINGTON WESTERVELT, London, Ont., was born at Brampton, County of Peel, 1st January, 1848. He was educated at Brampton High School, under John Seath, B.A., head master, who, after filling several important principalships, was appointed Inspector of High Schools and Collegiate Institutes, which position he now holds. At the age of 16 Mr. Westervelt entered the Registry Office of the County of Peel, and in four years afterwards was appointed Deputy Registrar. He then again returned to the High School and obtained a second class grade certificate and entered upon teaching. This he abandoned in three years for mercantile pursuits, but after two years of business life, he again entered the teacher's profession, and was appointed in February, 1875, Commercial Master of the Brantford public schools, which position he held until 1881, when he resigned, in order to accept the Principalship of the Woodstock Business College, in connection with the Woodstock College. Beginning the college with but one pupil, in four years it had reached such a position under Mr. Westervelt's management, that the Board had to engage an assistant. In 1885 he resigned the Principalship of Woodstock Business College, and organized what is known as the "Forest City Business College" in the city of London. The school was organized with the determination to give the most practical business education to be had, and that Mr. Westervelt has succeeded in this is proved by the large patronage given the college by the business community. The growth of the school has been unprecedented in the history of such institutions. From a small beginning, it has grown to immense proportions. At present there are no less than 150 students in attendance, which is 30 per cent in advance of any similar period of the school's history. Mr. Westervelt was married 28th October, 1870, to Miss Susan Brooks Learment. He is a member of the Talbot Street Baptist Church, London, Ont.

in Trinity Medical College in 1889. He has for several years held the appointment of physician to the Young Women's Christian Association of Toronto. He takes an active part in the medical societies of the city of Toronto and in the province, and is thoroughly abreast with the literature of his profession. He then returned and finished his course in the Royal College of Dental Surgeons, graduating in 1889, receiving the college gold medal for practical work. Dr. Webster is secretary of the Toronto Dental Society, and a member of various fraternal organizations. a private hospital for the treatment of tubercular diseases, which Dr. Wilson

Mr. Evans-Lewis is a member of the Collegiate Institute Board, and a vice-president of the Irish Protestant Benevolent Society. He is an active member of St. Philip's Episcopal Church, superintendent of the Sunday School and lay delegate to the Synod. His busy life is a constant denial of the assumption that the rendering of successful service to the public necessarily prohibits activity in religious matters. He appears to be able to serve both interests well. In 1890 Mr. Evans took the name of Evans-Lewis, in accordance with the terms of a family settlement.

In addition to his professional work, he has taken considerable interest in railroad enterprises, and was specially prominent in organizing the narrow gauge railways. He acted as solicitor for the Toronto and Nipissing Railway from its inception until it was merged in the Midland. In politics Mr. Leys is an active, energetic Reformer, and in 1886 was elected member for the city of Toronto in the Legislature of Ontario. For several years he has given special attention to farming, and has the finest herd of Holsteins in the Dominion of Canada, having taken first prizes against all competitors. In 1890 he was created a Queen's Counsel by the Government of Ontario. JOHN LEYS, Q.C., barrister, Toronto, Ont., was born at Pickering, Ontario County, on the 27th of January, 1834. His father, Francis Leys, one of the earliest settlers in the township, came from Aberdeenshire, Scotland. He was educated first at Pickering school, and afterwards, when he had reached his twelfth year, at the Toronto Academy, of which the Rev. Alexander Gale was then president. Having completed his preparatory educational training, he entered the law office of Angus Morrison and was admitted to the Bar in 1860. Possessed of no ordinary ability, he soon

Though a native born Canadian, he is devotedly attached to the land whence his forefathers sprung. Mr. Leys was married in the year 1865 to Helen, daughter of the late Mr. William Arthurs. She died on the 18th of November, 1890. He commands the respect, not only of the profession in Toronto, but of all classes, irrespective of creed or nationality.

HON. WILLIAM E. SANFORD, of Hamilton, Ont., member of the Dominion Senate, was born in New York city in 1840. His parents dying when he was quite young, he was sent to Hamilton and brought up by his uncle, Edward Jackson, Esq. At the age of fifteen he entered the publishing firm of Framer, Brace & Co., New York, where he remained six years, when he was offered a partnership in the business, but the death of the senior partner prevented the carrying out of this arrangement. Mr. Sanford then returned to Hamilton and married his cousin, Miss Jackson. After this he engaged in the foundry business in London, but upon the death of his wife, which occurred a short time after their marriage, he returned to Hamilton and engaged in the wool business. In 1862 Mr. Sanford entered into partnership with M. A. McInnis in the manufacture of clothing, and from this beginning has arisen the great house of the W. E. Sanford Manufacturing Co., (Limited). The Sanford block on King and John streets, Hamilton, is an establishment which speaks for itself as regards the magnitude of the business. Senator Sanford is certainly to be classed among the most successful business men of Canada. He has occupied the position of president of the Board of Trade, vice-president of the Hamilton Provident and Loan Society, is now one of the Board of Regents of Victoria University, director of the Empire newspaper, and president of the Hamilton Ladies' College; he was one of the projectors and vice-president of the Manitoba and North-Western Railway Company. Mr. Cooley was journal secretary of Niagara Conference in 1890. In 1878 he married Miss Keeling of Guelph, who died in 1885. Mr. Cooley is a forcible preacher and a pungent writer.

JAMES DUNLOP, Hamilton, Ont., son of J. M. Dunlop, Ayrshire, Scotland, was born at the latter place on November 1st, 1852. He received his education at the public school of Binbrook, County of Wentworth, and afterwards served apprenticeship in the flour and grain business with J. Hancock, of Hamilton, with whom he remained until 1878, when he was taken into partnership, which continued until 1882, when he bought out the entire business. In 1887 he built new premises, in which he now carries on the largest business in flour, feed, grain and seeds in Hamilton. In 1889 he bought the property in rear of his present store, and built on it a mill, where he manufactures Graham flour, pot barley, split peas, corn meal, etc. The building extends from John to Catherine streets, a distance of three hundred and fifty feet. Mr. Dunlop was married on the 13th of November, 1877, to Mary Ann, eldest daughter of R. Wilson, Nelson, County of Halton. In politics he is an active Conservative, a member of the Presbyterian Church, and also of the A.O.U.W., and Board of Trade.

ROBERT CARROLL, of Carroll & Vick, contractors on new Parliament Buildings, Toronto, was born in Toronto on November 5th, 1838, and was educated at the old Model School, King street, Toronto. He was apprenticed to the building trade with Medcalfe, Wilson & Forbes. At the expiration of his apprenticeship he entered business as a builder on his own account, in which he continued until 1878, at which time he retired from that business and opened out as importer and dealer in builder's supplies, continuing that business until 1889, when he sold out to Mr. Maguire, 84 Adelaide street West, to enable him to devote his whole time to the completion of the new Parliament Buildings, in which he is now engaged.

JOHN BENJAMIN VICK is the partner of the above-mentioned Robert Carroll, and together they compose the firm of Carroll & Vick, contractors and builders. Mr. Vick was born in 1843 in the city of Hereford, Eng., and was married in 1866 to Francis Annie Sadler. He received his education at the National School in Hereford, and was afterwards apprenticed to the stone-cutting business in the same city. As soon as he completed his apprenticeship he left his native city and devoted the next six years to securing employment on the largest and best buildings in course of erection at that time in England. During that period, among others, he was engaged in building the new foreign offices, London, for about one and one-half years. He came to Canada in 1870, and was first employed as foreman in Toronto, and in 1872 he was engaged on the new post office in Toronto under John Elliott, the contractor; afterwards he filled the same position for Mr. Benjamin Walton, contractor, of Toronto. In 1877 he made arrangements with Mr. Lionel Yorke to take the sole management of the cut-stone branch of his business. In 1886 he entered into partnership with Mr. Yorke, and at his death became partner with Mr. Robert Carroll, to complete the Parliament Buildings under the contract of his late partner. These buildings, which are now in course of erection, will long stand as a monument to the business capacity and professional ability of the subjects of these memoirs. Mr. Vick is a member of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and has held the office of church warden for the past five years. Mr. Vick's mechanical skill and practical knowledge of plain and ornamental stone cutting, so largely used in the better class of our public buildings, has been one secret of his success in life, while his integrity and honorable dealing has given him the confidence of all who know him, and made for him a host of friends.

His father was then principal of the academy, but two years afterwards went to St. Louis, where he shortly afterwards died of malarial fever, leaving his wife and son with but little means. Arrived at the age of seven, his mother married Deacon Tripp of New Haven, Vt., with whom he lived seven years, working on the farm in summer and attending district school in winter. At fourteen his mother died leaving him alone in the world. He was then apprenticed at blacksmithing with Thomas Davenport, of Brandon, Vt. On his giving up business, Charles finished his trade in a machine shop and then assisted Mr. Davenport in constructing an electric motor. In 1834 he went to Ohio, working in Norwalk, Sandusky & Cleveland, and then sailing on the lakes. In 1838 he was chief engineer of the steamer "Governor Marcy," employed by the United States government to patrol the Straits. Since his appointment to this position, there has been a wonderful improvement in the public school system, which is largely due to his energy and executive ability. Mr. Hughes has written a number of popular and important educational works. He is a member of the Methodist Church, president of Toronto Teachers' Association, was secretary of the Provincial Sunday School Association for three years, and has been Sunday School Superintendent for more than twenty years. His establishment is the only one of its kind in Toronto, and, necessarily, his business from year to year has extended in proportion as the publishing business has increased in Ontario. Mr. Patterson has prepared almost all the stamps and designs for the publications of subscription publishing houses and other large book-selling establishments in the Dominion. He is a skilful workman, as is recognized by the extensive business that he has created. Mr. Patterson is a member of the Episcopalian Church, and a member of various societies.

He takes extensive contracts for all classes of work, and has given the utmost satisfaction to all who have favored him with their patronage. The very marked success of Mr. Walsh is a clear illustration of the old proverb, that "there is always room at the top." In politics he is an active Conservative and in religion a Methodist. He also belongs to the Free Masons. He was married in 1884 to Ida, second daughter of Thomas Egan, of Hamilton.

In 1868 he entered the office of Scatcherd and Meredith, London, and subsequently that of Hector Cameron, Q.C., and M.P. for North Victoria, with whom he formed a partnership. In 1878 he was called to the Bar. Afterwards he became associated with N. F. Hagel, Q.C., and subsequently with N. Murphy, Q.C., until 1886, when he formed his present partnership with John Tytler, of London.

Mr. Murdoch's success is the result of continuous strivings, having been cast upon his own resources at an early age. During his connection with Mr. Murphy he was engaged as counsel in a large number of criminal cases, chiefly extradition, and is to-day one of the foremost criminal lawyers of the Toronto Bar. Such famous cases as the "Newark forgery," "the Lee case" of Cincinnati, and the "Adam Morse extradition case," together with a large number of trials for murder, have made his name well known to the public. Mr. Murdoch is also a member of the Illinois and Michigan Bars.

WE. WELDING, proprietor of the Brantford Stoneware Works, was born in Caledonia, Livingston county, New York, Sept. 17, 1819. At the age of 18 he embarked on the Erie Canal and "took to the saddle." He made his third trip between Buffalo and Albany as bowsman on his boat, when, from severe illness, he returned home. Recovering health, and having a liberal education, he taught school, near Brockport five winters, and emigrated to Canada in 1841, locating at Cainsville, three miles from Brantford, where he taught school three years, and organized the first total abstinence society ever organized in any rural district in the county of Brant. At this date he married Miss Mary Jane Hawley, and removed to Brantford as travelling salesman for Morton & Co., manufacturers of stoneware. He remained with that firm and their successors 15 years, when he and a Mr. Belding entered into partnership. The factory was afterwards burned, when Mr. Welding purchased the old pottery site; rebuilt in 1873, and has since carried it on alone, until it now stands at the head of the list in this department of industry in the Dominion. Mr. Welding's religious views by early training were of the Methodistic order, with which body he was identified until 1861, when he united with the Congregational Church under the pastorate of Rev. John Wood, and in connection with which, occupied important positions of trust. In 1875 he identified himself with Emmanuel Congregational Church, and remained a liberal supporter until the society disbanded in 1879. Since then he and Mrs. Welding have been members of Zion Presbyterian Church, under the ministry of Dr. Cochrane. Mr. Welding was a firm supporter of the republican party in the United States in its struggle against slavery, and is equally a pronounced reformer in Canada. Through a long and successful business career he has maintained a character for the highest integrity, and is the friend of every cause that has for its object the good of his fellowmen.

REV. THOMAS COLLING, B.A., Plattsville, Ont., was born on the 14th May, 1840, at Lowville, Ont., and was married in 1882 to Miss E. E. Hill Ingram. From the outset of his college course he stood high in all his classes, taking the first prize for elocution from the University Literary Association and the second prize from the University for attainments in English composition. Like many Canadians of note, he was born on the farm, and spent his early days and his vacations during his course at the University, in agricultural pursuits. An early taste for a Christian education shaped his future career, so that, when about 20 years of age, he was converted and united with the Methodist Church, he was at once appointed as a local preacher. In 1862 he joined the Conference as a probationer, and was ordained to the office of the Holy Ministry at the Conference held in Toronto in 1869 by the late lamented Wm. Morley Punshon, who was at that time president of the Conference. Before ordination Mr. Colling travelled the circuits of Hullsville and Arran, serving each one year, and spent five years at the University. After ordination he labored in the circuits of Dundas, Oakville, Lachine, St. Catharines (twice), St. Thomas, London, Beams-ville, Welland, Simcoe and Plattsville. His record in all these circuits, as presented to the several conferences, has been that of unswerving loyalty to his church, and signal success. He is well known as a faithful pastor, an earnest and able Gospel preacher and noted church financier. Precious memories of his self-denying labours remain in every locality where he has been stationed, and large numbers have been brought to Christ by his earnest appeals. He first became errand boy in a confectioner's store, and two years afterwards entered a dry goods establishment as parcel boy. After this he served for a few weeks in carriage trimming. His tastes, however, did not lie in such directions, and at the age of 17 he began the study of photography, for which he had a strong desire, entering his brother's studio to acquire a knowledge of the art, and remaining until he was 22 years of age, when he started business on his own account. His capital at the start was very small indeed, but by strict attention, close application, and passionate love for his profession, he has been very successful. Mr. Cooper is a trustee of the Dundas Street Centre Methodist Church, and member of the Quarterly Board, which church he united with some 18 years ago.

REV. JOHN McDOUGALL, chairman of Methodist Missions in the Saskatchewan District, N.W.T., was born at Owen Sound, Ont., on December 27th, 1842, and was married in 1864 to Abigail, daughter of Rev. H. B. Steinhawr, and after her decease he was married again in 1872 to Elizabeth, daughter of S. C. Boyd. He was educated in the mission schools at Newash, near Owen Sound, and at Garden River; he spent one winter in the old log school house at Owen Sound, and afterwards two sessions at Victoria College between the years 1857 and 1860. Mr. McDougall spent his early years in the backwoods, was rocked in log and bark canoes, pioneered around the Georgian Bay and Lake Superior, and spoke Indian before English. He afterwards worked in a store trading with Indians in Penetanguishene, and also in Orillia during the years 1855 to 1859. In 1860 he came to the North-West Territory, taught school at Norway House, and then went to the North Saskatchewan, where he worked for the Rev. Thomas Wolsley for two years as interpreter, dog driver, and general roustabout. He then entered upon mission work, travelling upon the plains, establishing missions at Woodville, Pigeon Lake, and Morley Bow River, and assisted in establishing missions at Victoria, Edmonton, Fort McLeod, Calgary, Wolfe Creek, Battle River and Bear's Hill. He has been chairman of the Saskatchewan District for fifteen years, and was delegate to the General Conference in 1886 and 1890. He was commissioner for the Government in 1874, preparing the way among the Indians for the coming in of the Mounted Police. He was also commissioner for the Government in 1855, preparing the way for the advance of the western column at Edmonton and Fort Pitt. He was guide, scout, boat builder, commissariat officer, chaplain, etc., to Gen. Strange's column, and a member of his staff until the completion of his campaign. He is now superintendent of Indian Missions in Manitoba and the North-West.

SAMUEL GEORGE READ, Mayor of the City of Brantford, was born there on the 12th of May, 1843, and was married in 1865 to Miss S. A. Pendlebury. He was educated at the Brantford public schools. His father was the Rev. Samuel Read, for many years an earnest and respected minister of the Baptist Church in Ontario. Mr. Read has been for many years in the real estate business, and is well known all over Ontario as a man of shrewd business habits. In religion he is a Baptist, being a member of the Park Church, Brantford, and for eighteen years he has been chairman of the finance committee of the society. He held the office of alderman from 1881 to 1890, when he was elected mayor of the city. He has held other important positions, such as governor of the John H. Stratford Hospital, member of the board of Police Commissioners, member of the Board of Trade, and is at present on the Free Library board, and the board of Water Commissioners. Mr. Read is well liked by all who come in contact with him, either in business or public life, and has proved himself exceedingly attentive to the interests of the city. He is a strong friend of the temperance cause, and can always be relied upon to aid in its onward march, either by the influence of his voice in public gatherings or by the contribution of his money. He is a Liberal in politics, although in his public life he has never obtruded unduly his views upon the community, and as a citizen, as well as the chief magistrate of the city, he is equally popular with all classes and all shades of politics. His mother still lives in the city, and, notwithstanding that she has arrived at a good old age, is a regular attendant upon the ordinances of religion. Like his parents, Mayor Read is an earnest Christian worker, and can always be found at his post of duty, both in the church and the Sunday school. That all our public offices were filled by such men is greatly to be desired. May the day soon come when such will be the case.

WILLIAM ARCHIBALD YOUNG, M.D.

WILLIAM ARCHIBALD YOUNG, M.D., L.R.C.P., (London, Eng.) Toronto, Ont., was born of Scotch parentage in January, 1864. In 1882 he entered Toronto Medical School, and in the spring of 1886 headed the honor list at Victoria University, Cobourg. He then went back to London, Eng., and spent over a year in Middlesex University College and St. Thomas Hospitals, being licensed by the Royal College of Physicians in the spring of 1887. CHAS. FRANKLIN STILWELL, manager of the Edison Lamp Works, Hamilton, Ont., was born on the 28th of March, 1861, at Newark, N.J. He was educated at the public schools of that city. Leaving home in 1874, he became connected with several branches of mercantile business until 1879, when he went to Menlo Park, N.J., the birthplace of the incandescent light. Under his brother-in-law, T. A. Edison, he acquired a thorough and practical knowledge of the manufacture of incandescent lamps. In 1881 he started a lamp factory in Montreal, and in 1883 came to Hamilton, where he began the present works, the only establishment of the kind in Canada. The works employ thirty hands, and are lighted from their own plant. They make all kinds of lamps, from the smallest, giving half a candle power, to that of one hundred and fifty candle power. The manufacture of these lamps is most difficult, as they have to pass through more than two hundred operations. Mr. Stilwell was married in December, 1881, to Sarah F., daughter of Prof. S. D. Frazee, Plainfield, N.J. In religion he is a Methodist, and in politics a Conservative.

C. F. STILWELL.

MATTHEW BEATTY, Welland, Ont., was born in Ireland in the year 1815, and moved with his parents to the United States in 1818. He came to Canada in 1842 and settled in St. Catharines. In 1860 he removed to Welland and started a machine shop. From a very small beginning, Mr. Beatty has built up a very large trade, and the firm are now shipping their machinery to all parts of the Dominion, from Nova Scotia to British Columbia. He has now retired from business, which is carried on by his three sons—William L., Harvey L. and Alvin O. Beatty. In politics he is a pronounced Reformer, and although a manufacturer, favors reciprocity between Canada and the United States. Mr. Beatty belongs to that reliable class of Canadian pioneers who have done so much during the past fifty years in making the country what it is to-day. His distinguished business career has been marked from its inception by keen foresight, unusual ability, untiring energy, sterling integrity, and a thorough knowledge of the requirements of his trade. He was married in 1838 to Miss Mary Leverton, of England.

CHARLES H. ROSS.

When seven years of age he came to America, and lived for eight years at Staten Island, N.Y., where he received his education. After this he lived with his father on the farm in Innisfil township, County of Simcoe, for two years. He then engaged in the mercantile business, and for ten years was in the dry goods establishment of T. S. McConkey, when he was taken into partnership, which existed for ten years. After carrying on this business for a number of years, he retired and engaged in his present business, that of private banker. His keen interest in public questions, and his intelligent grasp of matters affecting the welfare of the community, have made him prominent in public life, as he has been for fifteen years a member of the Council, during ten of which he was Reeve and Deputy Reeve. He was first elected Mayor of Barrie in 1886. In 1891 he received the appointment of Police Magistrate. In religion Mr. Ross is a Presbyterian. After a thorough preliminary education he entered the medical school of the late Hon. Dr. Rolph, and passing the usual examinations, was licensed to practice in July, 1851. In 1852 he went to Philadelphia and took the degree of Doctor of Medicine at Jefferson College, and, returning to Canada, began professional duties—first at Bondhead, County of Simcoe, and afterwards at Aurora. In 1856 he accepted a professorship in the medical department of Victoria College, Toronto, and from that time has been constantly engaged in the arduous duties of a medical teacher. He has filled at different periods the chairs of Materia Medica, Midwifery, Surgery, Anatomy, Clinical Surgery, Practice of Medicine and Clinical Medicine. In 1867 Dr. Geikie visited his native land and passed the examinations of the Royal College of Surgeons, Edinburgh, and also of the Royal College of Physicians of London. In 1871, having resigned his position in Victoria, he and others induced the corporation of Trinity University to reorganize the "medical department," which, in 1877, became incorporated under an independent charter, and is now Trinity Medical College. In 1871 he was appointed to the Professorships of Medicine and Clinical Medicine, and, on the death of Dr. Hodder, to that of Dean. Dr. Geikie for many years rendered valuable service on the acting staff of the Toronto General Hospital, and has been for a long time one of the senior Consulting Physicians of that institution. In 1889 Trinity University conferred on him the degree of D.C.L., in recognition of his eminence as a medical teacher and his great services to medical education. Dr. Geikie has two brothers—the Rev. A. C. Geikie, LL.D., an honored Presbyterian minister in Bathurst, N.S.W., and Dr. Cunningham Geikie, the biblical scholar.

JOSEPH HEIGHINGTON, barrister-at-law, Toronto, was born 27th March, 1849, at Skircoat, parish of Halifax, Yorkshire, England. His father, Thomas Heighington, was of an old family living at "Heighington," near Darlington, in North Yorkshire, and his mother, Miss Brearley, of a respectable family in the West Riding of the same county. Mr. Heighington was married August 6th, 1876, to Clara, second daughter of Rev. John Compston, Baptist minister, of Leeds, Eng., a well-known speaker and writer in musical and temperance circles throughout the British Isles.

His education was received at the ordinary day schools in Yorkshire and under private tutors. At the age of 16 he was articled to an accountant and was taught the science of book-keeping. At 21 he took a situation, having charge of the accounts of a large business firm. After this he practiced as an accountant for two years, and finally, having relations in Canada, came to Toronto in 1877, primarily on account of his health, which, having speedily improved and his liking the country, he determined to stay. He kept books in Toronto for a time. The firm by whom he was employed becoming involved in a law suit, he had frequent occasion to consult the lawyers in the case. One of them told him that he ought not to waste his time keeping books, but should study law. He at once entered that gentleman's office and graduated in 1884, and has been practising in Toronto ever since. Although not seeking notoriety, he has built up what is admitted to be about the largest "young man's business" in Toronto, paying particular attention to wills, trusts, administrations, investments and general commercial law. His partners are Thomas Urquhart and A. J. Boyd, son of Hon. Chancellor Boyd. Mr. Heighington, while true to his native land, enters heartily into all that advances his adopted country. He is a Baptist and trustee of the Walmer Road Church, Toronto, largely built through the liberality of Alanson Harris, Esq., of Brantford.

S. GOTHROLD PARKER, M.B.

His ancestors were of the South of England, among them being distinguished members of the legislature and medical profession. Dr. Parker received a high education in the arts courses of the University of Toronto. In 1882 he entered the medical department of the University and graduated with honors in 1886. He then went to Europe in the further pursuit of his medical studies, and spent many months in the hospitals of Great Britain and France, receiving the above degrees and being admitted a Fellow of the London Obstetrical Society. On his return he began practice in Toronto, where he soon acquired a large and lucrative business. Dr. Parker is a member of Jarvis Street Baptist Church, and is regarded by his many friends as possessed of rare abilities that promise distinction in future years. The doctor's social qualities, combined with his professional and scholarly attainments, have won for him a host of friends, and the number is continually on the increase.

WILLIAM CREELMAN, B.A., LL.B., Toronto, was born at Richibucto, N.B., on the 16th December, 1860. He first attended a private school at Buetouche, N.B., and afterwards the Collingwood Collegiate Institute, and finally entered the Toronto University at the age of 17, taking a full course in arts and graduating in 1882 with the gold medal in philosophy. In 1885 he took the degree of LL.B. and was also called to the Bar. He first studied law in the office of McCarthy, Osler, Hoskin and Creelman, and from 1885 to 1888 practiced his profession alone in Toronto, and then became partner of the well-known firm of Blake, Lash and Cassels. Mr. Creelman is fond of amateur sport, and takes a prominent part in the management of cricket, curling, yachting, football and hockey clubs. He is deeply interested in the prosperity and advancement of his Alma Mater, is a senator of the University, (elected by the graduates of the Law Faculty), and is also clerk of Convocation of Graduates. He has a growing popularity, and is honored with the friendship of a large number of persons, both socially and in his profession.

WILLIAM CREELMAN.

JAMES THOMAS DEWSON, manager of the Standard Bank, Bradford, Ont., was born on the 18th of June, 1833, at Fort Henry, Kingston. His father was the late Colonel Dewson, of the 15th Foot, in the British army. He was educated at the public schools, and afterwards at the Bradford High School, and Oberlin College, Ohio, U.S. He spent his first five years of business life in a dry goods establishment, and in 1854 was employed in the engineers office of the Great Western Railway. He then devoted several years to farming, and in 1868 began the grain business at Bradford. Upon the establishment of the St. Lawrence Bank in 1873, which afterward became the Standard Bank, he was appointed manager. Mr. Dewson is an Equal Righter in politics, and in religion a member of the Church of England. He also belongs to the Masonic Brotherhood, a member of the Royal Arch Chapter Cyrene Preceptory 95 Egyptian Rite, of the I.O.O.F., of the A.O.U.W., and also a member of the York Pioneers. He was married June 14th, 1860, to Mary, daughter of the late J. Lind, Esq., West Gwillimbury, Bondhead, Ont.

J. T. DEWSON.

ERNEST J. BEAUMONT.

ERNEST JOSEPH BEAUMONT, barrister, Galt, Ont., was born on February 28th, 1855, at Mirfield, Yorkshire, England. He was educated at the Grammar School in Sheffield until he was fifteen years of age, when he left England for Canada on December 21st, 1871. His subsequent education was chiefly acquired by private study, although in early life he was far more fond of outdoor exercise and athletic sports than of books. He was admitted as solicitor at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, in May, 1879, and came to Galt in 1880, and, after encountering much adversity, was called to the Bar in May, 1885. Mr. Beaumont by religion is a member of the Church of England and served as vestry clerk for several years. He was for some time Major of the 29th Battalion, from which he retired with rank in 1888. He is at the present time secretary and trustee of the Galt Public School Board, solicitor for that town, and has held a number of minor offices in connection with literary societies, rifle associations, etc. Mr. Beaumont is still a young man, and, from his push and ability, much may be expected of him.

ROBERT COLLISON SCOTT, miller, Highgate, Ont., was born in the township of Orford, County of Kent, on the 22nd of May, 1849. He was educated at the district schools near his home. After spending the first twenty-five years of his life on his father's farm, he built the Beaver Oatmeal and Flour Mills at Highgate, and afterwards, in 1882, the Cumberland Flour Mills at Highgate, the first full roller mill in Western Ontario, of which he is now owner. Mr. Scott has evinced great capacity and energy since he began business. The first mill was burned in June, 1887. The present mill has a capacity of 200 barrels a day, and gives employment to a large number of hands. His reputation for upright dealings is universally recognised, and his trade extends to every part of the Dominion. In politics Mr. Scott is Independent, supporting principles rather than men. He was solicited by the Third Party to become their candidate for parliamentary honors, but declined. He is a strong temperance advocate, and an active member of the Methodist Church. He was married in 1880 to Miss Emma A. Gosnell, of Orford.

CHARLES RICHARDS, general merchant, of Caledonia, Ont., was born April 9th, 1866, in Ancaster township. He received his education in the public schools. His father is a farmer, and young Richards spent the first twenty years of his life on the farm. His ambition, however, could not be satisfied by the daily rounds of a farmer's duty, and he looked out for more stirring and profitable employment. His first business venture was in canvassing for a newspaper; he then engaged with the Hamilton Industrial Works Co. Then he became salesman for tea and coffee, and finally, in June, 1887, bought out a general merchant at Caledonia, where he has since carried on a growing and profitable business. A young man with a Christian training, fair education, good habits, and, with untiring industry, must in the very nature of things be crowned with success. He has been a member of the Methodist Church from his boyhood, and has taken a great interest in the welfare of the young people, having been both secretary and president of their literary societies. He is also lieutenant of the Haldimand Rifles, and enjoys the confidence of a large circle of friends.

THOMAS EDWIN BOULTER, chemist and druggist, Hamilton, Ont., was born on the 23rd of May, 1857, at Edgewood Farm, County of Haldimand, Ont. His parents were English, who came to Canada in 1837 and took up a tract of land in the township of Walpole, where they have ever since resided. The country at that time was a dense forest, now it is dotted over with fine farms, inhabited by a thrifty and prosperous population. Mr. Boulter's grandfather, Andrew Wren, was one of the volunteers in the Rebellion of '37. Mr. Boulter was educated at the common school in the township of Walpole, but like most Canadian boys in the country, his education was broken up by working on the farm—three months' school and nine months' work. He, however, made the best of the opportunities for study within his reach, having a desire for such professional knowledge as would fit him for something different from the farm. At the age of eighteen, he entered the Collegiate Institute, Hamilton, and afterwards served his apprenticeship as druggist with Dr. Smith for three years. He then left Hamilton for Winnipeg, where he finished his apprenticeship with Whitehead & Co., and passed his examination with honors in the Manitoba College of Pharmacy. In 1884 he came to Toronto and graduated with honors in the School of Pharmacy. In 1885 he returned to Hamilton as assistant, and afterwards partner, for two years of the firm of R. N. Taylor & Co., druggists. In 1889 he purchased his present business, which is steadily increasing, with best prospects for the future. In religion Mr. Boulter belongs to the Methodist Church in Canada. In politics he is an ardent and active Reformer, having served on committees of management for three successive elections. He belongs to the the Independent Order of Foresters, of which he is also financial secretary. A Christian young man with good habits, studious, and attentive to business, it may be taken for granted that he is a success.

JOHN COLLINGS GODDARD, builder and contractor, Toronto, was born at North Arlington, Yorkshire, Eng., on the 16th November, 1820, and was married to Mary Nash, daughter of John Nash, Westbury, Wilkshire, Eng., in November, 1854. Mr. Goddard, in the best sense of the word, is a self-educated man—the only schooling he received being in the winter of 1840, when he attended a night school. At the age of ten years he entered a stone yard kept by his father, and, when seventeen, left home and began work as a journeyman, getting the highest wages then paid.

After spending several years in London, he left England for Australia in February, 1852, and, in the following year, started business in Sydney as builder and contractor. For a time he was employed by the Australian Government and built several fortifications and rail-ways. For many years Mr. Goddard was exceedingly prosperous, and left Australia for London, where, during the Franco-Prussian war, he lost his entire fortune of nearly $88,000. He then came to Newark, N.J., U.S., but his intense love for British soil and British institutions led him to Canada, where he settled in Toronto in 1873. Since then he has built many of the finest buildings in that city, such as the Sissin buildings, corner of Wilton and Yonge streets; St. Mary's and St. Paul's churches, the Memorial Church of the late Archbishop Lynch, and recently, what may be regarded as the crowning work of his life, the Board of Trade buildings on Yonge street, which, when completed, will cost upwards of $350,000. To such men as Mr. Goddard the Queen City is indebted for the many stately structures that adorn its public streets and crowded thoroughfares, and make its drives and avenues so attractive and beautiful. What they may lack in the scholarly culture of the schools that the young men of Canada enjoy, is more than made up by their strong individuality, industry and capacity that renders them equal to almost any undertaking. In him such qualities are illustrated.

ALBERT DURRANT WATSON, M.D., L.R.C.P., Edinburgh, practicing physician, Toronto, son of Wm. Y. Watson, was born in Peel County, Ont., on January 8th, 1859, and was married on Sept. 23, 1885, to Sarah A. G. Clare, daughter of Samuel Clare, for some time a teacher in the Normal School, Toronto. Dr. Watson was educated in the schools of his own county and afterwards in the Toronto Normal School. He entered the Toronto School of Medicine in 1879, and graduated from Victoria in 1883. He then went to Europe, attending the Edinburgh, London and Paris hospitals, and in 1884 began the practice of his profession in Toronto. In 1889 he received the degree of M.D. from the University of Toronto. Dr. Watson is an official member of the Methodist Church, takes an active interest in the welfare of the young, and conducts a large young people's class-meeting. For four years he has been a member of the Toronto Annual Conference. He is also a frequent contributor on social questions to leading periodicals. His social views are of a most advanced character, his motto being—"From each according to his strength, to each according to his need."

Loyalists. He was married on the 9th of April, 1868, to Ellen, daughter of Judah and Elizabeth Lundy, of Sharon, Ont., by whom he has five children. Dr. Pearson was educated in the schools of Aurora and Newmarket, and in 1864 began the study of dental surgery under the late Dr. Edmunds, of Albany, N.Y. He graduated in March, 1869, and was licensed by the Royal College of Dental Surgeons of Ontario. Dr. Pearson first settled in Newmarket, where he began the practice of his profession, but in 1879 he moved with his family to Toronto, where he still resides and enjoys a large and lucrative city practice. He is a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, and for two years was a member of the board of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons, and is now president of the Ontario Dental Society. He is a graduate of the old Military School in Toronto, graduating in 1865, and held a commission in the York Rangers for many years.

In 1885 he decided to enter the ministry of the Baptist Church, and in the fall of that year commenced his theological studies at Woodstock College. In 1888 he entered MacMaster University, from which he graduated in the spring of 1891 with honors. During the summer months of his college course he took charge of several churches, much to the pleasure of the different congregations. In the summer of 1889 he was at Rapid City, Manitoba, where he did very successful work for his denomination. On graduating Mr. Keay received a call to Dundas, which he accepted, and has just entered upon his work there. He was married August 12th, 1891, to Eugenie Millard, only daughter of the late Isaiah Becker, of Port Rowan.

He was educated in the public schools of Listowel. From 1876 to 1879 he was engaged in the drug business, in Granton, with Dr. Long. In 1879 he entered the express services as clerk and telegraph operator for the American Express Company, after that he was appointed to Mitchell, Ontario; two years later he took charge of the Post Office there, as assistant, filling that position for four years. In 1885 he entered again the express services as clerk in the London office, where he remained until 1888, when he removed to Brantford, and on the 1st day of April, 1890, he was appointed agent in that place. He has a thorough knowledge of all the details of the express business and is a most genial man as well as an accommodating agent. Under his able management, this invaluable aid to commerce is rapidly increasing in the city.

GEORGE ACHESON.

GEORGE HERBERT STEPHENSON.

GEORGE HERBERT STEPHENSON, barrister, Manning Arcade, Toronto, was born at Unionville, York County, Ont., on the 1st of September, 1859, and was married to Rossanna S. Baillie, daughter of Wm. Baillie, Toronto, on the 11th of August, 1886. Mr. Stephenson received his education at Trinity College, Toronto. His father, John Stephenson, Clerk of the 2nd Division of the County of York and Treasurer of Markham Township, was happily in a position to give his son all the advantages of a broad and liberal education, of which he availed himself to the utmost. In May, 1886, Mr. Stephenson graduated in law, and at once entered business for himself. In professional life he has been abundantly successful, and now enjoys a large practice. In religion he is an attendant upon the Christadelphian Meetings, and is a member of the Masonic Brotherhood. So far he has aspired to no public honors or offices, but devotes his whole time to professional duties. EDWIN D. TILLSON, son of the founder of the town of Tilsonburg, was born in the County of Norfolk, March 26th, 1825. His father was born in Massachusetts, and in 1822 moved to Canada, and with Hiram Capron and Joseph Van Norman built at Long Point the first foundry erected in the province. In 1826, when Edwin was a year old, his father came to what is now Tilsonburg, and built a saw mill and a forge. Here he manufactured lumber, wrought iron, and laid out roads, and acted as county commissioner for many years. He laid out Tilsonburg in 1835. Mr. Tillson attended school in Ohio for one year, and then, until he was twenty-one, worked on a farm. He then taught school for a short time and worked at lumbering. In 1847, with a capital of one hundred dollars, he, with two other young men, built a saw mill, and purchased valuable pine lands near the mill, from Hon. Robt. Baldwin, of Toronto, which afterwards became valuable. Three years afterwards he built another saw mill in the village, and, in 1851, selling his interest in the small mills, he bought his father's mill and water privileges; pulled down the old mill and built a fine large double mill on the old site. His financial success from this time onward has been uninterrupted. Most of the improvements in Tilsonburg were initiated and largely assisted by Mr. Tillson's private means. In 1890 he added to his properties a planing mill, sash and door factory, flour, barley, pea and oat-meal mills, and also a large brick yard. Mr. Tillson was reeve of Dereham township two years, first mayor of Tilsonburg, has been postmaster nineteen years, and magistrate about twenty years. HOLFORD WALKER, M.D., Medical Superintendent of Rotherham House, his private hospital, 54, 56 and 58 Isabella street, Toronto, was born in Barrie in 1846, and married in 1873 Annie Rolph, daughter of the late George Rolph, of Dundas. He took degrees of M.D. at Queen's University, Kingston, and Harvard University, Boston. The subject of this sketch affords an illustration of what can be achieved by application and constant higher aim in life. Graduating in 1867, he settled in Dundas. In a few years his practice became so large he was obliged to take a partner in order to cope with the work, and also to afford an opportunity to devote more attention to the special branch of the profession his natural taste and talent directed him. In the winter of 1887 he went to Philadelphia in order to obtain a practical knowledge of Dr. Weir Mitchell's treatment of the nervous diseases of women by Massage, etc. On leaving Dundas he was presented by the townspeople with an address and a very handsome token of regard, besides numerous individual presentations. In the spring of 1887 he opened a private hospital in Hamilton for women, which proved so successful that he decided to remove to Toronto and give up general practice altogether. Being the first in Ontario to establish a private hospital, he also became the pioneer specialist in the province in surgical and nervous diseases of women. He went abroad for nine months and became assistant to Mr. Lawson Tait, the most celebrated abdominal surgeon of the day. On returning he reopened the hospital in Toronto. Success has continued to follow him in a marked degree—the profession showing their appreciation for his enterprise by keeping the hospital, which is one of the, if not the most, complete on the continent in every detail, always full. The doctor has always kept abreast of the times, by making it a rule from the first of going abroad every few years to see the practical work of the leading lights in his calling, and attributes his success chiefly to that fact.

ROTHERHAM HOUSE.—DR. HOLFORD WALKER'S PRIVATE HOSPITAL,

ALBERT E. K. GREER, B.A., barrister, Toronto, was born December 25, 1860, at "Rose Lawn," Colborne, County of Northumberland, Ont. Mr. Greer from his boyhood took a great interest in politics, in debating societies, and in literary pursuits. At the age of seventeen he was elected president of the Literary Institute of his native town. At the age of twenty-three he delivered a series of addresses throughout Cornwall, Eng., on Canada, urging tenant-farmers and others with means to emigrate. Many of these availed themselves of the opportunities presented, and are now happily located in the great North-West. Mr. Greer studied law with Judge Ketchum in Colborne, and subsequently with Delamere, Reesor & English, Toronto. He was called to the Bar in 1888. He is solicitor for several of the most successful corporations in Ontario. ROB. LOTTRIDGE NELLES, local freight agent, Grand Trunk Railway, Toronto, Ont., was born on March 7, 1842, near York, County of Haldimand, Ont. He was educated at the public school of York, Ont., and afterwards under the private tuition of the late Duncan Cameron and others, by which he attained a thorough knowledge of all the English branches, and also a fair proficiency in classics and other studies. His father, who was extensively engaged in lumbering and farming on the Grand River, died when he was of tender age, so his education and training were entirely under the supervision of his mother and his uncle, the late Michael Harcourt, M.P. After completing his education, he spent a few years on the farm before entering upon business life. In 1862 he entered the service of the Buffalo and Lake Huron Railway Co., now Grand Trunk Railway, and has remained with the company ever since, occupying positions of trust in the service at different points, until from Caledonia he was promoted to Brantford, and latterly from Brantford to Toronto. He is thoroughly well known to the business public of Ontario. The early religious training of Mr. Nelles was under that pioneer missionary, the late Rev. Bald C. Hill. In later years he was a member and active Sabbath School worker in connection with the Presbyterian Church, Caledonia, of which the Rev. James Black was pastor. Then, on his coming to Brantford, he held the same position in the congregation of Rev. Dr. Cochrane, and now in Toronto attends the ministry of Rev. Dr. Kellogg, of which church he is not only an active Sabbath School teacher, but also a ruling elder. Mr. Nelles has been connected with the active militia since the "Mason and Slidell or Trent" difficulty, and at present holds the position of major in the 37th Battalion under Lieut.-Col. Davis. He is also a Past Master of St. Andrew's Lodge A.F. and A.M. He was married on January 9th, 1862, to Agnes Thorburn, daughter of the late James Thorburn.

the art at the Ontario Institution for the Blind. He refers with pardonable pride to the success of the pupils, about twenty of whom having passed under his tutorship. The disadvantages of their affliction are so far overcome that some of them are to-day recognized as among the best tuners in the province. He commenced his successful business career in Brantford in 1877, the year it became a city. The eclectic knowledge of pianofortes, gathered from a tuner's varied experience, finely cultivated discrimination of tone quality, with the practical experience of the factory, together with his sterling integrity, renders his assistance in the selection of instruments of peculiar value to his patrons. These qualities have enabled him to include among his customers the leading people in the community, and have laid the foundation of one of the most prosperous piano emporiums in the province. Mr. Raymond imports direct from some of the leading American factories, but he is a staunch advocate of our own manufactories, believing that the best makers rival those of New York in quality, and are more economical in price. He is an alderman of the city, also member of the Board of Trade, and was for some years president of the Farrington Debating Society, from which have sprung many men who have made their mark as public speakers. He married Elizabeth Ann, daughter of Thomas Racey, in the year 1881.

WILLIAM GAWTRESS RAYMOND, Brantford, Ont., was born in London, England, in 1855. He received his early education in the Royal Naval School, and at the Royal Naval Academy, Southsea. He passed the competitive examination for naval cadet in 1868, and remained in the navy until 1873, when he came to Canada. Taking up the art of pianoforte tuning, he prosecuted its study with determination to succeed. Perseverance, coupled with an acute musical ear, produced a marked success, leading to an engagement with the celebrated firm of Mason & Risch, and later as instructor in

CAPTAIN WILLIAM GRANT, dry goods merchant, Brantford, Ontario, is a native of Scotland, and was born in Cupar, Fifeshire, in 1832. He came to Canada twenty-two years later, and located in St. John, N.B., where he remained two years. In 1856 he came to Brantford in connection with the firm of Taylor & Grant. After the dissolution of that firm he began business on his own account, and is now at the head of one of the largest mercantile firms in Ontario. Captain Grant has always been a public-spirited citizen, and has taken a deep interest in the growth and welfare of his adopted home. For many years he commanded the Brantford Highland Volunteer Rifle Co., and served for several months during the year 1863-4 at Sarnia shortly after the St. Albans Raid, and in 1866 when the Fenian troubles agitated the country, he was called again into active service. Captain Grant was a fine type of the volunteer soldier, an excellent officer, and beloved by his men. He has ever been active on the Board of Trade, and has devoted many years of laborious service on the Board of Public School Trustees, taking a singularly active interest in all local educational affairs. Great credit is due him, along with other prominent members of the School Board, for the erection of the handsome new public school in the city of Brantford. In 1890 he was elected unanimously to the position of chairman of the board, a position which he occupied in former years. In the great calamity which befell the school by fire, he proved himself a man of more than ordinary capacity; faithful, earnest and untiring in his efforts to promote the educational interests of the city. Mr. Grant is ably assisted in his business by his three sons and a staff of reliable assistants. He is a member of Zion Presbyterian Church, and has been for many years treasurer to the congregation. He is also an earnest temperance man, always having the courage of his convictions. Honest, straightforward, out-spoken, he commands the respect of all.

ARCHIBALD FARQUHARSON MCGREGOR, B.A., Forest, Ont., was born in Scotland in 1851. He was educated at Montreal, where he graduated at McGill College in arts, and afterwards at the Congregational Theological College there. From his earliest years he was devoted to literary pursuits, and passionately fond of music. He began professional life by teaching in a public school in the County of Ontario for four years. Immediately after graduation he was called to the pastorate of the Congregational Church in Listowel, Ont. His next charge was that of the Congregational Church, Spadina Avenue, Toronto, of which he was pastor for ten years. He is at present a member of the Missionary and College Boards, and has also been a director of the Upper Canada Bible Society, and was president of the Toronto Ministerial Association during the year 1890. Mr. McGregor has taken a prominent part in the formation of the Christian Endeavor Societies, now found in connection with many of the Evangelical churches of the Dominion. He organized the first society in the province, if not in the Dominion, in connection with the Congregational Church, Spadina Avenue, Toronto. This society was established in 1884, and in 1890 a Junior Section was organized, composed of boys and girls between the ages of ten and fifteen. At the recent meeting of the Congregational Union of Ontario and Quebec, Mr.

McGregor was unanimously and very heartily chosen as Moderator or Chairman for 1891-92. This is the highest honor in the gift of the churches to confer. After a successful pastorate in Toronto, Mr. McGregor removed last October to Forest, Ont., where he is now ministering to the Congregational Church, and doing missionary work in the surrounding fields. He was married in 1882 to Miss E. Ashdown, of Toronto. He then attended Trinity Medical College, where he graduated with first-class honors in 1884. After this he studied in Edinburgh and London, and became a member of the Royal College of Surgeons, England. Returning to Canada he began the practice of his profession, and in 1885 was appointed professor of pathology in the Women's Medical College, Toronto. In 1886 he was appointed to the chair of Materia Medica and Therapeutics in Trinity Medical College, and became sub-editor of the Canada Lancet under the late Dr. Fulton, and after his death was appointed editor in chief. His father practiced his profession in Russia for a few years, then came to Canada in 1827, and was employed on the Rideau Canal under Colonel By, and after this in the Public Works Department until his death in 1849. Mr. Baird was educated at private schools in Montreal, and came to Paris at the age of fifteen as clerk for Mr. Chas. Whitelaw, grain merchant there, and with the exception of four years, when he was paymaster on the Buffalo and Lake Huron Railway, has resided there ever since. He is interested in several of the Paris industries, such as the Flouring Mills, the Carpet Co. and the Wincey Mills Co. He has been a member of the Paris Town Council since 1863, with the exception of three years, and has held, for longer or shorter periods, the offices of Councillor, Deputy Reeve, Mayor, Warden of the County of Brant, member of Public School Board, President and Director of the Mechanics Institute, and President of the Board of Trade. ADAM SPENCE, carriage builder, Brantford, Ont., was born in the Orkney Islands, Scotland, on August 8th, 1830. He was married on the 24th of January, 1856, to Sarah Speer, who died on the 16th of November, 1858, and was married again on the 18th of September, 1860, to Margaret Spence. Mr. Spence was educated in the schools of Orkney, but on account of the distance he could only attend in the summer season, so that his early educational advantages were comparatively limited. He assisted his father on the farm for a year, and at fifteen was apprenticed to the trade of blacksmithing. After serving three years, at the early age of nineteen, he left his native country for Canada, and served two years as a carriage blacksmith under instructions with Williams & Cooper, at Hamilton, Ont. In 1854 he removed to Brantford and worked as a journeyman for the firm of Smith & McNaught. In the year 1857 he commenced business on his own account, since which time his business has steadily increased, until now it is one of the best known in Ontario. Beginning as a blacksmith, he added to this the manufacture of wagons and carriages of all descriptions. In June, 1864, his premises were burned and his stock consumed, leaving him without anything. He commenced again, buying the present site and building upon it, and with the same untiring energy that characterized his younger years, he has attained his present position as a prosperous and reliable business man. Mr. Spence is a self-made man and an example for many in Canada to follow. He is a Presbyterian by religious profession and a member of Zion Church, with which he became identified in 1855. In 1859 he was elected to the eldership. For many years he was alderman of the city and a member of the public school board. He is a member of the Masonic body and of the United Workmen. In such lives we have an illustration of what faithful persevering efforts will accomplish.

In 1864 he came to Hamilton and entered partnership with his brother in the manufacturing business. In 1867 he went to Europe, and in 1868 to California, returning in 1870, when he took a position as buyer for T. C. Kerr & Co. He was educated at Wapping school and Penshaw school, and, in addition to the usual branches, studied the art of drawing with the object of becoming an architect in connection with the Mining Institute of Engineers in Newcastle-on-Tyne. The business has now acquired great proportions, extending from Niagara to Windsor, and from Lake Erie to the Georgian Bay. Mr. Marshall is a member of the First Congregational Church, London, Ont., also treasurer of the congregation, and teacher in the Sabbath School. He is unmarried. The success of the Marshall Bros. most emphatically denies the assertion that pushing business men have no time for the work of the church.

GEORGE MARSHALL, Dundas street, London, Ont., was born at Lambton Park, County of Durham, England, November 21st, 1852. He was educated at Wapping school and Penshaw school in the same county. He came to Canada in 1874 and began business in the tea trade in London, Ont., where he has continued ever since. In 1877 he started in the oil business at Petrolia, in which he is also now engaged. Mr. Marshall is twin brother of Mr. Robert Marshall, whose photograph and biography appear on this same page. Mr. Marshall is a member of the First Congregational Church, London, and also holds the office of deacon. He was married in 1881 to Miss Annie Sutherland, of Toronto. The Marshall Bros. are favorably known over a large portion of Ontario. Their success is the result of much careful attention to business, and a thorough knowledge of what their customers require.

REV. T. S. LINSCOTT, was born in Devon, England, on June 19th, 1846. When twelve years old, business disaster overtook his parents and he struck out for himself, and from that time has relied on his own resources. His first position was in a bookstore, but other callings engaged his energies before he joined the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Canada in the year 1875. He was converted in London, England, in his nineteenth year and immediately began to preach in the parks and squares of that city. The Bible Defence Association engaged his services, to defend the Bible against the attacks of British Secularists. For four years, debating and delivering lectures on the Bible was his religious employment. Mr. Linscott felt his need of education, and applied himself to study with great energy and success. Under the pressure of business, study and incessant public speaking, his health was greatly shattered and he started for America. In Ohio he went into book business again and came to Ontario as a general agent. He was induced to join the ministry as above stated, successfully passing the Conference examinations and was duly ordained. In 1879 he, for family reasons, retired from the pastorate and took charge of the publishing business of Bradley, Garretson & Co., at Brantford, Ont., of which business he has still the control. He is author of "The Path of Wealth" and several pamphlets; the president of the Society for the Prevention of Vice, treasurer of the Evangelical Alliance, and a member of various church boards. His services as a preacher are in constant demand and he is in christian labors abundant, in addition to the management of one of the leading publishing houses in the Dominion. Mr. and Mrs. Linscott with their six children reside in the beautiful suburban villa known as "Seven Acres," where, in leisure hours, he dispenses a generous hospitality to his friends, lay and clerical. By his employees he is highly respected, and by his fellow citizens regarded as a man, fearless in defending the right and denouncing the wrong.

WM. WINSLOW OGDEN, M.B., M.D., Professor of Forensic Medicine, Toronto University, was born on the 3rd July, 1837, in Peel County, Ont. His father was Wm. J. Ogden, an officer of the York militia. On the 27th of May, 1862, Dr. Ogden married Elizabeth Price, daughter of the late Wm. McKeown. His early education was received at the public schools and Toronto academy, then connected with Knox College. He afterwards attended Victoria College, where he took the regular arts course, and in 1856 entered the Toronto School of Medicine, and at the same time studied natural science

In 1869 he was appointed lecturer on medical jurisprudence and toxicology in Toronto School of Medicine, and in 1887, upon the formation of the medical faculty of Toronto University, was appointed professor of forensic medicine, which also includes toxicology and medical psychology. Dr. Ogden has attained a position in his profession second to none in Ontario, and is known far beyond Toronto as a public-spirited citizen, who takes the deepest interest in all that affects the welfare of the Dominion of Canada. Since 1866 he has been a member of the Public School Board of Toronto, and for some years its chairman. In politics he is a pronounced Reformer, and has rendered valuable service to his party. For a long period he was a member of the Toronto Reform Association, and also held the office of vice-president. In 1879 he was nominated by the Reform party as their candidate for the Legislature of Ontario, and although he failed to secure election, he very greatly increased the Reform votes usually polled in the riding where he ran. Dr. Ogden is a member of the Methodist Church, and has been a member of nearly all the annual and general conferences. He is a member of the Sons of England, and medical director and examiner for its beneficiary department.

REV. GEORGE WM. CALVERT, pastor of the Methodist Church, Paris, Ont., was born in Yorkshire, England, March 3rd, 1846. When four years old he came to Canada with his parents, and the family settled near Toronto. In 1855 his father died, and after two years spent at Thornhill, young Calvert found himself on a farm in the township of Walpole. Ten years of his life were spent here, working on the farm and going to school. By the ambition and energy which has always characterized him, he secured a second and first-class certificate, on which he taught for three years. Mr. Calvert was now an earnest Christian, and began to show signs of the pulpit ability which he in after years developed in such a marked degree. He began to exercise his gifts, first as a local preacher, and then he felt the Divine call to the sacred ministry. The church, recognizing his gifts and graces, he was duly received as a probationer by the Wesleyan Methodist Church in the year 1869. The next six years were spent on Cainsville, Aylmer and Port Stanley circuits, and at Victoria University, and in 1875 he was received into full connection in the Conference and ordained. Since ordination he has served the following churches—Acton, London East, St. Catharines, Niagara Falls, Port Dover, Norwich, and Paris. He received his education at the public schools, as above intimated, also at Cobourg Collegiate Institute and Victoria University. On May 13th, 1885, he married Miss Louie Riddle, of St. Catharines, a lady of fine accomplishments and a beautiful Christian character, who died September 14th, 1887. Mr. Calvert is one of the able preachers of the Methodist Church, and wherever he is stationed attracts large congregations to his ministry. He also excels as a worker among the young people of the church, and possesses in a marked degree the rare quality of being able to preach to children to their delight and profit. He is also an able and outspoken advocate of temperance.

master of Port Hope Trinity College School, and in 1874 came to Toronto and began the study of law in the office of Harrison, Osler & Moss. He was called to the Bar in 1878, and immediately afterwards became a member of the firm of Crawford & Crombie, and afterwards of Crombie, Crombie & Worrell. After the death of Ernestus Crombie, the name of the firm was again changed to that of Crombie, Worrell & Gwynne. He is a prominent and active member of the Anglican Church, and has been for a number of years a representative to the Synods of the diocese of Toronto and the Province of Canada. In addition to a large and lucrative practice, he holds the position of solicitor for the Bank of Montreal. He takes an exceedingly active part in Provincial and Dominion politics, and for a number of years was president of the Young Men's Liberal-Conservative Association of Toronto, and was also elected President of the Young Men's Liberal-Conservative Association of Ontario. Mr. Worrell is one of the most useful and able men of the many that the Queen City possesses; pronounced alike in his religious and political convictions, but at the same time lending his influence to all enterprises that tend to promote the welfare of his country.

From 1860 to 1863 he taught public school, and in February, 1864, came to Toronto and studied law in the office of English & Foster, and subsequently with Larratt W. Smith, D.C.L. He then went to London and concluded his studies in the office of V. Crowyn, LL.B., and was called to the Bar in 1873. After this he became partner with Mr. Crowyn for about five years, when he finally removed to Toronto, and has since practiced his profession there. Mr. Martin was married on the 17th June, 1874, to Sophia, daughter of Charles Scadding, who became heir-at-law of his father, John Scadding, who accompanied Governor Simcoe to Canada as private secretary, and neice of Rev. H. Scadding, D.D., Toronto. Mr. Martin is an Episcopalian, and in politics a Liberal.

J. M. STAEBLER, the present mayor of the well-known manufacturing town of Berlin, was born August 16th, 1846, in the County of Waterloo. When but merely a lad he was obliged to perform hard manual toil in carving out a pioneer's house with his father, which, of course, prevented his attendance at school. But Young Staebler was determined to have an education, and so utilized his few spare moments that he can to-day talk, read and write the English and German languages fluently, and is in the highest sense of the word a self-made man. His general intelligence and business capacity soon attracted public attention, and in the year 1880 he was elected a member of the Town Council, which was soon followed by the greater honor of the reeveship. Both of these offices he filled with credit to himself and satisfaction to the people, which was made evident by his election to the mayoralty in 1891 by a handsome majority. In matters of religion he is broad and liberal in his views, and is in sympathy with all who are engaged in Christian work irrespective of their creed. Mr. Staebler's success is the result of great industry and perseverance.

GEORGE MUNNS BARTON, barrister-at-law and ex-Mayor of Dundas, Hamilton, Ont., was born at Carrick-on-Shannon, County Leitrim, Ireland, on the 12th July, 1829, and was married at Dundas in 1851 to Elizabeth Alicia, daughter of Major Thomas Atkins, and granddaughter of Major-General Atkins, of H.M.S. India. He was educated privately in Toronto, and entered the law office of Henry Eccles in 1847. His father having died when he was only five years old, and his mother when he was but sixteen, cast him at an early age on his own resources. He availed himself of the Toronto Mechanics Institute and improvement societies in his education, having as companions the late Senator John Macdonald and Mr. Gordon Brown. In 1849 he removed to Dundas, where, upon the death of Mr. Duffield, the junior partner, he took charge of the law office of Wm. Notman, Q.C. In 1852 Mr. Barton was admitted as attorney-at-law, and entered into partnership with Mr. Notman, the firm soon acquiring one of the largest practices west of Toronto. In the winter of 1854-55 he was elected a member of the Dundas Town Council and served as mayor in 1855, but refused re-election, as he did also the nomination for coalition candidate in the North Riding of Wentworth. In 1855-57 he was connected with the woollen factory of Dundas in addition to his law practice, an enterprise which was exceedingly successful and took prizes for their manufactures at all the Provincial Expositions. In 1859 Mr. Barton was called to the Canadian Bar and opened a branch Chancery office in Toronto, and served for seven years as trustee of the Hamilton Law Association Directory. An offer made by his political friends of the Judgeship of Wentworth County he declined, as well as other proffered honors. Mr. Barton is a Baldwin Reformer and National Policy man, an Anglican Low Churchman, and now spends his later years in literary and scientific pursuits in addition to his law practice in Hamilton.

DUNCAN MARQUIS, M. D., Brantford, Ont., was born in the year 1842 in Argyleshire, Scotland, and was married in 1870 to Eliza Bryce, daughter of Mr. George Bryce, of Mount Pleasant, and sister of Dr. George Bryce, of Manitoba College. The father of Dr. Marquis died when he was seven years of age, and two years afterwards, his mother with her five children emigrated to New York, U.S., and located for a year near Caledonia, New York State. After this she came to Canada, and with her family settled in the township of Brantford, County of Brant. Dr. Marquis spent his early years on the farm. He was educated in the public schools of the county, and afterwards at the Grammar School of the village of Mount Pleasant, the head master at that time being Walter T. Briggs, to whose ability as a teacher Dr. Marquis owes much of his subsequent success in life. Mr. Briggs was not only singularly gifted in his profession, but kind and sympathetic as a friend to all his pupils. On leaving the grammar school he immediately commenced the study of medicine under the Hon. Dr. John Rolph, who was then Dean of the School of Medicine in connection with Victoria University. Graduating in the year 1867, he at once commenced the practice of his profession in the village of Mount Pleasant, near the city of Brantford, where he remained for twenty-two years. On the death of Dr. Wm. Corson, he received from the Ontario Government the appointment of physician to the Ontario Institute for the Blind in Brantford, and removed from Mount Pleasant to that city, where he now resides. Dr. Marquis has a very large practice both in city and country, and is sought after very frequently in consultation. He has repeatedly visited the New York hospitals, and is regarded as a specialist in several intricate diseases. He is a member and manager of Zion Presbyterian Church, and has been for two years president of Brant County Medical Association, in which he is deservedly popular.

WALTER WOODS, senior member of the well known firm of Walter Woods & Co., manufacturers, importers and wholesale dealers in wooden ware, willow ware and grocers' sundries, Hamilton, Ont., was born on the 10th of July, 1848, and is the eldest son of James Woods, for many years an esteemed resident of Brantford, and one of the pioneer settlers of Brant County, having at one time occupied part of the property now so well known as "Bow Park" farm on the Grand River. At the age of fourteen Mr. Woods began to make his way in the world by selecting a mercantile life as his vocation, and at the age of eighteen had charge of one of the leading crockery and china houses in Ontario. In 1871 he began business in a small way on his own account, and soon after moved to Hamilton, where, by strict attention to business, liberal advertising and hard work, he has built up one of the best known houses in his line in Canada. His well-known success is due to the uniform quality of his goods, and the unflinching integrity with which he conducts his business. Mr. Woods is a member of the Presbyterian Church, and, though not an active politician, is a staunch Reformer.

ALFRED JOHN WILKES, Q.C., LL.B., of the firm of Hardy, Wilkes & Hardy, Brantford, was born in that city, December 15th, 1847, his father being Mr. Jas. Wilkes, who is still the highly respected treasurer of that city. He was educated at the Brantford public schools and at the University of Toronto where he took the degree of LL.B. He commenced the study of law in Brantford and completed it under Hon. S. H. Blake, Q.C., Toronto. examination was held after his arriving at that age. He is City Solicitor, and, in addition to a large practice in the city and neighborhood, has acted as Deputy Judge for the County of Brant at different periods, and was created Q.C. in January, 1890. Mr. Wilkes was trustee of the Public School Board for ten years, and chairman for three years in succession. studies at Toronto School of Medicine and graduated with honors at Victoria University, Cobourg, in 1889. In 1891 he returned to Canada and began the practice of his profession in Toronto, where he is now working up a successful practice. During his student days Dr. Harrington was in the office of Dr. Arthur Jukes Johnson. He was married November 11th, 1890, to Lizzie, daughter of the late William Caiger, of Toronto.

He received his preliminary education at the Newburgh Academy, and afterwards entered Trinity College, Toronto, where he graduated in 1879. He began public life as a common school teacher, and afterwards went into business, at the age of 21. In 1876 he gave up mercantile life and began the practice of medicine, but after a short time accepted an appointment from the Canada Life Assurance Company of Hamilton to look after their interests in several counties in Western Ontario. At the present time he conducts a very large business in real estate in the town of Galt and elsewhere, and is also engaged in extensive lumbering operations in the County of Bruce. Dr. Lowrey is a prominent member of the Methodist denomination, a local preacher, class leader, steward and Sabbath School superintendent, and takes a deep interest in all moral and religious work. He is a pronounced Prohibitionist and active in temperance reform. He was married August 12th, 1874, to Mary Cathey, daughter of John Cathey, Esq., Alderville, Ont.

THE REV. GEORGE A. MITCHELL, B.A., pastor of Zion Tabernacle, Hamilton, Ont., was born in North Toronto, January 31st, 1841. James Mitchell, his father, came from the North of Ireland in 1832. His mother was a daughter of the late Jacob Snider, a U.E. Loyalist of German descent. Rev. Dr. Scadding, in his volume "Toronto of Old," refers to the subject of our sketch and his brother, William J., and says they "were to be seen twice every day, at all seasons, traversing the distance between Eglington and Toronto, rising early and late taking rest, in order to be punctually present at, and carefully ready for, classroom or lecture-room in town, and this process was persevered in for the lengthened period required for a succession of curriculums." Both brothers ranked high among the prize men at Upper Canada College.

George matriculated with honors in mathematics at Toronto University, and devoted himself to the course in metaphysics and modern languages, and graduated with honors in the latter department in 1867. At the age of sixteen he was converted and entered the ministry of the Wesleyan Methodist Church in 1865. Previous to ordination he was stationed at Clinton, Cooksville, Sarnia and Chatham; after ordination he labored successively at Petrolia, Kincardine, Wingham, Exeter, Harriston, Niagara Falls South, Tilsonburg and Hamilton. As a pastor and an organizer of the elements of the church into peaceful and united action, as a patient and persevering worker with children and young people, and as an earnest and practical preacher, securing increased numbers, stability and spirituality in his various charges, he has few superiors. He has held prominent positions in temperance work, is one of the board of examiners for Niagara Conference, also local examiner for the American Institute of Sacred Literature. He has also filled the offices of district chairman, secretary of Niagara Conference, general president of the Theological Union, and delegate to the General Conference.

CLAYTON SLATER was born in Barnoldswick, Yorkshire, on January 22, 1839, and was married on the 20th of February, 1858, to Judith, daughter of Samuel Proctor. Mr. Slater was educated, as he himself says: "in the high school of practical experience." When seven years old he commenced working in cotton; first, on a bobbin wheel, then hand loom weaving, after that power loom weaving up to eighteen years of age, and since then manufacturing cotton and woollen goods of various descriptions. He came to Canada in the year 1880, when he built a large cotton mill, at what is called "Holmedale," on the outskirts of Brantford. The first piece of goods made in this mill was woven by Mrs. Slater to show that there is nothing degrading in honest toil. In 1883 Mr. Slater built a wincey mill, which he is now operating. He has been all along a strong opponent of the high protective policy of both Canada and the United States, believing that it works against the best interests both of manufacturers and the working classes, and that it is calculated to ruin any country that adopts and clings to it. He is well informed on all questions affecting trade and the manufacturing interests both of England, Canada and the United States, and can discuss by the hour the relation of supply and demand, as well as the effects of a protective tariff upon these natural laws. In religion Mr. Slater is a Baptist and is a most liberal supporter of that church. He was for a time alderman of the city of Brantford, serving the city with marked ability in that capacity; but the pressure of his extensive business has prevented him accepting any other public offices. He has all the characteristics of an honest out-spoken Englishman, and frequently speaks, on public occasions, in favor of his political views. Tempting offers have been made to him to remove his extensive wincey mill to Kent, Ohio; but it is to be hoped that the city of Brantford and the province of Ontario will not be called upon to suffer the loss of such an important industry.

WM. SPENCER HARRISON, M.D., C.M., Brantford, Ont., was born in Milton, Halton County, on the 10th of August, 1863. He received his education at the public school in Milton, Waterdown High School, and Hamilton Collegiate Institute. His father, who is still living (1891), is in his 84th year, and one of the oldest settlers of Halton County. Dr. Harrison spent his early life on his father's farm. He commenced the practice of his profession at Cooks-ville, County of Peel, where he remained two years. In 1887 he went to Europe, where he visited the large hospitals in England and other countries. On returning he began practice in the city of Brantford, where he has already acquired a large patronage. He is a member of Brant County Medical Association, an enthusiast in his profession, and well read in medical science. Dr. Harrison was married on the 6th of August, 1884, to Emma Bertha Skirrow, of Toronto. He is a member of the Methodist Church, teacher of a Bible class, and a member of various benevolent societies.

rines. In 1871 he was appointed over the churches at Thornhill and Richmond Hill, subsequently he had charge of the parishes of Pickering and Toronto townships, Peel County, where he remained for over ten years, after which he took charge of the church at South Adgila. In 1889 he became Dean of Barrie, where he remained until January, 1891, when he was appointed pastor of St. Helen's Church, with the title of Dean of Toronto. The numerous churches built by Father Cassidy will stand as monuments of his affectionate service and untiring energy in the prosecution of his work.

He was educated at Peterboro Collegiate Institute, and in 1873 entered the University of Toronto, where he graduated with honors in 1877, taking the gold medal for mental and moral philosophy. In the entrance examination, he gained a scholarship for general proficiency, and took honors in classics, mathematics and modern languages, as also several valuable prizes during his course in arts. In 1877 he entered upon the study of theology in Knox College, Toronto, where he graduated in 1880. He also attended Union Theological Seminary, New York, where he also graduated. On November 16th, 1880, he was ordained and inducted as pastor of the Parkdale Presbyterian Church, where he remained until 1884, when he accepted a unanimous call to the church in Orangeville. In 1888 he was again called to Erskine Church, Toronto, as successor to the Rev. John Smith, where he has been successful in gathering around him a large congregation. of the kind in Canada. Mr. Ellis is a member and steward of the Eglinton Methodist Church, and takes an active part in the affairs of the denomination. Josephine Shaver, of Etobicoke, on the 16th of June, 1868. In June, 1864, he was received on probation for the ministry of the Methodist Church, and ordained in June, 1868. He afterwards engaged in pastoral work in Ontario until 1882, when he was transferred to Manitoba, and stationed at Portage la Prairie. Mr. Woodsworth has during his ministry held many important offices, such as chairman of the Bracebridge district in 1880, and of the Portage la Prairie district from 1882 to 1887, and was a member of the General Conferences of 1882, 1883, 1886 and 1890. At the General Conference of 1886 he was appointed Superintendent of Missions in the North-West, to which he was re-elected in 1890. He was president of the Manitoba and North-West Conference for 1885-86, and has been elected one of the twelve ministerial delegates from Canada to attend the Methodist Ecumenical Council in Philadelphia in 1891. Mr. Woodsworth is a clear and forcible preacher, an earnest and untiring worker, and has done a great work in Manitoba and the North-West. His quadrennial report to the General Conference of 1890 showed a wonderful amount of prosperity and progress in the work committed to his charge, and depicted in eloquent language the vast possibilities of that great country, of which he may be regarded as the Methodist official head. He is a man of deep and sterling piety, and enjoys the unqualified confidence of all his brethren, lay and clerical. He is enthusiastic concerning his field of labor, and expects that in the future Winnipeg will become commercially and socially, what it is now geographically, the centre of the Dominion. In his addresses in the East, he has given a great deal of practical information, and disabused many minds of false notions concerning what he calls "The Canada of the future."

Dr. Powell began practice at Edgar, Simcoe County, where he remained eleven years. In 1886 he removed to Toronto, where he has acquired an excellent practice. He is a frequent contributor to medical journals, and has read many papers before medical societies. Dr. Powell comes of good old Methodist stock and is an active worker and church member. He is a thoroughly pronounced temperance reformer, one of the founders and the second president of the Medical Student's Temperance League, an organization to which about half of the medical students in Toronto now belong. He was for three years treasurer of the Ontario Medical Association, and for one year its vice-president. Among the many professional and responsible positions held by Dr. Powell, the following may be named:—Lecturer on the Practice of Surgery in the Women's Medical College, Toronto; Second Demonstrator of Anatomy and Lecturer on Surgical Appliances in Trinity Medical College, Coroner of the city of Toronto, curator of the Ontario Medical Library, first vice-president of the Toronto Medical Society, Surgeon to the Massey Manufacturing Company, Medical Examiner of the Confederation Life Association, member of the Toronto Amateur Photographic Association.

After leaving school he was apprenticed four years to carriage making, and afterwards followed that business as foreman of a carriage factory until 1874, when he entered into partnership with W. V. Corbin, under the title of Pattison & Corbin. Their place of business is situated at Nos. 4 and 6 Queenston street. In 1874 he formed a partnership with G. E. Pattison, under the title of Pattison & Corbin. In 1890 they gave up carriage building for the manufacture of electric tram cars, which they have now made a specialty. Their business, which is now very large, extends to British Columbia, where their cars are used, and also in prominent cities in Ontario. Before ordination he travelled the following circuits: South Cayuga, Springfield and Bismarck. He was ordained in 1884 and was appointed to Sheffield circuit, where he remained two years. ALFRED M. COSBY, Toronto, was born in the County of Welland on the 11th September, 1840. His ancestors were U. E. Loyalists, who preferred pioneering in Canada under the old flag to citizenship under the Stars and Stripes. He was educated in Toronto, and took away from the schools ample knowledge for a successful business life. Banking having most attractions for him, he entered the Bank of Toronto as clerk in 1861, and after giving proof of industrious habits and excellent business ability, he was appointed manager of the branch at Port Hope. This position he held until 1876, when he retired from banking life and was chosen to the management of the London and Ontario Investment Company, where he has remained as the head of this important business ever since. It need hardly be said that he is regarded by all who know him as a man of rare business habits, energetic and pushing, while at the same time possessed of a clear head and sound judgment. He has in his veins a mixture of the Irish and Scotch elements, which, when properly blended, are of rare value to public men—the impetuosity and fire of the one being tempered and restrained by the cool judgment and caution of the other. Mr. Cosby is a Liberal in politics, but has never taken any prominent part, and seems to have no desire for party strife. In religion he belongs to the Presbyterian Church, as did his ancestors. He was married in 1870 to Clara A. Worts, daughter of J. G. Worts, of the widely known firm of Gooderham & Worts, distillers, Toronto. As a resident of Toronto, he is an important acquisition to the mercantile and social life of the city, and in his own sphere less obtrusive perhaps than that of many others, has aided in its progress. Such sterling, straightforward business men, found at the head of so many of our monetary institutions, have given Canada a reputation for integrity and solidity above that of many other countries. That their number may never grow less is to be devoutly wished.

sity. He entered the army in 1849, and served for over a period of twelve years in the Royal Canadian Rifles, from which he retired as captain in 1861. He was then appointed incumbent of Christ Church, London, and in 1863 went to Quebec as assistant minister in the Cathedral, returning to London in 1868 as assistant in the Cathedral there. In 1869 he was appointed Canon of the Cathedral, in 1871 Rector, and in 1888 Dean of Huron. the Gospel, and is beloved and respected, not only by the members of the Anglican Church, but by every Christian denomination. As a preacher he is pleasing and impressive, thoroughly Evangelical in his theology, and fearless in setting forth the Gospel. His congregation is large, and his influence for good felt far beyond the city of London. Such men are the light of the world and the hope of Christian civilization.

Six years later he obtained the B.A. degree, with first-class honors, from Toronto University, and the Ph.D. degree from Syracuse University in 1884. Since that time he has done considerable original work in mathematics, being joint author of two works in Algebra, and sole author of a work on Trigonometry. His books are extensively used throughout Ontario and the North-West, and have received the distinguished honor of a flattering review in the leading mathematical journal in Germany. As a teacher he has been especially successful in each of the positions he has held. He was principal of one of the large public schools in Toronto for five years, which he resigned to enter upon Collegiate Institute work. Co., president of the National Club, Toronto, chairman of the Marine Section, and a member of the Council of the Toronto Board of Trade. Mr. Cumberland is one of the most prominent and popular citizens of the Queen City. To his fostering hand Toronto owes a great increase of the water traffic which comes and goes from her docks. He is sort of "guardian to the Grenadiers," the regiment founded by his father, and in whose ranks he himself served as private, and retired as captain. He is a representative Canadian. His motto is "Dominion before Province—Canada United and First."

In 1889 he was elected alderman, and polled the largest vote ever recorded. In 1890 he was candidate for the Ontario Legislature against the Hon. J. M. Gibson, Provincial Secretary, and returned by a majority of 86, being the first Conservative elected for Hamilton to that body since Confederation. This election was contested and Mr. Stinson unseated. At the Bye-election, after a plucky fight, his opponent was returned. Mr. Stinson was married on the 4th of October, 1882, to Agnes, daughter of the late Charles James Hope. In politics he is a Conservative, and in religion an Episcopalian.

JAMES ARCH. MACDONALD, barrister, Toronto, was born on the 1st of September, 1863, in that city. By parentage he is Scotch. He received his elementary education at the public schools, and finished under private tutors. At the age of twenty Mr. Macdonald was one of the finest specimens of Canadian manhood, and considered one of the best athletes. He was one of the Toronto Lacrosse Club, when it gained the championship of the world. He began the study of law in 1882 with the firm of Moss & Co., and was called to the Bar in 1887. He then entered

His success at the Bar has been very marked, and his services sought after in some of the most important criminal cases, such as that of Kane, who murdered his wife in 1889, and Byron, who murdered Wade, in the Mimico tragedy of 1890, which cases, together with his recent appearance in the celebrated cases of Taylor vs. Johnston and Massey, brought him prominently before the public. He attended the public school at Fingal, and, with literary tastes and ambitions, entered the Normal School, Toronto, where, at the age of seventeen, he obtained a first-class certificate. He at once took charge of the Select School, Arkona, Lambton County, which he taught for a year very successfully. Here a change came over his life and he commenced his studies for the ministry of the Methodist Church, entering Victoria College, Cobourg, from which he graduated in 1864 as medalist and valedictorian. He was then ordained and appointed to Toronto. In 1866 he became assistant to Rev. Dr. Douglas, Montreal, and the following three years labored in Windsor, Ont., when he received and accepted a second call to Toronto. His next appointment was to the Centenary Church, Hamilton. ANDREW JOS. McDONAGH

Toronto, Ont., was born on February 16th, 1867, in Lanark County,
Ont., and is the son of the late Patrick
M. McDonagh, farmer and Justice of the Peace of that place. Dr. McDonagh received his earlier education at the public schools and afterwards at Napanee High School. In 1884 he entered the Royal College of Dental Surgeons of Ontario, Toronto, and graduated in 1887. Immediately after completing his studies he established himself in his profession on Spadina Avenue, where he has in a very short time suc-

tive practice, which is daily increasing.
Dr. McDonagh is a member of the Roman Catholic Communion, and also belongs to St. Vincent de Paul and other charitable societies. On the 12th of February, 1889, he married Maggie
E. O'Byrne, daughter of Lawrence
O'Byrne, merchant, of Toronto. Dr.
McDonagh is of Irish parentage, his father being born in Galway, Ireland, but he emigrated to Canada when quite a young man, and attained honorable distinction in this country. His mother was Catherine McDonnell, who also comes from an Irish family.

J. A. RADFORD, O.S.A., architect, author and artist, Toronto, was born in the city of Devonport, Devonshire, the garden of England. For some years he studied drawing in the Mechanics' Institute, which at that time was a branch of the world-famed South Kensington School of Art. Coming to Montreal at an early age, he attended the Government School of Design, and there completed his mechanical education, taking honors. Mr. Radford as a designer, colorist and draughtsman, has few peers, having won numerous competitions. The most noted of these, probably, being the last "Ice Palace," Montreal, of which large and beautiful photographs are seen in many Canadian and continental homes. He is a particularly energetic member of the Ontario Society of Artists and Toronto's Architectural Club, and is known as a traveller and writer of short stories. Being now in the prime of life, he will, doubtless, have great opportunities of elevating the public mind and taste in the artistic interior decorations of their magnificent palatial residences, which of necessity are bound to be erected as the opulence and population of our country advance.

His education began in the public school of Athens, but at the age of thirteen, owing to financial difficulties at home, he determined to provide for himself. He learned the printing business, and finally became associate editor upon the journal he began with as a news-boy. Coming to Canada, he continued his occupation—now as a “typo,” now as a reporter, then again as an editor—when failing health compelled him to relinquish his vocation altogether. His education has been acquired by the faithful improvement of midnight hours and leisure moments. He comes of a literary family—his uncle, Rev. J. P. Weethce, LL.D., being a prominent lecturer and author in the United States, and a contributor to Canadian and American periodicals. Mr. Sparrow has since become a member of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons of Ontario, and has a splendid dental practice.

In his eighteenth year he made a profession of faith and united with the Baptist Church in that place. On the 14th of October, 1863, he was married to Alice Jane Tufford, who still survives him. After his marriage he entered into partnership with his father, under the style of A. Harris & Son, and the business having increased rapidly, they removed in 1872 to Brantford, where the firm was enlarged and styled by its present name. He enjoyed the sincere affection of the hundreds of his workmen, and, as one remarked at his death, "Seemed more anxious concerning their spiritual welfare than their work or wages." He occupied important offices in the church, and taught a large Bible class. He was president of the Young Men's Christian Association for two successive years, president of the Bible Society, alderman, and chairman of the finance committee of the City Council. Some years before his death, declining health compelled him to desist from some of his manifold Christian duties. Hoping that a sea voyage would establish his health, he went to England, and subsequently to Clifton Springs, N.Y., but all these efforts were unavailing. On the 6th of August he returned to his home, where he lingered on the border land before he crossed the Jordan of death, speaking loving words to his family and friends. During his trying sickness he never murmured, but waited with Christian patience the time of his departure. He has left behind a precious memory and an example of honor and Christian manhood.

DUNCAN McNABB HALLIDAY, Chesley, Ont., was born May 2nd, 1837, in the County of Renfrew, Ont. His parents were John Halliday and Catherine McNabb, of Perthshire, Scotland. In 1857 he removed to Chesley and engaged in the general store business, being the pioneer storekeeper of the town. Mr. Halliday is a public-spirited citizen, and has held many trustworthy offices in the town and county. He has been treasurer of the town since its incorporation, and postmaster and Justice of the Peace since 1873. He is a member of the Presbyterian Church, and has been an elder for ten years. For a period of ten years he had the contract for ornamenting and gilding the well-known Raymond sewing machines. In 1872 he relinquished this branch of business and commenced the manufacture of furniture in company with his brother, F. C. Burr, and F. B. Skinner, the latter retiring in 1882, a business that from small beginnings has grown to be one of the largest of its kind in Canada, it being well known from one end of the Dominion to the other. Mr. Burr is a prominent and active member of the Methodist Church in Canada, and also holds the offices of trustee and steward. He was married in 1876 to Helen, daughter of William Mitchell, of Guelph, Ont. They have a family of two daughters.

He received his education at the public schools of that city, and afterwards at the celebrated Collegiate Institute there, where he was thoroughly prepared for higher studies. After his collegiate course at Hamilton was finished, he matriculated at Trinity University Faculty of Medicine, Toronto. After this he graduated at the Royal College of Dental Surgeons, Toronto, in 1890, having studied dentistry under his father, the late Dr. C.

S. Chittenden, of Hamilton, and on his death took up his practice in Hamilton, where he still continues, taking a high place in his profession. In politics Dr. Chittenden belongs to the Liberal-Conservative party of the Dominion of Canada, and by religion he belongs to the Episcopalian Church. As the doctor is still a comparatively young man in his profession, he will doubtless in coming years take a high standing among the dental surgeons of Ontario. He is like all native Canadians, irrespective of party, patriotic in regard to his country and enthusiastic in his calling.

JOHN ELLIOTT, contractor and builder, Toronto, formerly of Brantford, was born at Heck, in the parish of Snaith, Yorkshire, England, August 15th, 1822, and is a son of the late Thomas Elliott, a native of Pontefract, Yorkshire. He left England 25th May, 1843, for Canada, passing on from Quebec to Montreal, Kingston, and Toronto. He then moved to Cleveland, Ohio, and other parts of the United States, where he remained about a year. In September, 1844, he returned to Toronto, and there worked at his trade as contractor and builder till June, 1846. In that year he entered the firm of Wilson, Elliott & Metcalf, stone-cutters and builders, which partnership was dissolved in two years. He then went into business on his own account in Toronto until July 14th, 1850, when he came to Brantford with his brother William, under the name of J. and W. Elliott. His brother William subsequently went to London. After the decease of his brother, John took up his business and built several public buildings. During his life in Brantford he erected the Central Prison, Toronto, the Post Office in that city, the Parliament buildings at Quebec, the Court House and jail in Bruce, and an addition to the county buildings in Brantford. He also erected the Hughes Bros. building, Toronto, did the mason work for the county buildings in Norfolk, and for the Hon. Wm. McMaster's store on Yongestreet, Toronto—built an addition to the Normal School, the Mammoth block on King street, and did the mason work on the Lieut.-Governor's house and other public buildings in Toronto and elsewhere. He is at present building the City Hall and Court House of Toronto, one of the finest buildings on the continent of its class. Sylvester Neelon is his partner, the firm name being Elliott and Neelon. On his moving to Toronto he received a public banquet, an address and gold chronometer.

HENRY WADE, retired merchant, Brantford, Ont., was born on the 19th December, 1810, at Moneymore, County Derry, Ireland. He was educated in the public and National schools of Stewartstown, to which his parents had removed in 1813. He studied for a time with a view to the medical profession. This, however, he abandoned because of the prejudice existing against a profession which was at that time associated with the names of Burke and Hare, the notorious murderers. He then learned the carpenter trade and came to Canada in 1833. After living at Brockville,

Prescott and Hamilton, he came to Brantford in 1835, and has remained there ever since, except three years spent at Niagara. On coming to Brantford he worked at his trade, but shortly afterwards entered on mercantile business, in which he was successful, and retired in 1860. Mr. Wade is one of the very few remaining landmarks of Brantford city, having lived there continuously for half a century, and did much to add to her prosperity during her pioneer days. He has crossed the Atlantic several times to visit his native land. He is a prominent member of the Wellington Street

Methodist Church, and has for nearly forty years continuously occupied all the important positions in the gift of the church. He is a strong Prohibitionist, was the first worthy patriarch of the Sons of Temperance in Brantford, and has held other important positions in temperance organizations. In the days when he first led the temperance movement, the drinking of alcoholic liquor as a beverage, and the selling of it, was considered respectable, and to seek to curtail the traffic needed no small amount of moral courage. He has outlived those dark days, and has now the consciousness of having done much to elevate the moral sentiment of his beloved city. He was married in Toronto April 28, 1842, to Miss J. M. Cudmore, of Thornhill, Ont. He has had eleven children, of whom but three sons and one daughter are now living (1891).

In 1884 he was appointed manager of the branch at Mount Forest, and finally in 1885 was appointed manager of the branch at Newmarket, which position he still occupies. Mr. Souch is a prominent member of the Methodist Church, and also of the Board of Management. He is also Court Deputy H. C. Ranger of the I.O.F., a director of the Mechanics' Institute, and occupies many other important positions in the community in which he resides, which is quite complimentary to his years. In politics he belongs to the Reform party. He was married in September, 1881, to Victoria D., daughter of Thomas Shaw, of Port Perry, Ont.

Eby under the name of Eby, Blain & Co. This is now one of the leading firms in Toronto. Mr. Blain was married on the 29th of June, 1887, to Miss Huldah Lee Jones, of Maryland, U.S. He attends the Presbyterian Church, and is vice-president of the Toronto Board of Trade. While active in business, he gives considerable attention to outside matters. He has been captain and paymaster of the Queen's Own Rifles, president of the Commercial Traveller's Association of Canada, and president of the National Club, Toronto, an institution to which we are largely indebted for our Canadian national sentiment. Mr. Blain is one of the active and prominent business men of Canada.

he is also interested in British Columbia timber lands. Mr. Hammill is a member of the Methodist Church, and also steward and trustee of the Collier Street Church, Barrie. In politics he is a Liberal, and in 1882 was elected alderman for St. Catharines. REV. JOHN M. WILKINSON, B.A., Toronto, was born in Markham, on December 5th, 1852. He received his primary education at the public schools in Toronto. For a long period he was under the deepest religious conviction and felt called upon to enter the ministry, although having a dread of its responsibility and his unfitness for the sacred calling. Finally, while attending a cottage prayer meeting, the burden on his heart rolled away and he returned to his father in Toronto, telling him of the great change that had taken place. He began work under the Rev. James Hannon, in Toronto, and afterwards attended the Collegiate Institute at Cobourg. Eighteen months afterwards he matriculated in Victoria University and entered the class of 1872. Next year, on account of family affliction, he was called home, and in 1874 was received as a probationer for the ministry by the Methodist Conference in Hamilton, and was assigned to the Port Hope District. He also travelled in the Sunderland and Port Perry Circuits. He then returned to Victoria, where he graduated as valedictorian of the class of 1880. The same year he was ordained at Belleville and was sent to Bradford. After this he filled appointments at Toronto, Barrie, and finally at Agnes Street Church, Toronto. This church was at the time of the union heavily mortgaged, but under Mr. Wilkinson's pastorate the debt was reduced from sixteen thousand to six thousand dollars, and a thousand souls converted in three years. After completing his three years' term in this church, he went to Britain to study Evangelistic methods, and returning in 1889, opened his favorite Mission known as the "People's Tabernacle," which is crowded to its full seating capacity of two thousand. The Mission so far is entirely undenominational, and is supported by the collection and the free will offerings of the people. Mr. Wilkinson was married in December, 1881, to Emma, eldest daughter of R. Philip, merchant manufacturer, of Toronto.

GEORGE HARVEY DOUGLAS, barrister, 5 Toronto street, Toronto, Ont., was born on Christmas Day, 1863, at Chatham, Ont. He was educated at private schools and Toronto Collegiate Institute. A son of William Douglas, Q.C., of Chatham, grandson of George Douglas, late of Thurso in Caithnesshire, Scotland, a descendant of the Perthshire branch of the Douglas family, and a Presbyterian Jacobite. His maternal grandfather was Captain Richard Harvey Hudson, one of Sir James Mathison's commanders during the Chinese war, arising out of the English opium trade, and a lineal descendant of Sir Hendrick Hudson. At an early age he developed a taste for classics and modern languages, and under the tuition of a gentleman who had studied Latin under several famous Jesuit fathers, he became well acquainted with the Latin poets and prose writers. He was first articled to Hector Cameron, Q.C., of Toronto, until the North-West Rebellion in 1885, when he served first with the Queen's Own Rifles, was afterwards transferred to Boulton's Scouts, was then attached as a supernumerary to the Yorkton Force under Major Watson, where he served in outpost and despatch duties. After the rebellion he was a student with Douglas, Douglas & Walker, of Chatham, Ont., with Beaty, Chadwick, Blackstock & Galt, also Beaty, Hamilton & Cassell, Toronto, became a solicitor in January, 1889, and a barrister in January, 1890, and has practiced since in Toronto. He has been a life-long Conservative, is now a member of the Young Men's Liberal-Conservative Club, Toronto, and has fought for his party on the platform in three contests in Western Ontario. He was gazetted a lieutenant in the 24th Kent Infantry in October, 1885, and qualified at the Infantry School, Toronto, in 1886, resigning his commission in 1889, after having served four years as a private, and four years under commission. S. SCOTT, M.D.

WILLIAM HENRY PEARSON, general manager and secretary of Consumers' Gas Co., Toronto, was born on the 9th of November, 1831, at Brisbon, London, Eng. He was educated at John Boyd's Academy, Toronto, in W. H. Coombe's, and the District Grammar School, Kingston, and other private schools. He received a thorough English education, and also a course in Latin. (The late Chief Justice Harrison and Erastus Wiman were his schoolmates at Harte's Academy.) In early life he had a strong predilection for music and art, but the death of his parents prevented the gratification of his desires. In 1849, under the appeals of John B. Gough, he became a total abstainer. He entered the Toronto Post Office in 1847, when fifteen years of age, the entire staff at that time consisting of postmaster, three clerks and a letter carrier. His salary for three years was only $160, and the labor, including Sunday, severe. He was appointed chief clerk of the Consumers' Gas Co. in 1854, secretary in 1874, and general manager in 1887. When converted in 1852 he refused to work on the Lord's Day. Mr. Pearson was until twenty years of age a member of the Church of England, but under the preaching of Rev. James Caughey, he joined the Richmond Street Methodist Church, where he remained a member for 36 years, till it was closed in 1888. He taught in the Sunday School six years, and was superintendent over thirty. During this period the school was signally blessed by numerous conversions, many of whom entered the ministry. For some years the school was the largest in Canada. Numerous testimonials presented to him showed how his labors were valued. Mr. Pearson has been a class leader for 36 years, trustee and delegate to Conference, and for 35 years has given a 10th of his income to the Lord. He has held the offices of director of the Consumers' Gas Co., Lindsay; vice-president American Gas Light Association, and treasurer and director Toronto Philharmonic Society. He married Miss M. A. Cline March 5th, 1856.

WILBUR C. MATTHEWS, of Toronto, was born in the township of Vaughan, Ont., in July, 1846. He remained at home on the farm until twenty, obliged to be content with such educational advantages as the district school then afforded. After this he attended the Commercial College, Toronto, for a term, and on the completion of his studies, obtained a position in the Registrar's Department, Ottawa, where he remained two years, when he left and took a position as copying clerk in the Toronto office of Dunn, Wiman & Co. After a short apprenticeship there, he was sent by the firm to their branch at Albany, N.Y., and after two years steady, hard work, as clerk and traveller there, the firm offered him the position of manager of the Memphis, Tenn., office, which offer he accepted, and after five years labor, he left it in a flourishing condition. Mr. Matthews was married at Memphis in October, 1873, and the following year was appointed manager of the Toronto office, with Hamilton as a branch. Since taking charge in Toronto, the entire business has been more than trebled, and branch offices have been opened in London, Winnipeg, Victoria and Vancouver. On leaving Memphis he was presented with an address signed by the entire wholesale trade, bankers, and city officials, accompanied by a handsome gold watch. Mr. Matthews takes an active part in all athletic sports. He was mainly instrumental in getting up the Toronto Athletic Grounds Company, of which he was president for several years. He is a member of the Granite Curling Rink, a director of the Great North-Western Telegraph Company, and Polson Iron Works Company, and chairman of the Gymnasium Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association. He is considered an active and pushing member of society, and is highly esteemed by his fellow-citizens for his genial manners and obliging ways. The career of Mr. Matthews is evidence of what determination and perseverance can do in the absence of many advantages in early life.

JAMES NELSON PEER, grain merchant, Toronto, was born on the 22nd of July, 1845, in the township of Nelson, Halton County, Ontario. After passing through the public schools he graduated at the Commercial College, Toronto. He then engaged as accountant with David Plewes, of Brantford. At the end of four years he formed a partnership with Wm. Plewes, of London, and for eight years carried on business under the name of Plewes & Peer. He then returned to Brantford and spent five years more with his former employer. In 1884 he entered the establishment of W. P. Howland & Co., Toronto, and in 1886 became partner in the firm of Pennee & Peer, Quebec and Toronto. His present business as Peer & Co. was begun in 1889. Mr. Peer is an active member of the Methodist Church, and connected with its various boards. He is a member of the I.O.F. and of the Board of Trade. He was married in 1860 to Theresa Josephine Kenny, who died in March, 1870, and again, in 1872, to Rebecca, daughter of James Zimmermann, of Burlington, Ont.

JAMES BUCHANAN, planing mills, Goderich, Ont., was born at Karmunnock, Scotland, July 5th, 1836. He was educated at the parish schools, and came to the United States at the age of eighteen. Having been apprenticed in Scotland to the cabinet-making trade, he worked as carpenter for a time in Ohio and other places, until the year 1857, when he settled in Goderich. He commenced as an employee of John McDonald in the mill he now owns. Mr. McDonald having given up the business, Mr. Buchanan and two fellow-workmen bought the mills. Some years afterward Mr. Buchanan became sole proprietor, and has been very successful in business. He is a liberal giver to religious objects, and occupies important positions in the Presbyterian Church, such as elder, manager, Sabbath School teacher, etc. He is a friend of the Salvation Army, having paid the expenses of three of their missionaries to India, and supports one of them in the field. He is Master Workman of the A.O.U.W. He was married on the 28th of February, 1859, to Miss Jannet McKay, of Scotland.

REV. R. N. GRANT, Orillia, Ont., was born near Peterborough, Ont. He received his early education chiefly at the Grammar School, Stratford, County of Perth. After leaving the Grammar School he taught for several years, and also prosecuted his studies with a view to the Bar. Having changed his mind, he decided to study for the ministry and entered Knox College in 1859, and graduated in 1865. Soon after he was licensed by the Presbytery of Paris, and received calls from Markham, Picton, Waterdown and Wellington Square. He accepted the latter and was ordained and inducted January 23rd, 1866. After remaining there five years, he accepted a call to Knox Church, Ingersoll, where he remained eleven years. In 1882 he received the call to his present large and influential charge. In 1891 he was unanimously elected Moderator of the Synod of Toronto and Kingston. Mr. Grant is a most effective platform speaker, an able preacher and diligent pastor. He is also one of the most gifted magazine writers of the day. He married, May 9, 1866, Marianne McMullen, Fergus, Ont.

REV. THOMAS LOGAN TURNBULL, Presbyterian Church, Oneida, Ont., was born in 1850, at Berwick-on-Tweed, England. He received his preliminary education at the schools of his native town. He emigrated to Canada in 1889, and after spending six months in Toronto, was called to the First Presbyterian Church, Port Colborne. He was unanimously called to Oneida June 26th, 1891, after repeated solicitations from that congregation to become their pastor. Mr. Turnbull studied at the University of Edinburgh, and afterwards at the English Presbyterian College in London. He was associated, for a time, with the late Prof. Elmslie at Willisden, and afterwards settled four years at Whitby, Yorkshire, England, from which charge he came to Canada. He was married in 1885 to Louise Jane Beaumont, of South Elmsall, Yorkshire, England, by whom he has two daughters. In politics he belongs to the Reform party. Mr. Turnbull will doubtless take a leading position in the ministry of his church in this great Dominion.

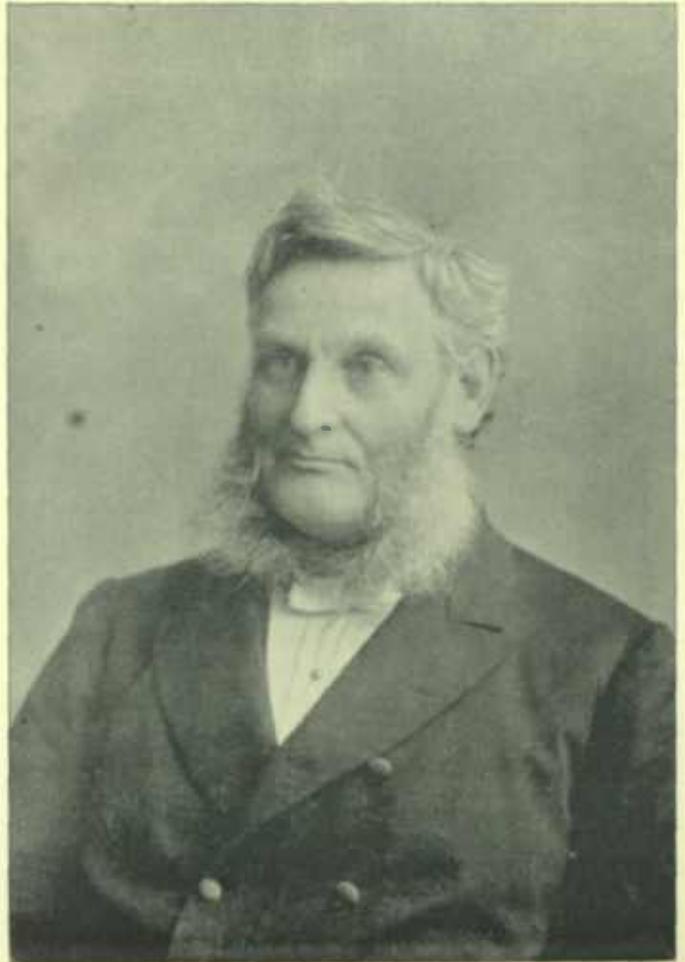

HON. ARTHUR S. HARDY, Q.C., was born at Mohawk, Ontario, Brant County, on December 14th, 1837. He is descended from U.E. Loyalists on both sides, and is a son of the late Russell Hardy, formerly of Brantford, and latterly of London, Ont. Mr. Hardy was educated at the County of Brant Grammar School, at the Private Academy kept for some years by the Rev. W. W. Nelles, Mohawk, and at Rockwood Academy. He was called to the Bar of Ontario in 1865, was appointed a Q.C. in 1876, and is a Bencher of the Law Society of Ontario. From the very outset it was safe to predict a brilliant and vigorous professional career for Mr. Hardy, for he had conspicuous natural brilliancy. He was daring, and had fire and unusual mental alertness. He soon became head of the Bar in his county. He was first returned to the Legislative Assembly for his present seat in 1873 on the resignation of the sitting member, was re-elected by acclamation at the general election in 1875, appointed Provincial Secretary and Registrar in March, 1877, at which time he was re-elected by acclamation, and also re-elected at the general elections of 1879, 1883, 1887, and 1890. Upon the resignation of the Hon. T. B. Pardee, he was in January, 1889, appointed Commissioner of Crown Lands. He is one of the strongest members in the Mowat administration, and has no superior in the House as a ready and effective speaker. Mr. Hardy was married on January 10th, 1870, to Mary, daughter of the late Mr. Justice Morrison, of Toronto. He is not only thoroughly Canadian from both sides, but is specially a County of Brant man, his mother's family having settled in Brant County about the year 1800, and his father's family having come to the county a few year's after. Mr. Hardy's children are the sixth generation of the family who have died, or were born, and are living in the county. South Brant is proud of her representative in the Local House, and from appearances will likely continue the honor.

ALEXANDER BURNS, M.A., D.D., LL.D., president of the Ladies' College, Hamilton, Ont., was born at Castlewellan, County Down, Ireland, in 1834. He was educated at the National Schools of Ireland, and afterwards entered Victoria University, Cobourg, in 1855, and graduated as Prince of Wales gold medalist in 1861. He served as tutor in the University four years, and then preached three years at Stratford and Drayton, Ont., after which he was called to the presidency of Iowa Wesleyan University, then to that of Simpson College, Iowa, and finally was recalled to Hamilton, Canada, in 1879, where he has remained since as president of the Ladies' College. In his youth Dr. Burns learned a trade and earned enough money to enter the University. Hence his practical sympathy with workingmen. He was raised in the Presbyterian Church, and still boasts of his early religious training in that fold. Under the preaching of the Rev. James Caughey, he entered the Methodist Church, with which he has been since identified. He has, however, a warm regard for the teachings of his childhood, and is opposed to emphasizing anything but the essentials of religion, and has been for years a strong advocate for closer union among the Evangelical churches in Canada. In 1882 Dr. Burns was tried for heresy, because of his liberal views and freedom of utterance, but was acquitted on all points.

He is a specialist in Biblical literature and criticism, on which and kindred subjects he is a frequent lecturer. He is a member of the Board of Regents of Victoria, but was strongly opposed to federation. Although not directly in pastoral work, he preaches nearly every Sabbath, and is in constant demand for special services. As president of the Hamilton College, the oldest in the country, he has done grand work for his denomination. Dr. Burns belongs to the Masonic body, and is a decided Reformer in politics. He was married in June, 1863, to Sarah Andrews, of Devonshire, England.

REV. DANIEL ECKER, Tapleystown, Ont., was born in Binbrook township, Wentworth County, May 18th, 1846. He received his education at the public schools of his own county. At the age of nineteen years he obtained a second-class certificate, on which he taught three years. In 1870 he entered the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and was ordained in 1875. Since that time he has occupied the following circuits: Blenheim, Walsingham, Nanticoke, Stanley, Brussels, Canboro, Port Robinson, Rockford, and Tapleystown, his present charge, where he has been two years and returned for the third. The work on each circuit Mr. Ecker has occupied has prospered under his faithful ministrations. While unostentatious in his manner, he is doing quiet, effectual work for the Church of God. In the truest sense of the word, he is a self-made man, having attained his present position by hard work and indomitable perseverance. Mr. Ecker is a member of the Ancient Order United Workmen. He was married August 14, 1872, to Laura H., daughter of Rev. David Williams, who died on April 21st, 1890, leaving two daughters.

PHILIP HENRY DRAYTON, Toronto, Ont., was born on September 27th, 1846, at Barbadoes, West Indies. His parents were originally from Northamptonshire, Eng. He was educated in Cheltenham College, Eng., and in the Royal Military College, Eng. He served as an officer in Her Majesty's service—16th Foot R.C.R. Regiment and Army Service Corps. After coming to Canada he studied law in the office of Messrs. Bethune, Osler & Moss, Toronto. In 1887 he received the appointment of Examiner and Lecturer in the old Law School, Toronto, and in 1890 he received that of Lecturer in the new Law School there, which is an evidence that he is thoroughly competent for this important position, and that his valuable services rendered in the past are appreciated. Mr. Drayton was Alderman for the Ward of St. Thomas in Toronto for three years. While in the City Council he was chairman of the Board of Health, for which position he had special adaptations and filled with credit to himself and the city. He was married in the year 1868 to Miss Covernton, daughter of C. W. Covernton, late chairman of the Provincial Board of Health.

REV. FATHER M. J. TIERNAN, rector of St. Peter's Cathedral and chancellor of the London diocese, was born in May, 1846, two miles from Essex Centre. His father, James Tiernan, emigrated to the United States in 1830, and, after residing three years in New York, went to Kent, in Ohio, where he became acquainted with Miss Ward, to whom he was married in 1834. The same year they removed to Detroit, and in 1835 came to Canada, where he purchased one hundred acres of land in Essex County, and subsequently became owner of three hundred acres. During the Rebellion of 1837 he was forced to leave his family and went to the front, serving with the rank of sergeant until the close of the rebellion. His wife still lives on the old homestead at the advanced age of eighty-two. Father Tiernan remained on his father's farm until he was seventeen years of age, and after receiving his early education in the parish school, obtained a first-class certificate. After teaching six months he entered in 1863 St. Vincent College, Latrobe, Pa., U.S.A., to study for the priesthood. He remained there four years, and then, on account of his health, he went to the Seminary of Our Lady of Angels at Niagara Falls. From this institution he graduated in 1869, and on December 19th, 1875, was ordained priest in the old Cathedral of London, Ontario, by His Lordship Bishop Walsh, now Archbishop of Toronto, and in six weeks from that day was made chancellor of the diocese. For five years he was secretary to His Lordship Bishop Walsh, and when the erection of the new magnificent cathedral was commenced, the financial transactions were placed in his hands. In less than five years the cathedral was practically completed and dedicated for service. The sum of $150,000 has already been expended upon it, but when the design is completed, it will cost not less than $180,000. The success of this undertaking is mainly due to the ability and perseverance of Father Tiernan, who spared no pains to make it a credit to the Forest City.

LARRATT WILLIAM SMITH, Q.C., D.C.L., of Summerhill, in the township of York, was born at Stonehouse, Devon, Eng., on the 29th of November, 1820. He arrived in Toronto with his parents in 1833, and entered Upper Canada College the same year, leaving it in 1838, after a successful career, during which, amongst other numerous prizes, he carried off the prize poem for 1837. In August, 1838, he entered the Upper Canada Law Society, and served five years under articles with the late Chief Justice Draper, and was called to the Bar in Hilary Term, 1844. In 1843 he entered the University of King's College, Toronto, and matriculating in Arts, passed on to law, and took the degrees of B.C.L. and D.C.L. respectively, the latter in 1852. He is a life member of the senate of Toronto University, and has occupied the positions of Pro-Vice-Chancellor and Vice-Chancellor in that institution. He has been connected with several prominent legal firms, and is at present the senior partner in that of Smith, Rae & Greer, and has been for many years a Bencher of the Law Society. He took an active part in the militia during the Rebellion of 1837, serving in the active force for a time until quiet was restored, and retired as senior major of the 6th Battalion of Toronto Militia soon after the Trent excitement had subsided, having previously qualified himself by passing through the Military School at Toronto.

He has occupied, and still occupies, many important positions in public life, as president, vice-president, and director of numerous companies, besides being connected with many important public trusts. In 1876 he acted as chairman of the Royal Commission to investigate certain charges in connection with the Northern Railway. Mr. Smith is a Reformer, but has never taken any prominent part in politics. In religion he is a member of the Church of England. He has been twice married and has ten children still living. He possesses great business capacity, and has a wonderful grasp of public affairs.

REV. DAVID H. TAYLOR, of the Methodist Church, Port Colborne, Ont., was born in the year 1847 at Oldham, Eng. He left England and came to Canada in 1880, and was appointed successively to London for two years, Charing Cross for two years, Courtland for three years, Drumbo for one year, and to Port Colborne for three years. In all these places the congregations greatly increased under Mr. Taylor's charge, and his removal from Port Colborne, the sphere of his present ministry, to Fonthill, is very deeply regretted by an attached people. He received his education at St. Domingo Street School in Oldham, of which the Rev. J. Jackson Wray was principal, and his theological training for the Methodist ministry in connection with the Primitive Methodist Church, in England, and under the guidance of the Revs. W. Antliff, D.D., and James Gamer. He has six brothers in England and one in the United States, who are all actively engaged in mercantile life. His father is also still alive. Mr. Taylor, has a promising future before him in the church to which he has consecrated his talents and abilities. He was married in 1869 to Miss Wild, of Oldham, Eng.

JONATHAN ELLIS, Port Dover, Ont., was born January 12th, 1843, at Holmfirth, Yorkshire, Eng. His parents emigrated to Canada when he was only eighteen months old, and settled in Markham, York County. Here, at the public schools, Mr. Ellis received his education, and afterwards learned the business of printing. In 1861 he removed to Ancaster, where he learned the business of manufacturing woollen goods. For the past eleven years he has been successfully engaged in the manufacture of knitted goods at Port Dover, where he owns a large mill, giving employment to one hundred hands. He is in religion a Methodist, and has held most of the offices in the gift of the church open to laymen. He has been class leader, recording steward, local preacher, delegate to annual conferences, and was delegate to the General Conferences of 1886 and 1890. In politics he is a Reformer, and was the Reform candidate for South Norfolk for Dominion Parliament in the election of 1891. He was educated at the Toronto Model School, and in 1880 began the study of mechanical dentistry in the office of J. B. How. Since that time he has given his attention to the higher grades of this line of dentistry. In 1888 he opened a Public Dental Laboratory to meet the wants of the profession, the better class of which have duly appreciated his efforts to advance this particular branch of the business, as he now receives work from not only Ontario, but throughout the Dominion. So far as known it is the only institution of its kind in Canada that manufactures gold, rubber, celluloid and aluminum plates, gold and porcelain crowns, bridge work, and the various appliances for regulating the malformation of the teeth. Mr. Campbell has already acquired an extensive business, which is daily increasing as his laboratory becomes more widely known. He was married on the 17th of September, 1889, to Edith Macklin, daughter of John Macklin, of Toronto.

E. T. CAMPBELL.

Returning to Canada he began the practice of his profession in Toronto in 1889, where he is fast gaining a reputation for himself as a skillful and successful practitioner. With his thorough course of study, both in Canada and the United States, and diligent prosecution of his profession, he has, like many others in the rapidly extending city of Toronto, an auspicious future before him. Dr. Milner is a member of the Independent Order of Foresters, and also of the Ancient Order of United Workmen.

For three years after this he was principal of Norwood High School, and for one year principal of St. Mary's High School. In these positions he was eminently successful, and received the highest testimony as to his skill and proficiency from the trustees, and especially from the late Professor Young, then Inspector of High Schools. JOHAN ARCHIBALD LEITCH, Brantford, Ont., was born on the 10th of October, 1843, in the township of Dunwich, County of Elgin. He was educated first in the public schools of his native section, and afterwards in the Grammar schools of London and St. Thomas. His parents, Archibald and Flora Leitch, emigrated from the Highlands of Scotland, Argyleshire, in 1842, and settled in the wilds of Dunwich, West Elgin, where they set out at once to make a home for themselves in what was then a dense forest. It was here that Mr. Leitch was raised under the severe hardships and privations incident to a new and un-cleared country. In early youth he was employed upon his father's farm, and attended school in the log school house situated near his father's home as opportunity presented itself. His education was necessarily intermittent, sometimes two days in school and one out of school, attending to farm duties, in order to pay debts connected with the farm. With an ambition highly commendable, and characteristic of many Canadian youths, he applied himself to acquire such an education as would fit him for teaching, and thus qualified at the age of 18, he began the teaching profession, and continued in it for fourteen years, eight years of which he taught in his native section, and six years in school section No. 8, Ancaster. After this he moved to Brantford and embarked in fire insurance, in which calling, as in school teaching, great success crowned his efforts. Through energy and honest dealing he soon obtained the confidence of the public, and before long made his way to the top of the ladder among his fellow competitors in the race for wealth and position. Mr. Leitch holds a first-class Grade A. Provincial Certificate. In religion his views are in accord with that of the Old School or Primitive Baptists. In politics he is a Reformer, and also a Justice of the Peace for the County of Brant. Mr. Leitch was married July 18, 1871, to Martha Ann, daughter of Thomas Shaver, of Ancaster Township.

Leitch and Catherine McLaughlin, natives of Scotland. Mr. Leitch was educated at the public school in Middlesex and the Collegiate Institute of Strathroy, Ont. He afterwards entered McGill University and the Presbyterian College in Montreal, where he completed his theological course. He was ordained by the Presbytery of Montreal in 1885, and became pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Valleyfield, Quebec. In 1889 he received a unanimous call to Knox Church, Elora, where he labored for over two years with unusual success. Says an Elora correspondent: "He is a fearless and outspoken preacher; an unwearied visitor, and lives in the esteem of all classes here." In June, 1891, he received a call to Knox Church, Stratford, which he accepted, and has just entered upon his work there. Mr. Leitch is a member of the Order of I.O.O.F. He was married July 14th, 1885, to Flora Stewart, daughter of A. C. Macdonnell, Williamstown, Glengarry County, Ont.

He received his primary education in Barrie Grammar School, and in 1871 entered Toronto University, from which he graduated in 1874. After this he entered Trinity Medical College and graduated with honors in 1877, taking the silver medal for general proficiency. He was then appointed House Surgeon in the Toronto General Hospital, where he remained eighteen months, after which he went to Europe and studied in the hospitals of Edinburgh and London. In 1880 he began practice in Barrie, where he has had marked success, and is in the enjoyment of a large and lucrative practice. Dr. Ross takes an active part in municipal matters. He is a member of the Council, also of the School Board. He is also a member of the Masonic body, of the Independent Order of Foresters, of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, of the Ancient Order United Workmen, and other fraternal organizations. REV. WILLIAM M. POMEROY, Florence, County of Lambton, Ont., son of the Rev. Daniel Pomeroy, was born on the 10th of July, 1849, in the village of Newburgh, Ont. He received his education—first at the Grammar School of Newburgh, and afterwards at Albert College, of which the Rev. Dr. Carman, now General Superintendent of the Methodist Church, was principal for many years. Mr. Pomeroy made a public profession of his faith in Christ at the early age of ten years, and became a licentiate and Sunday School superintendent at the age of sixteen. In 1868 he was received as a probationer in the Ontario Annual Conference, and has continued in the Methodist ministry without cessation from that time until the present, receiving every year flattering certificates as to his acceptability and success in the work of the pastorate. During the twenty-three years of his ministry, he has been superintendent of twelve circuits in different parts of Ontario, and has been exceedingly successful in adding largely to the membership of the church, and also in erecting churches and parsonages in many of the charges where he has been stationed. He is well known in the denomination and among his brethren for his ability in raising money for congregational and denominational purposes. Mr. Pomeroy is a thorough student, an able and fluent speaker, a thoroughly sound theologian, and inherits, to a large extent, the well known force and energy of his father, who was recognized as one of the foremost preachers of his day in the denomination. As he is still in middle age, his well known attainments, studious habits, pulpit and pastoral ability will doubtless secure for him still more prominent positions in his church. He was married on the 5th of April, 1871, to Sarah Alice Bird, of the township of Sidney. The secret of Mr. Pomeroy's power and success is due to the fact that while yet in early youth he gave his heart to the Saviour, and built deep down on the Rock of Ages.

On leaving school he served one season on board the "Olive Branch," another on the "Amherstburgh," and two seasons on the "Sinbad." In those days there were no railways in Canada, and while thus employed, he had the opportunity of visiting all the leading cities along the water front from Quebec west, a privilege greatly prized. In 1849 and 1850 he was engaged clearing timber land, and in 1852 was employed in a general store in Goderich. In 1858 he entered the sheriff's office at Stratford as clerk and deputy, and on the separation of Peel from the County of York, he received the appointment of deputy sheriff, which office he held from 1867 to 1873, when he was appointed by the Ontario Government to his present position. During Mr. Chestnut's pastorates in the churches in Ireland, extensive repairs were effected upon the buildings, and considerable progress made in church work. His ministry in Canada promises to be attended with equally as good results. He is an able preacher and diligent pastor, and greatly loved by his people.

for the long period of twenty-five years. In 1883 he was appointed warden for the County of Simcoe. Mr. Quinn was for many years a highly respected and successful merchant in the town. He spent a considerable period of his earlier life in Australia, but not finding that country quite congenial to his taste, he again went abroad and travelled over a large portion of the globe. He subsequently returned to this continent and located in Port Dover, and being desirous of embarking in commercial life, he soon identified himself with the best interests of the community, and commenced a large business in lumbering and carriage making, in which he was very successful, retiring with a competency. Mr. Gillies was for many years reeve of Port Dover; in fact he has occupied nearly every civic position in the gift of the people, and is universally respected as a man of character and integrity. largely increased, and one of the most beautiful churches in Western Ontario has been erected. It has a very large tower, in which are three bells, and a clock with four dials. Mr. Veit has been twice president of the Canada Synod, having held that office for the past four years, previous to that held the same office for three years, has been examiner of candidates for the past 15 years, and for four years co-editor of the Kerzhenblott, the organ of his denomination. JOHN GEORGE STEWART, V.S., Brantford, Ontario, was born March 10, 1853, in the township of Mariposa, Victoria County, Ont. He began his education at public schools, and completed it at the Commercial College. He commenced practical life by learning the trade of a horse-shoer, for which he soon developed such rare skill and fine adaptation that his time was fully occupied in attending to the most important and difficult work in this line. His reputation and success soon warranted him in opening up business for himself in the city of Brantford, where for years he has done a large and profitable trade. Mr. Stewart's ambition soon led him to take up the study of veterinary surgery and medicine, which he pursued, while carrying on his business, with such determination and success that, in 1883, he graduated from the Ontario Veterinary College, Toronto, with first-class honors. He immediately entered upon the practice of his profession in the city of Brantford, and from the start had a large practice, which has steadily increased. In the same year in which he graduated, he was appointed Government Veterinary Inspector for the County of Brant. Dr. Stewart is also a registered member of the Veterinary and Medical Association of Ontario. For three years in succession—1888, 1889, and 1890—he was alderman for the city of Brantford, and during the two last mentioned years was chairman of the Committee on Buildings and Grounds. During his presidency, and under his supervision, the new Police Court was built. He was also the mover of the resolution, which was carried, offering the New England Company an annuity for the two hundred acres, known as Lovejoy's Grove, for the purposes of a park and cemetery for the city. In politics he is a Liberal. In religion he is a Baptist, and holds the office of deacon in the Park Baptist Church, Brantford. He was ordained priest by Bishop Walsh, of London, in 1873. After that he labored as curate in London, Amherstburg and Stratford, and then was transferred to the diocese of Hamilton, where he became private secretary to Bishop Crinon. He was then appointed assistant to the Venerable Dean O'Reilly, of Dundas, and at the same time was prominent in founding the House of Providence, which now occupies the buildings formerly held by the Methodist Church. After three years of labor in Dundas, Father Lennon, on account of his health, was ordered by his physician to visit Europe, and during his four months' absence, travelled in England, Ireland, France, Germany and

He passed the entrance examination to the Stratford High School at eleven years of age, and for five years occupied a front rank both in classics and mathematics. In 1864 he entered the College of St. Sulpice, Montreal where Italy. Returning to Canada in good health, he served for short periods in Caledonia, Walkerton and Arthur, and in 1882 was removed to Brantford, where he is still stationed. Here he has given great evidence of his energy and administrative talent in completing and reducing the debt of St. Basil's Church, one of the finest ecclesiastical structures in Ontario. Father Lennon is an able preacher and a diligent priest, and while loyally devoted to his church, is on friendly terms with those who differ from him in religion. While a loyal Canadian, he is still a devoted son of his native country.

After teaching for a number of years in rural schools, he entered Trinity Medical College for his professional training. He graduated M.D., C.M., in April, 1888, receiving first-class honors. In his boyhood he worked on his father's farm, as many of our prominent professional men have done. A few months after graduating, he commenced the practice of his profession in Tavistock, as successor to Dr. Rankin, where he has remained since. He is popular among all classes, and has a large and a remunerative business, which is rapidly increasing. Dr. Steele is a member of the Presbyterian Church, and takes a deep interest in all departments of church work. He received his education at the public schools, and took a course of mental philosophy afterwards, and received the title of S.S.D. After leaving school he gave considerable time to self-culture. Young Dierlamm spent his boyhood on his father's farm, but very early in life he gave evidence of the great artistic skill which he has since developed to such a remarkable degree. When a boy of seven he painted in water colors, and afterwards studied in oil colors, and under the best artists on the continent, continued to develop and perfect himself in this art, for which he has such remarkable natural adaptation. For nine years he conducted a photograph gallery in connection with an art studio, but abandoned it to devote himself wholly to portrait and landscape painting. He settled in Stratford in 1889, and has already established a provincial reputation as an artist. He belongs to the Evangelical Association, holding the offices of trustee, Sunday School superintendent, steward, etc.

Merritt, was born October 17th, 1824, at Mayville, Chautauqua County, U.S. He received his education at the Grantham Academy, St. Catharines, and Upper Canada College, Toronto. After leaving college he entered a wholesale house in Montreal. In 1844 he went into business in St. Catharines with the late Hon. James R. Benson, under the title of Benson & Merritt. In 1846 he engaged largely in milling and shipping alone, doing the first trade in shipping flour direct to the Lower Provinces in his own vessels and bringing return cargoes of molasses, sugar, salt, etc. He also started a line of boats, in connection with his lake boats, between St. Catharines and Brantford, via the Welland Canal and Grand River, which proved a great success until the Great Western Railway was opened. He retired from business in 1869. Mr. Merritt was elected to the Dominion Parliament in 1868, and returned again in 1872. On the dissolution of the House by the Mackenzie Government, he declined the unanimous nomination of the Liberal-Conservative party to stand again. He was director and president of the

Niagara District Bank until it amalgamated with the Imperial Bank of Toronto, since which time he has been vice-president of the Imperial Bank, was managing director of the Welland Railway until sold to the G.T.R., at which time, on his retirement, he was presented with a valuable service of plate by the share and bondholders. JAMES WALTER LYON, publisher, Guelph, Ont., was born at Uniondale, Susquehanna County, Pa., U.S.A., on April 24, 1848. His father was Walter Lyon, and his mother's maiden name was Marie A. Giddings. He received his education at the district and select schools. At the age of nineteen he left home to canvass for books in Michigan, and at twenty-two he had made and saved ten thousand dollars. He was then taken into partnership by his employer, O. A. Browning, of Toledo, Ohio, and in 1872 they opened a branch of the business in Canada, which proved a great success. In 1874 he dissolved partnership with Mr. Browning and started business for himself, under the name of "The World Publishing Company." The title represents the business, as it has grown to be world-wide, and, like the British Empire, the sun never sets on their field of labor. Mr. Lyon has sent hundreds of men to such countries as South Africa, Hindoostan, West Indies, Mexico, South America, and has sent five hundred men to Australia alone. One local work issued in the latter country, entitled "The Picturesque Atlas of Australia," has had a sale amounting to over three million of dollars. The Queen accepted the dedication of this work. Thirteen engravers from The Century and Harper's Magazine were sent to Australia to help prepare it. Hundreds of thousands of dollars were spent upon this publication, and a marvellous work produced. Among the books which Mr. Lyon has published and sold extensively in Canada are the following: "Kitto's History of the Bible," "Polar and Tropical World," by Dr. Hartwig, "Wood's Bible Animals," "Royal Path of Life," "Story of the Bible," "Treasury of Song," Dr. Manning's "Stock Doctor," "Practical Home Physician," etc., etc. He is at present very extensively engaged in publishing works in Spanish, which find a ready sale in Mexico, Central America, and South America. He took the degree of Ph.N. in 1887, M.A. in 1889, and Ph.D. in 1890. The course prescribed for the latter degree covered 36 different subjects and over 17,000 pages, and in addition two thesis. Mr. Galbraith has been delegate at five General Conferences, chairman of a district for eight years, was the last president of the Montreal Conference of the Methodist Church of Canada, and the first president of the Montreal Conference of the Methodist Church after the union in 1884. In addition to his pulpit duties, he takes a deep interest in the educational work of the church, and has given substantial support to its various colleges. Dr. Galbraith is a popular preacher. His sermons are convincing, generally brilliant, and, when he is enthused, are eloquent and powerful. As a man he is genial, humble and sympathetic, which well known qualities of heart have had much to do with his wonderful success in pastoral work. He has been twice married. His first wife was Hattie Howell, the only child of Isaac Reid Howell, of Jerseyville; his second wife is Kate, daughter of John Breden, of Kingston, Ont.

WILLIAM BUCK was born on the 22nd of August, 1828, at Ancaster, Ontario, and was married to Alice Foster on the 1st of October, 1856. His grandfather was a U. E. Loyalist. In 1834 Mr. Buck moved to Brantford and learned the business which has now, under his enterprise and perseverance, assumed such large proportions. Working as a journeyman for a time, he saved about one thousand dollars, and at the age of twenty-four he started a tin and stove business, which, in 1858, was merged into the foundry business, until now his stoves and furnaces are well known in every part of the Dominion of Canada. Mr. Buck is an earnest Baptist, and member of the Park Church, Brantford. In 1856 he united with the Brantford Baptist Church, then under the pastorate of the Revd. T. L. Davidson, D.D., minister of the only Baptist Church then in Brantford. At the Baptist Convention, held in St. Catharines in 1888, he was appointed one of the governors of McMaster University. He has for many years been a director of the Brantford Young Ladies' College, and also vice-president of the Board. Some years ago he was appointed treasurer of the Baptist Church Edifice Society for Ontario and Quebec. He has been one of the directors of the Royal Loan Society from the beginning, and has also occupied the position of president of the Board of Trade. He was on the committee of the Brant Memorial, now erected in Victoria Square in the city of Brantford. The foundry business of Mr. Buck is now one of the largest establishments in Brantford, employing many workmen, and with every prospect of extension in the years to come, as the products of his establishment have already acquired a national reputation. A man of strict honor and integrity, possessing the confidence of the entire community, and of all who come in contact with him, either in business affairs or in matters pertaining to the church or the state. Such men add greatly to the moral and business worth of any community.

CHARLES JOSEPH WILLIAMS, Hamilton, Ont., was born in that city on the 24th of June, 1843. He is the eldest son of J. M. Williams, Esq., Registrar of the city of Hamilton, who was also elected the first Reform member for the city at the time of Confederation. Mr. Williams began his education at the private academy conducted by the well known Dr. Wm. Tassie, who afterwards went to Galt. From Dr. Tassie's academy he went to the Osborne school, and then finished his education at the Central school at the age of eighteen. After leaving school he spent two years as bookkeeper in his father's office, and then went to the United States for three years, where he gained experience in mercantile life, and held prominent positions in Warsaw, New York, and Chicago. He then returned to Canada, and was taken into partnership with the Canadian Oil Company, his father having the chief interest in the same, and who is known as the discoverer of Petroleum oil in Canada, and the first to ship and manufacture the article in this country. The name of Mr. J. M. Williams can be found in the Geological Department at Washington as the discoverer of Crude Petroleum, the first consignment having been made to a business firm in New York city. The Canadian Oil Company has medals that no other company in this country have received for making the best illuminating and lubricating oils. During an experience of thirty-five years, not a single accident has occurred where "Williams' Safe Oil" has been used, a fact that speaks volumes for the purity of the quality. Mr. Williams is in religion a Presbyterian, and has been manager and treasurer of Knox Church, the oldest in the city, for three years. He is now a member and trustee of McNab Street Presbyterian Church. He is not a member of any of the many excellent societies, preferring the congenial society of home. He was married on the 20th of September, 1871, to Sarah L., only daughter of J. C. Prout, Troy, N.Y.

HON. JAMES ROBT. GOWAN, LL.D., Q.C., Senator, Barrie, Ont., was born on the 3rd of December, 1817, in Ireland. James E. Small, Toronto. He was called to the Bar in 1839, and then entered into partnership with Mr. Small. Four years later he was appointed Judge of the judicial district of Simcoe, the largest in Upper Canada. He had many hardships and dangers to contend with in his pioneer work. In 1815 Judge Gowan was appointed one of the three judges necessary under "the Act for assimilating the Canadian law of probate and administration to that of England." He assisted in the consolidation of the Statutes of Canada in 1858 and 1859, in the consolidation of the Criminal Law in 1869, and in 1876 in the consolidation of the Statute Law of Ontario. In 1871 he was appointed, with four other gentlemen, a commission to inquire into the constitution and jurisdiction of the several Courts of Law and Equity. In 1873 he was one of the judges appointed on the Royal Commission in the well-known matter of "The Canadian Pacific Railway Scandal." Senator Gowan retired from the Bench in 1883, having occupied the judicial office over forty years. In 1885 he was appointed by the Crown a Senator, Sir John Macdonald being complimented upon his choice by the press of the country. Purity of purpose, entire freedom from undue influence, and an earnest desire to do justice, have characterized him as Judge and Senator during the whole of his long career. He has been a conspicuous worker in the cause of education since 1843, and for many years has been chairman of the Barrie Collegiate Institute. Senator Gowan was married in July, 1853, to Anna, daughter of the late Rev. S. B. Ardagh, A.M., rector of Barrie.

In 1876 he received a call to Bradford, which he accepted, remaining there nearly seven years. In 1883 he accepted a call to St. Andrew's Church, Stratford, where he has since remained, and, under his pastorate, the congregation has greatly increased, and the membership of the church almost doubled. JOHAN JOSEPH VICKERS, Toronto, late proprietor of "Vickers' Express," and president of the Vickers' Express Company (Limited), was born in Dublin, Ireland, in 1818. His father held a government position in the treasury department in Dublin for many years. Mr. Vickers received his education in Dublin, and, when a young man, entered the service of the City of Dublin Steam Packet Company, where he remained several years. He sailed to America in 1849 and entered the service of the Howard Steamship Company in New York city, where he remained for two years. Having heard of the splendid agricultural prospects of Canada, he determined to try farming, and accordingly moved to the Bay of Quinte district, and settled on a farm in Prince Edward County, Ontario, but after following the pursuit for one year, he abandoned it and moved to Toronto, and in 1852 engaged with the American Express Company, with whom he remained two years. In 1854 the Northern Railway of Canada was opened for traffic, and Mr. Vickers embarked in the express business on his own account, continuing until 1888, when he sold the business to the American Express Co. Since his settlement in Toronto, he has taken an active interest in all that concerns the city's welfare. He was elected alderman in 1864 and remained in the council until 1870. In 1858 he visited the Lake Superior district in the first steamer to Thunder Bay, and believing that the Kaministiquia River would, in the future, be a great harbor, he purchased a large portion of the river frontage, and owing to the extension of the Canadian Pacific Railway, which now runs through the greater portion of it, he has a very valuable franchise. Mr. Vickers is captain in the Sedentary militia. In politics he is a Conservative. He was married in 1865 to Catherine Mary, eldest daughter of the late John W. Dunbar Moodie, the first sheriff of the County of Hastings, her mother being Susanna Moodie, the eminent authoress.

WILLIAM PATERSON, M.P. for South Brant, Brantford, Ont., was born in Hamilton on the 19th of September, 1839. He is the son of James and Martha Paterson, who came to Canada from Aberdeen, Scotland. His parents died in 1849, after which he was adopted by the Rev. Dr. Ferrier, of Caledonia, an old friend of his parents, with whom he lived until nearly fifteen years of age. He received his education at the schools of Hamilton and Caledonia, and his studies embraced, besides the ordinary branches, English, French, Latin and general classics. He then entered the establishment of Ignatius Cockshutt, Brantford, where he remained nine years, leaving it to enter business for himself in 1863, when he formed a partnership with H. B. Leeming, and began the manufacture of biscuits and confectionery. Mr. Leeming retired in 1876, leaving Mr. Paterson sole proprietor. The business is now one of the most thriving industries in the Dominion. Mr. Paterson has led a busy public life. He was deputy reeve of Brantford from 1869 to 1871, mayor of Brantford in 1872, elected member of the House of Commons for South Brant in 1872, and again in 1874, in 1878, in 1882, in 1887, and in 1891. Mr. Paterson is a recognized champion of the Reform party. His debating ability is of the very highest order, and he has few equals in the House of Commons as an eloquent, pithy, and telling speaker. Although he can be, and often is, severe in his criticism of opponents, there is no malice in his utterances. The result is that, although no other member of the Opposition has more frequently, or more effectively assailed, the Government of Sir John Macdonald, he has the good will of all parties in the House, Conservatives and Liberals alike. In religion Mr. Paterson is a member of the Farringdon Independent Church, and one of the most popular preachers of that body, but his parents were strict Presbyterians. He was married on the 10th of September, 1863, to Lucy Clive, daughter of T. C. Davies, of Brantford township.

 Robert Anderson Scholarship each year, and the Calvary Church Medal at the completion of his course. During the vacation of 1887 Mr. Gerrie was selected to visit the churches of Ontario and Quebec and to present to them the interests of the college. He received several calls and accepted one from the Congregational Church, Stratford, and was ordained in 1888. Although this was then a mission, yet, after the first year, it became self-supporting, and the membership is steadily increasing, as are its spiritual and material interests. Mr. Gerrie is secretary of the Western Congregational Association, Ont., and statistical secretary for the Union of Ontario and Quebec.

He has been very successful in business and has accumulated considerable means. He was a member of Council for the township of Elderslie for a number of years before Chesley was incorporated, and reeve of the town six years. He owns a private bank in Chesley, and is still active in business. He has never failed to retain the esteem of the people by whom he has been so long and favorably known. He was township councillor of Orford for two years—1869 and 1870, deputy reeve in 1872, reeve from 1873 to 1878, and in 1875 was elected warden of Kent County, the youngest person who has ever occupied the chair. He has been Justice of the Peace since 1873, and is associated with the Huron & Erie Loan & Savings Co. His present honorable position is due to his energy and strength of character. He is a pronounced Reformer, and has declined to be nominated for parliamentary honors, but while studiously avoiding publicity on all occasions, he has never refused to accept positions of trust when the welfare of the community required his services. In religion Mr. Lee is a member of the Methodist Church.

WILLIAM THOMSON, lumber merchant, Orillia, Ont., was born in Peterboro on the 14th of March, 1860. At sixteen he entered the office of his father, and on his death in 1881, at the age of 21 he became president and general manager of "The Longford Lumber Company," which manufactures all kinds of lumber and woodenware. The Longford mills at Longford and woodenware factory at Orillia employ about three hundred and fifty men. In 1886 Mr. Thomson bought the stock of "The Rama Timber Transport Company," formed for the carrying of saw-logs and timber from the Black River to Lake St. John, and then over a portage to Lake Couchiching, whence the logs are towed to different mills, giving employment to seventy-five men during the summer months. He was educated at Orillia High School and Toronto Collegiate Institute. He is a member of Orillia Presbyterian Church and on the Board of Management. He was married in 1888 to Miss Eva Haw, of Port Hope. Mr. Thomson's success is the result of his special adaptation to the requirements of a large business.

WILLIAM B. COWAN, M.D., homeopathic physician, Guelph, Ont., was born on the 13th of March, 1840, at North Dumfries township, County of Waterloo. He was educated at the public schools, and at the Galt Grammar School, and afterwards began the study of medicine under Dr. Husband, of Galt, now of Hamilton. In 1863 he entered the Homeopathic College, New York, and graduated in 1866. Returning to Canada, he was licensed by the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario, and began the practice of his profession in Stratford. He then removed to Guelph, where he has practiced for twenty-five years. Dr. Cowan has been most successful in his profession, and has patented several medical and mechanical contrivances, by which he is widely known in Ontario. He is an elder of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, a member of the Board of Management, and deeply interested in the denomination. He is a member of the A.O.U.W., C.O.F., Select Knights, and other organizations. In politics he is a Liberal. RICHARD BROWN, of the well-known firm of Brown Brothers, stationers and bookbinders, Toronto, Ont., was born at Newcastle-on-Tyne, Eng., May 13th, 1834. He and his brothers were the third generation following this branch of business, as their father and grandfather were engaged in the same trade in the old land. Mr. Brown was educated at the Royal Grammar School at his birthplace as above, and came with his parents to Toronto early in the year 1846, where Mr. Brown's father commenced business as bookseller and bookbinder. Shortly after his son Richard entered upon his apprenticeship, and served eight years at the same trade with the house of Thomas Maclear. Early in 1856 Richard formed a partnership with his brothers, Thomas and John, and commenced doing business as stationers, account book manufacturers and bookbinders, under the name of Brown Bros. Owing to their energy and perseverance they soon took a leading position in the trade, from which they have never receded, as their business will now compare favorably with any in the Dominion. For over a quarter of a century, in addition to their other business, they have been the publishers of the Canadian Pocket and Office diaries, and extensive manufacturers of fancy leather goods. Richard Brown is now the sole surviving member of the firm, Thomas having died in 1867, and John in 1882. Mr. Brown is in religion a Methodist, and has been a member of that denomination for nearly 40 years, and is now connected with Sherbourne Street Church. He has held all the important positions in the church, from steward to superintendent of the Sabbath School. He was married March 27th, 1861, to Elizabeth, daughter of Dr. Slade Robinson, who came from England to this country in 1831. Mr. Brown's life contains an inspiration, for it is readily seen that his present prominent position in business is due to the industry, push and honesty of purpose that have marked his long and successful business career.

REV. H. T. CROSSLEY, Evangelist, is a Canadian of English and Irish descent. He was born in the County of York, Ont., on November 19th, 1850. His boyhood was spent on a farm. At the age of nineteen he received a first-class provincial certificate from the Toronto Normal School, after which he taught school at Culloden for four years. He continued his education some years later at Victoria University, preparing for his life work. Mr. Crossley was religiously inclined from a child, and, at the age of seventeen, was converted and joined the Methodist Church. When twenty-three years of age he entered the ministry and spent ten years in the regular work of the church as pastor. During his pastorate he saw the fruits of his labor, many being converted, not only on his own circuits, but on other charges where he was invited to help his brethren. In 1884, by consent of his Conference, he began the work of an Evangelist, and from that time until now he and his co-laborer, Rev. John E. Hunter, have been engaged in union revival services with the various evangelical churches in the leading towns and cities, from Montreal, Kingston and Ottawa in the East, to Winnipeg, Vancouver, and Portland, Oregon, in the West. He has always addressed large audiences, and many thousands have been added to the different churches as a result of these meetings. Mr. Crossley has special qualifications for this great work. First, he has a broad catholic spirit and large sympathy. Second, as a preacher, he is clear, logical, pointed and convincing. His language is plain Anglo-Saxon and free from cant, slang or coarseness. His sermon on "Mysteries" has led many sceptics to become Christians. Third, he sings from the heart to the heart. His voice is a well-trained baritone, and possesses great clearness, sweetness and pathos. Every word is distinctly uttered. Fourth, he has strong confidence in God to bless His own word, when faithfully presented, and to crown personal effort with success.

REV. JOHN E. HUNTER, the well-known Evangelist, was born in Durham County, Ont., July 29th, 1856. His boyhood days were spent on a farm, where he acquired the physical vigor necessary for the arduous labors of an evangelist. He was brought up a Presbyterian, but at the age of fifteen was converted in a Methodist revival, and four years later was called, like Elisha of old, from the plough to the pulpit. His circuits became the centres of extensive revivals, and also many other fields where he assisted in special services. During his probation, Mr. Hunter spent two years at Victoria College, and shortly after his ordination, on the 12th of July, 1882, was married to Miss Jennie Jones, of Essex. He was then, by his own request, transferred to the Manitoba Conference, where he continued in the pastorate until, the conviction of his call to evangelistic work becoming more intense, he, in July, 1884, joined Mr. Crossley, and the two went forth, like flaming evangelists, through the principal towns and cities of the Dominion, gathering thousands into the churches. London, Stratford, Belleville, Ottawa, Toronto, Brantford, Montreal, St. Thomas, Winnipeg, Detroit, Portland, and the cities of the Pacific Coast have shared in the harvest of blessings. Mr. Hunter is of Irish descent, and possesses all that keenness of perception, nervous sensibility and tendency to wit, so characteristic of the Irish people. He is also endowed with much of that peculiar force called magnetism, which attracts and holds attention and constitutes its possessor a leader of men. He is a man of power in the pulpit, his Bible readings are intensely practical and interesting, and his exhortations, in their melting pathos and impassioned appeal, are unique and full of persuasive power. He shows marvellous tact in managing a revival meeting, no general on the field of battle having more perfect control of his forces. God has richly endowed him for this special work. His home is No. 113 Wellington street, St. Thomas.

REV. ISAAC TOVELL, pastor of Gore Street Methodist Church, Hamilton, was born in Ermosa township, Wellington County, Ont., on the 8th of November, 1845. He received his education at the public school of his native township, at Rockwood Academy, and at Victoria University, Cobourg. In 1866 he obtained a first-class teacher's certificate, on which he taught for two years. He was converted and joined the church in 1866 while engaged in teaching. Within three weeks the church, recognizing his gifts, gave him license to exhort, and this was followed in three months with a local preacher's license. He then joined the Wesleyan Methodist Conference on probation. After joining the Conference he preached for three years on the following circuits: Millbank, Berlin, and Georgetown, then attended Victoria University for two years. In 1873 he was ordained and appointed to the charge of Sherbourne Street Methodist Church, Toronto, which was then affiliated with Elm Street Church. Mr. Tovell has served the following charges in their order: Millbank, Berlin, Georgetown, and in Toronto, Sherbourne Street, Wesley, Richmond and Berkley Street churches, and in Peterborough, George Street and Charlotte Street churches. From the latter place he went to the First Methodist Church, St. Catharines, and from there to Gore Street Church, Hamilton. He is a most pleasing and forcible speaker, and when roused completely, captures his hearers by his remarkable eloquence. He has held several denominational offices, such as chairman of District, secretary of Conference, member of Board of Examiners, and member of the Senate of the Wesleyan Theological College, Montreal. He was elected delegate to the General Conference in 1886 and 1890. While a resident of Toronto, he was appointed by the City Council for ten years in succession on the Board of Examiners of the city schools. Mr. Tovell was married on the 20th May, 1874, to Miss Emma Watkins, of Hamilton, a graduate of the Wesleyan Ladies' College.

and afterwards to the church at Harrison, Clifford and Drew. He was appointed rector at Thorold June 1st, 1880, and resigned December, 1886, his health having failed, and he is now on sick leave at Oakville. In the year 1883 he began the study of architecture in the office of Messrs. Gordon & Helliwell, Toronto. In 1887 he opened an office on his own account at 4 King street East, but business having increased he was compelled to remove to larger premises. In 1872 he removed to Brantford, having admitted his son John and Mr. J. K. Osborne into the business. Mr. Harris was converted at a revival service held at Boston, Ont., when eighteen years of age, and at once joined the Baptist Church, of which he has ever since been an honored member. He has occupied nearly every official position in that denomination open to laymen. There are few men in the land who have given more money to the cause of Christ than Mr. Harris. The majority of the weaker Baptist churches in Ontario have felt the benefit of his warm heart and ample capital. He presented the church lot, costing $8,000, to the Walmer Road Baptist congregation, Toronto, of which the Rev. Elmore Harris, his son, is pastor. He also gave the building lot to the Sault Ste. Marie Baptist Church. But his many benefactions cannot be enumerated in the short space of a page. He was married October 11, 1841, to Mary Morgan, of Beamsville, Ont. While residing in Toronto he was financial secretary and treasurer of the Separate School Board, during which time many new schools were erected, and through his instrumentality the City Council issued debentures by which the separate schools received money for building purposes on the same principle as the public schools received it. During his ministration in the various parishes debts were wiped out and the different churches renovated, and fully supplied with necessary articles of furniture befitting the services of God. Wellington County by the late Bishop Fuller. He took a deep interest at this time in educational affairs, being for two years president of the Mechanics' Institute, a High School trustee, and president of the High School Literary Society. In 1887 he was appointed rector of Thorold and Port Robinson by the present Bishop of Niagara. On leaving Elora he was presented with an illuminated address by the clergy of the Rural Deanery of Wellington County. He was married on June 1st, 1875, to S. E. He received his education at the public school, supplemented by private study, and afterwards received a first-class certificate, on which he taught for a time. He then entered Albert College, and, on leaving it, again taught school. At the age of twenty he united with the Methodist Church, and began as a local preacher, and was then received into the regular ministry by the Niagara Conference of the M.E. Church in the year 1867, and, after a two years pastorate on the Maitland Circuit, he was ordained a deacon by Bishop Richardson at London in 1869. He then supplied Parkhill and afterwards Florence. He was ordained an elder at Lynden in 1872, and since that time has been stationed at Highgate, Petrolia, Alvinston, Mount Elgin, Saltfleet, Troy, and, after the Methodist union, 1886, at Louth and Grantham, Tintern, and his present charge at Glanford. For ten years he was treasurer of the Niagara Conference Missionary Society. He has always been a member of Alma College Board. He married, January 2, 1862, R. E. Woodhall, of Delaware township.

JOHN WEATHERSTON, of Hamilton, Ont., was born 30th January, 1804, in Berwickshire, Scotland. He received his education at Greenlaw, in Berwickshire, and afterwards worked on a farm from 1814 to 1828. He then started contracting for large public grounds, landscape gardening, etc., laying out among others the extensive policies of Lord Polwarth and the Duke of Roxburgh, and G. Belle, Esq. In 1837 he started rail-roading as foreman on the Leeds and Thurst Railway in the North of England, and was until 1852 employed on all the principal railways in the North of England and Scotland. Mr. Weatherston then came to Canada and accepted the responsible position of Inspector and Superintendent under George L. Reid, the Chief Engineer on the Great Western Railway. In a letter received by Mr. Weatherston from Mr. Reid in 1890, he says: "You are the only survivor of the chief track and bridge inspectors whom I left on the line when I retired in 1872. When I look back to the period when we had so much anxiety from defective rails in the winter and spring months, during many consecutive years, I feel that it was to your vigilance and foresight and unusual energy of character that we were preserved from serious accidents. I was particularly fortunate in having as my chief practical helper one so thoroughly reliable and efficient."

In 1875 Mr. Weatherston accepted a similar position on the Canada Southern Railway, which he held for five years. In 1880 he went to Michigan and built eighty miles of the Jackson, Lansing and Saginaw Railway, and afterwards became track superintendent on the Canadian Pacific Railway, until compelled by a serious accident to retire. Since that period he has been manager and lessee of the Hamilton and Dundas Railway, which he successfully conducts. Mr. Weatherston has been twice married,—first to Frances B. Hall in 1836, and next to Isabelle Scott in 1872. He is a member of the Masonic body. He is a Liberal in politics, and in religion a Presbyterian.

CHARLES S. HOTCHKISS, of the Eagle Cultivator Manufacturing Company, Brantford, Ont., was born in the year 1854 in the County of Haldimand, and was married in 1877 to Jennie P. Willoughby, fourth daughter of the late Rev. W. Willoughby, a well-known pioneer Methodist minister, whose memory is held in esteem for his abundant labors in many parts of Ontario. He was educated in the public schools of the province. His father was one of the earliest settlers in the township of Oneida, and regarded by all who knew him as one of the best farmers in Ontario, and one of the most pronounced Reformers in the locality where he resided. Soon after leaving school, Mr. Hotchkiss entered the service of the Grand Trunk Railway at Caledonia as telegraph operator and ticket agent. After some three years service at this point, he was promoted to the Stratford ticket office, and on September 21st, 1877, was appointed as chief train despatcher for the Hamilton and North Western Railway at Hamilton. On Nov. 1st, 1881, he removed to Battle Creek, Michigan, to accept the position of train despatcher on the Chicago and Grand Trunk Railway. After serving in this position for over a year, he became superintendent's secretary, and, after eighteen months, was again promoted to the responsible position of train master, which he held until August, 1887, when failing health compelled his resignation and his connection with railroad work, in which he had been so eminently successful. Mr. Hotchkiss then removed with his family to Brantford, and, after regaining his health, entered the manufacturing business as one of the partners of the Eagle Cultivator Company, and also manager of its agencies. Mr. Hotchkiss is a member of the Colborne Street Methodist Church, steward, Bible-class teacher, and also a most acceptable lay preacher. He is regarded by his numerous friends as a man of the highest integrity and Christian character, and enjoys the full confidence of all who know him.

a full member of the Methodist Church at eleven years of age. He felt called to the sacred ministry early in life, and at the age of twenty-one consecrated himself to the service of the Methodist Church. He was received as a probationer in the Canada Conference in 1867. Before he was ordained he travelled the following circuits: Smithville, Anrora, Thorold, Chatham. He was ordained a minister at Belleville in 1871 by the late Rev. Dr. Wm. Morley Punshon, who was at that time president of the Methodist Conference. During his ministry Mr. Woodsworth served the churches at Wardsville, Ridgetown and Jarvis, then Ridgetown again. Afterwards he was appointed to Dundas, then Colborne Street Church, Brantford, from which he was removed to his present charge. The church buildings at Wardsville, Bothwell, Ridgetown, Morpeth and Colborne Street, Brantford, were built under his administration. He is one of the best financiers in the Methodist Church, and, indeed, has scarcely a peer in the denomination for that special work. He is also an earnest Gospel preacher, a man of deep and sterling piety and greatly beloved by all, and especially by a large number in the various churches who have been led by him into a higher and nobler life. He has held many prominent positions in the gift of the Conference, and possesses the confidence of all his brethren. He was married on the 11th of July, 1871, to Miss Charlotte J. Bridgman.

REV. RICHARD W. WOODSWORTH, Niagara Falls South, Ont., was born at Toronto July 5th, 1846, being the second son of the late Richard Woodsworth, architect and builder of that place, who for forty years was a local preacher in the Methodist Church. He received his education at the public schools and the Model School, Toronto. At the age of seventeen he took a position as clerk in a mercantile house, and after that became a clerk in the office of the Canada Permanent Building and Saving Society of Toronto. Mr. Woodsworth was converted when a young child, and became

DANIEL SPRY, Post Office Inspector, of Barrie, Ont., was born November 29, 1835, in the township of Marlborough, Carlton County, Ont. He received his education at the public schools in his native county and at the Model School, Toronto. On the completion of his studies he was for a time in a law and land office, then turned his attention to mercantile pursuits. He was appointed to the Toronto Post Office in 1854, where he remained fifteen years, and was promoted from time to time, until he was transferred in 1869 to the Post Office Savings Bank at Ottawa. Soon afterwards, owing to ill-health, he was obliged to resign his position in the Post Office Department, when he engaged in mercantile business in Toronto, which he carried on until 1876, when he received the appointment of Post Office Inspector for the East Toronto Division, and was transferred to the town of Barrie in 1879 and placed in charge of that postal division. Mr. Spry belongs to the Masonic body, and has filled various offices in that organization, including that of Grand Master. He is a Knight Templar and holds the office of Grand Chancellor in that order; he has also received the 33rd degree of the A. & A.S.R. He has taken part in military affairs, having served as ensign in the 10th Royal Regiment and lieutenant in the Queen's Own Rifles, Toronto. He has been a director of the Toronto Home Building Association, vice-president of the Toronto Mechanics' Institute, and president of the Mechanics' Institute, Barrie. He was also president of the Ontario Literary Society, Toronto, is a member of the Barrie Public School Board of Trustees, of which he has been chairman. In religion he is an Episcopalian, and has been a delegate to the Synod of Toronto for a number of years past. Mr. Spry has been twice married—first, on the 3rd of May, 1859, to Miss Mary Jane Burgess, and again, on April 30th, 1867, to Miss Mary E., daughter of Chas. G. Fortier, of Sandwich, formerly Collector of Inland Revenue, Hamilton, Ont.

THOS. C. WATKINS, Hamilton, Ont., was born August 9th, 1818, at Parsonstown, King's County, Ireland. He is descended from Welsh on the one side, and from the Scottish Covenanters on the other side, and is the proud possessor of a Bible printed in 1648, which descended to him through a long line of Scotch ancestors. His parents emigrated to Canada before he was a year old, and settled in Esquesing township, Halton County. Here the subject of our sketch received such an education as the schools of those days afforded, but having a thirst for knowledge, and being possessed of indomitable energy and perseverance, he succeeded in obtaining a first-class education. He remained on the farm with his father until he was twenty-two years of age. He commenced teaching school in 1841, and taught for two years. After giving up the teaching profession, he worked on a farm for a time, and then engaged in mercantile business, in which he has been eminently successful. Mr. Watkins is a member of the Methodist Church, and has held most of the offices that laymen are appointed to in that denomination, as well as being a delegate to the General Conference. He is a total abstainer from the use of tobacco and alcoholic liquors, and has been a staunch life-long advocate of prohibition, and hopes to see this act passed by the Dominion of Canada before he passes away. He has had published some two hundred and sixty thousand tracts on the temperance question for free distribution, and intends to run them into the millions as fast as he can compose them. These tracts will no doubt have a very great influence, and do much to hasten the prohibitory act in Canada. Mr. Watkins has been a great traveller, having visited the United States, England, Scotland, Ireland, Wales, Switzerland, France, Germany, Holland, Belgium, and other parts. He was married on May 24, 1844, to Elizabeth Ann Murchison. His successful life fully illustrates the power of an honest purpose to succeed.

He took the honor course for two years, and secured a scholarship in each year. He graduated in 1880 as Valedictorian of his class. He was ordained and inducted into the pastoral charge of Whitechurch, County of Bruce, on the 7th of October, 1880, having declined other calls presented to him at the same time. After a pastorate of three years, he received a call to Elora, which he declined, and afterwards, in 1888, accepted a call to his present charge, as colleague and successor to the Rev. Dr. Ure, one of the most accomplished and able ministers of the Presbyterian Church. Early in the year 1891 Dr. Ure, on account of failing health, was compelled to resign, when Mr. Anderson assumed full charge of this large and important congregation, and filled the important vacancy with much acceptance to the people. Mr. Anderson is an earnest temperance advocate, and a pronounced prohibitionist. He is one of the most prominent and promising preachers of Western Ontario, an earnest and successful evangelist, and has been blessed by large additions to his ministry wherever he has labored. The town of Goderich, where he is settled, commands a very large and thickly settled community of Presbyterians, where his influence and labors are highly appreciated. Mr. Anderson was married on the 26th of April, 1882, to Miss C. Isabel, daughter of Hugh Masson, of Billings' Bridge, Ottawa.

REV. JAMES A. ANDERSON, B.A., pastor of Knox Presbyterian Church, Goderich, Ont., son of the Rev. John Anderson, of Tiverton, was born on the 9th of February, 1853, in the township of Napean, County of Carleton, Ont. He received his education at the public schools of Ontario, Kincardine High School, Ottawa Collegiate Institute, and McGill University, Montreal. He matriculated at the latter, taking a scholarship in 1873 and graduating B.A. in 1877. In the fall of 1877 he entered the Presbyterian College, Montreal, to prosecute his theological studies.

JOHAN H. MOORE, of the firm of Bowman & Moore, Hamilton, eldest son of Charles Moore, Esq., of Grimsby, Ont., was born there on 23rd of August, 1848. He is a descendant of U. E. Loyalists, his great grandfather having come to this country about the year 1790. He was educated at the Grimsby Grammar School, and, after completing his studies in 1866, went to St. Catherines, where he spent two years as an apprentice in the hardware business. He came to Hamilton in 1868 and completed his apprenticeship by serving one year with what was then one of the leading hardware firms of that city. In 1869 he went into business with a partner under the style of Bowman & Moore, which partnership still exists. There are very few firms now in existence that began at the above mentioned date.

During these years the hardware trade has seen many fluctuations, but this firm has more than held its own, doing business on a straightforward and sound basis, taking in all improvements, purchasing in the best markets from reliable manufacturers, and always providing the best for their numerous patrons, until to-day it holds the proud position of, not only being the leading hardware house in Hamilton, but also in Western Canada. The firm make a speciality of builders and contractor's supplies, nails, agricultural tools, paints, oils, beltings, and window-glass in all its various thicknesses. In this latter line they are amongst the largest importers in Ontario. They are also widely known and appreciated by men engaged in the cabinet manufacturing business, for there is no firm in the province that has so large and complete an assortment of cabinet makers' hardware as this house is compelled to carry in order to supply their extensive trade. Mr. Moore has been a member of the Centenary Methodist Church for over twenty years, is a member of the Board of Trustees, and also the Quarterly Board. In politics he is an active Reformer.

M.E. Church in Canada. He was received as a probationer at the Conference held at St. Thomas in 1877. He pursued his theological and other studies with such energy and success that he was ordained deacon in 1879 and elder in 1881. Before the latter he was on the following circuits: Tapleystown, Beverly, Norwich and Malahide. After ordination he served the following circuits: Blenheim, Seaforth, Canboro and Cayuga. As a preacher, Mr. Teeple has an easy delivery, free from the mannerisms that depreciate the value of many addresses. His sermons are thoughtful and sufficiently racy to hold the unflagging attention of the congregation. Large additions to the membership and new churches are to be found on the circuits he has travelled, and he is beloved by all those under his pastoral care. The ministers who follow him find all the in-

REV. WM. M. TEEPLE, pastor of the Methodist Church, Troy, Ont., is the son of the late W. H. Teeple, of Jerseyville, Ont., and was born at that place on the 8th of November, 1854. He is of U. E. Loyalist stock, his grandfather coming to this country from the United States on account of his loyalty to old England just after the revolutionary war and settled in the township of Nelson, Halton County. Mr. Teeple was educated at the public schools, and is also a graduate of Hamilton Commercial College. In his twenty-first year he was converted and joined the terests of the church well looked after, both materially and spiritually. He will doubtless take a leading place in the church of his choice. He is also an enthusiastic temperance worker, and has done good work in this connection. At Seaforth the temperance societies, as a mark of appreciation of his worth, entertained him at a public dinner, and on that occasion presented him with a flattering illuminated address and a well filled purse. Mr. Teeple was married on the 28th of July, 1880, to Miss Ida Lynes, daughter of the late Thomas Lynes, of Norwich.

REV. ROBERT WALKER, Walkerton, Ont., was born June 10th, 1839, near Brockville, in the County of Leeds. His parents were natives of Ireland and came to Canada in 1830, settling at Smith's Falls. He received his education at the public school and at Strathroy High School. He pursued the study of theology under the late Dr. McClure, of Toronto. He entered the ministry in 1861, and before ordination had four charges. He was ordained in 1865, after which he travelled the following circuits: Durham three years, Melbourne three years, Burr two years, Omemee three years, Bethany, Tweed, Stirling, Newcastle, Clifford, and Walkerton, his present charge. In 1887 he was appointed chairman of Mount Forest District, and is at present financial secretary of Walkerton District. Mr. Walker was married on June 15th, 1865, to Miss Annie Eliza Hathaway, daughter of John Hathaway, of West Flamboro', County of Wentworth. He is one of the first men of the Methodist denomination, and for thirty years has preached the Gospel continuously.

WILLIAM McLEOD, merchant, Georgetown, Ont., was born November 18th, 1838, in Caithnessshire, Scotland. He received his education at the public schools there. At an early age he decided to follow the dry goods business, and entered into this business at Wick, and afterwards at Glasgow. In 1857 he came to Canada and settled in Oakville, and remained there about three years, when he removed to the United States. Returning, lived at Rockwood a short time prior to 1863, then went to Georgetown, and entered as partner in a dry goods business, which he now fully controls. Mr. McLeod takes an active part in politics, and in 1887 was the Reform candidate. He was a member of the Town Council eighteen years, was Reeve of Georgetown for nine years, and Warden for Halton County in 1884. In religion he is a Presbyterian, and for several years was chairman of the Board of Management. He has been a Justice of the Peace for Halton for fifteen years, is a member of the High School Board, of the Masonic Brotherhood, and of the Ancient Scottish Rite. He was twice married.

JAMES FLECK GORDON, L.D.S., Harriston, Ont., was born May 14th, 1823, at Bonds Lake, York County. His parents were natives of Dumfriesshire, Scotland. He was educated at the public schools. At an early age he was apprenticed to the carriage manufacturing business, and in 1843 started business on his own account as carriage builder, etc. In 1850 he purchased a saw mill and began the manufacture of lumber, and also engaged extensively in farming. In 1864 he turned his attention to dentistry and began the practice of his profession in Drayton. In addition to his office in Harriston, he has an office in Elora, which is carried on by his daughter, Mrs. Grigg, who was the first woman in Ontario to practice dentistry. She has been associated with her father in this profession for eighteen years. Mr. Gordon has a son also practicing dentistry at Teeswater. It is needless to say that, being a pioneer, and having two children graduates of dentistry, he stands at the head of his profession. He was married in 1843 to Elizabeth, daughter of Joseph Henslip.

JOHN EDGAR CROLY, Dunnville, Ont., was born in the year 1844, at Mallow, County of Cork, Ireland. He received his education at the University of Toronto, where he was a medalist and took high honors. He came to Canada in 1850, and resided for longer or shorter periods at Belleville, Kingston and Picton. He studied for the Presbyterian ministry, and after completing his course, was for several years settled at Millbank, Perth County, where he rendered efficient service, and was exceedingly popular as a preacher and a platform speaker in the surrounding county. He was then appointed on the Collegiate Institute staff in Stratford, and in 1890 accepted the position of head master of the Dunnville High School, which he has filled with advantage to the pupils and satisfaction to all concerned. Mr. Croly is a member of the Board of Management of the Presbyterian Church, superintendent of the Sabbath School, and director of the Mechanics Institute. In politics he is a Conservative. His wife died a few years ago, leaving one son and two daughters.

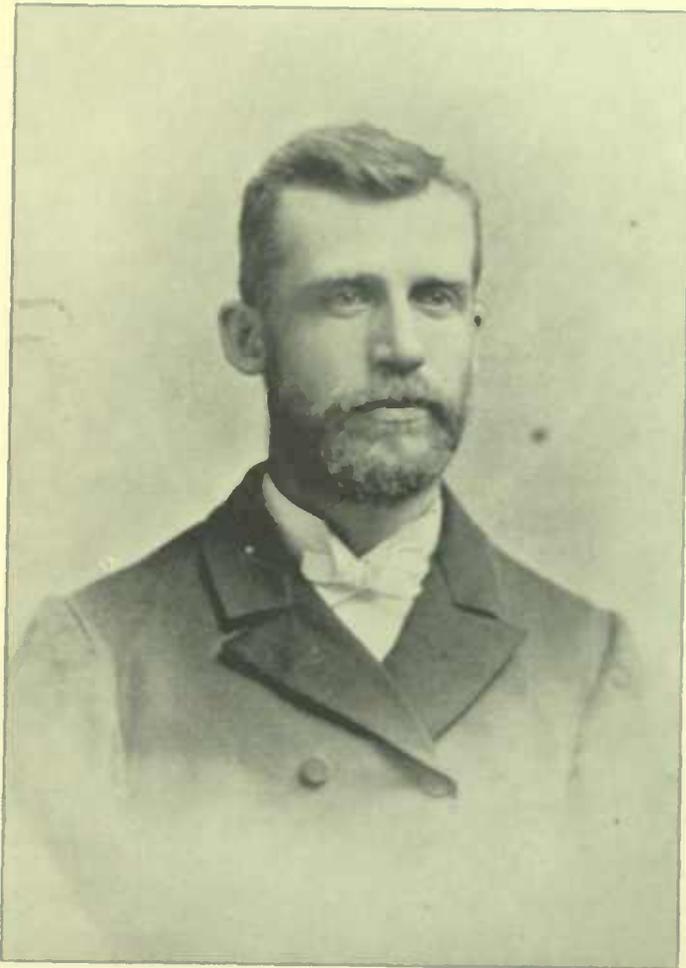

ALEXANDER McMURCHIE, manufacturer of Fanning Mills, Clinton, Ont., was born August 1st, 1835, in the township of Vaughan, York County. His father, the late James McMurchie, was one of the first settlers in that township. He received his education at the public schools, but otherwise is a self-taught man. Until the age of 24 he worked on his father's farm, and then, in 1859, moved to Clinton and engaged with Malcolm McTaggart to sell fanning mills for the firm, of which he has now become the head. In November, 1862, Mr. McMurchie and Mr. Joseph Chidley were made partners, and the business carried on under the style of Malcolm McTaggart & Co. until November, 1882, when the partnership was dissolved and Mr. McMurchie became sole proprietor. Shortly after this he took two of the old employees into partnership with him, and this arrangement now continues under the name of A. McMurchie & Co. This is the oldest established manufacturing firm in the town of Clinton, and one of the oldest in the Province of Ontario, having been established first at Beachville and afterwards in Clinton in 1849. The firm has been remarkably successful throughout the many years of its existence, and its operations now extend to every part of Western Ontario. As many as a thousand mills have been manufactured in a year, and there is still a good demand for them. Mr. McMurchie is a member of the Presbyterian Church, a trustee, and has been on the Board of Management for many years. He is a Reformer in politics, and has been reeve of the town for seven years in succession, being elected most of that time by acclamation. He enjoys the esteem and confidence of the community at large, irrespective of political or religious creed. He was married on the 27th February, 1867, to Miss Agnes Hart, of the township of East Zorra, County of Oxford. His career has been marked by a thorough knowledge of his business and a strict integrity in his dealings.

REV. JESSE GIBSON, of St. Catharines, Ont., was born on the 2nd of December, 1857, at Brantford. He received his education at the public schools and Collegiate Institute there, and at Spurgeon's Pastors' College, London, Eng. He learned the business of a printer, and for some time was foreman of the press-room of the Brantford Expositor. He also worked in Buffalo on the Commercial Advertiser. He was converted in 1874 during the revival held in Brantford by Varley, and commenced Christian work immediately in connection with Y.M.C.A., preaching in the jail, distributing tracts, etc. He was raised a Methodist, but changing his views on the subject of baptism, he joined the Baptist denomination, and united with the First Baptist Church, Brantford. In 1877 he felt called to the ministry, and gave up his business to take a theological course. The late John Harris, of Brantford, recognizing his call to the ministry, generously offered to bear the expense of his education, including a three years' course in England. While in England he became temporary pastor of two churches. Returning to Canada in 1881, he went to Plattsville, where he remained one year, when he received a call to Portage la Prairie, Man. He was pastor of the church there five years and secretary of the Manitoba Baptist Missions. Returning to Ontario, he was two years at St. George, when he received a pressing invitation to the Queen Street Baptist Church, St. Catharines, his present charge, which he accepted, much to the regret of the people at St. George. Notwithstanding the great disastrous fire, the burning of the church to the ground, one year after removing to this charge under his leadership and inspiration, the congregation, with commendable energy, immediately set to work and erected a large and beautiful edifice, and the church is now in a prosperous condition, both spiritually and financially. He was married on the 17th of January, 1882, to Miss Ada Stubbs, of Brantford.

WILLIAM BRUCE, Hamilton, Ont., was born on the 7th of November, 1833, at Unst, an island on the coast of Scotland, and came with his parents to Hamilton in 1837. He was educated under the late Dr. Tassie. As a boy he was noted for his strength, skill and activity in all outdoor sports and games. At the age of sixteen he entered as apprentice in McQuesten & Co.'s iron works, where he soon became so skillful that the foreman frequently took his work and exhibited it to journeymen, asking them why they did not do their work as creditably as an apprentice. At the close of his apprenticeship, a rheumatic affection caused him to abandon the iron business and take a course in Oberlin College, Ohio, where he graduated, and subsequently a course at the Eastman Business College, Poughkeepsie, N.Y. He then became connected with the public schools in Hamilton, and remained in them from 1858 to 1867, when he went into business. Mr. Bruce is a many-sided man, possessing the mechanical and artistical faculties in an eminent degree. Whether it is in mechanical drawing, designing, engrossing and illuminating as a professional, or as an amateur in water colors, oil painting, amateur photography, or public reading, he excels in all. At the present he is engaged in making plans and specifications of new inventions, and engrossing and illuminating. He has executed an immense amount of this class of work for nearly every country in the world. Many eminent personages possess samples of his illuminating work, among whom may be mentioned Her Majesty Queen Victoria, the Prince of Wales, the Empress of Germany, the Marquis of Lorne, Lord Dufferin and many others. Mr. Bruce was married on the 1st of March, 1855, to Jennette Blair, a lady remarkable for mental and physical activity. The rising Canadian artist, W. Blain Bruce, is his son, and Bella C. Bruce, his daughter, both of whom are studying art in Rome at present. He is a member of the Central Presbyterian Church.

JOHN WESLEY BICKLE was born in Devon, Eng., on the 4th of July, 1824. His parents came to Canada in 1834, and after a year's residence near St. Thomas, removed to Hamilton, where for nearly sixty years the family has taken an active interest in the growth and prosperity of that city. He was educated at the Gore District Grammar School, Hamilton, and Victoria College, and in 1848 he entered his father's wholesale and retail drug business, and for nearly forty years the firm of T. Bickle & Son had a wide reputation throughout Western Ontario. Of late Mr. Bickle has been in the brokerage business, which he has carried on successfully. From earliest years he was an active member in the Methodist Church, and was especially interested in Sabbath School work. In 1839 was appointed a teacher, then secretary, and in 1850 a superintendent, and for thirty-nine years gave the earnest efforts of the prime of his life to the cause he loved so well. In 1878 he united with the Central Presbyterian Church, of which he is now a member. Having the interests of the young at heart, he has naturally taken part in the cause of education, and for some years was a member of the Public School Board. The operation of the Hamilton Bible Society early engaged his attention, and he is one of the oldest members of the committee, and has been its treasurer for the past twenty years. The charities of the city have found in him a zealous friend, one ready to give his time with untiring devotion to promote their welfare. As a member of the advisory committee of "The Infants' Home," as the secretary-treasurer of "Trustees of the Girls' Home," and as secretary-treasurer of "Trustees of Hamilton Orphan Asylum," he has proved himself a judicious counsellor and faithful guardian of the trusts committed to his keeping. He was married on the 12th of September, 1848, to Mary Prondfoot, eldest daughter of the late Robert Johnston, Esq., of "Annandale," near Grafton, Ont.

JAMES AUSTIN, president of the Dominion Bank, Toronto, Ont., was born in the year 1813 in the County of Armagh, Ireland. His parents were John and Jane Marks Austin. He received his early education at the public schools of his native place. His parents came to Canada when he was in his sixteenth year, and he was apprenticed to the printing trade for four years. During the time he was serving his apprenticeship, he was constant in his attendance at the night schools. After completing his apprenticeship, he worked as a journeyman printer in various parts of Canada and the United States for ten years. In the year 1844 he entered into partnership with Patrick Foy in the wholesale and retail grocery business. This partnership existed for sixteen years, during which time the firm carried on a very extensive business. Upon the dissolution of the partnership, Mr. Austin retired from active business, and shortly after became interested in various financial institutions. In 1871 he founded the Dominion Bank and became its president, which position he still holds. He is also president of the Consumers' Gas Co., Toronto, besides being president and vice-president of several insurance companies, and chairman of the Canadian Board of the North of Scotland Canadian Mortgage Co. Mr. Austin, in politics, belongs to the Reform party, but has never taken an active part in political campaigns. In the truest sense of the word, he is a self-made man, having attained his present prominent position and circumstances by indomitable energy and perseverance. He received a limited education in youth, but fired with ambition and a thirst for knowledge, he prosecuted his studies alone and at night schools, while serving his apprenticeship, thus educating and fitting himself for the higher callings of life. Step by step he reached his present position, and is now one of Toronto's most highly esteemed and respected citizens. He married, in 1844, Miss Susan Bright, by whom he has three children living.

RIGHT REV. P. FRANCIS CRINNON, D.D., Bishop of Hamilton, Ont., was born in 1820 in the parish of Collon, County Louth, Ireland. He studied classics, philosophy and the sciences in his native land, and, after coming to Canada in 1850, prosecuted his theological studies at the Grand Seminary, Montreal, where he was ordained deacon. In the year 1854 he was ordained priest by Bishop De Charbonnel in Toronto, and was immediately sent to London as assistant priest. Shortly after he was appointed parish priest, and was for many years one of the only three priests in what was then known as the Huron tract. In the year 1858 he was transferred to Stratford, where, much beloved and esteemed, he remained for sixteen years—up to the time of his elevation as Bishop to the See of Hamilton, of which he was consecrated Bishop in St. Joseph's, Stratford, on the 19th of April, 1874, in presence of an immense congregation, twenty archbishops and bishops—five of whom were classmates—and fifty priests. During his incumbency in Stratford, the present beautiful church was built, and the priest's house, both of which he left free from debt. His first official act as Bishop of Hamilton was to go to Ireland to secure additional priests or students. He succeeded in securing three priests and eleven students, of whom the present parish priest of Dunnville, Rev. J. E. Crinion, was one. His reign of eight years was remarkable for administrative ability and foresight. St. Patrick's Church, Hamilton, is a monument to his zeal, as well as the farm of seventy-five acres, known as "Rock Bay," now of almost priceless value as a cemetery,—the site chosen for the present St. Lawrence Church. He died November 25, 1882, in Jacksonville, Florida, U.S., where he had gone in the hope of recovering his failing health. The priests and people of the diocese of Hamilton, his faithful and beloved parishioners in Stratford, etc., etc., sincerely mourn his loss and cherish his memory.

REV. JAMES EUGENE CRINION, parish priest of Dunnville, Ont., was born in the parish of Slane, County of Meath, Ireland, in the year 1858. He received his education in St. Finian's Seminary, Navan, County of Meath, Ireland, St. Michael's College, Toronto, and finally at the Grand Seminary, Montreal. He came to Canada at the age of sixteen, and was one of a number of students who accompanied the late lamented Bishop Crinion, of Hamilton, when he went to Ireland for students. Father Crinion was first appointed as curate of St. John's Church, Arthur, Wellington County. Afterwards he became curate of St. Basil's Church, Brantford, where he remained three years. He was then appointed as the first resident pastor of the church in Dunnville, where he still labors. Since his appointment to Dunnville he has built an exceedingly handsome church and residence, which are not only a credit to the congregation, but are ornaments to the town. During his Brantford curacy he was chairman and treasurer of the Separate School Board, and much esteemed by all who knew him.

REV. J. E. CRINION.

WILLIAM NEIL.

WILLIAM NEIL, Flesherton, Ont., eldest son of the late Charles Neil, of the Isle of Man, was born at the latter place in 1831. He was educated at the public schools, the Grammar School, Guelph, and at Walker's Academy, of that city. At a very early age he commenced his railway career as a newsboy on the late Great Western Railway, and has occupied the positions of brakeman, baggage-man, freight train conductor, and for many years past that of passenger conductor, all of which he filled with satisfaction to the railway company and pleasure to the travelling public. Although born of Godly parents, and nurtured in a Christian home, he led a wordly life for many years after commencing work as a railway man, but his wife, being a Christian, ceased not during all this time to pray for the conversion of her husband, and, after eleven years of patient waiting and pleading before God, Conductor Snider responded to the Spirit's call, was converted, and commenced his now well-known career of usefulness. His conversion was most genuine. With him old things did indeed pass away and all things became new. He never grows weary of speaking in public or private of this, the greatest event of his life, and especially desires that this sketch shall give all possible prominence to this crowning blessing, for he is not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ, which has been the power of God unto his salvation. From that memorable morning in his own home in the town of Palmerston, when he took upon him the Master's yoke, until now, he has not ceased to tell "the old, old story," with marked effect. The Conductor has occupied the pulpits of the largest churches in Methodism from Windsor to Montreal, and many are the trophies that have been won for Christ as a result of his earnest and pungent appeals. The G.T.R. have courteously arranged his route so that he can give all possible time to evangelistic work. Mr. Snider was married February 15th, 1876, to Miss Charlotte Milne, daughter of Thos. His labors in Toronto have been attended with great success. The church has now a membership of over eight hun-

He was educated at the Grammar School, and applied himself with such persistent energy that, at a very early age, he obtained a certificate. So successful was he in the teaching profession, that he soon occupied the position of principal of one of the leading high schools in the Dominion, and was elected president of the Provincial Teachers' Association. Many gentlemen occupying prominent positions in Canada were students under him. While teaching, he gave considerable attention to law, and spent some time in one of the leading offices in Toronto, and also took the LL.B. degree. He then turned his attention to the higher branches of mathematics, studying under Prof. Cherriman, who was the first superintendent of insurance in Canada. Becoming greatly interested in life insurance, the subject of our sketch removed to the United States to follow that profession, and in a short time was promoted to superintendent of agencies of a prominent company. In 1870 he returned to Canada to take the management of the Confederation Life. In the year 1869 he retired to give place to his brothers, Joseph and Charles, and entered into partnership with Mr. Henry Yates under the title of Messrs. Yates & Stratford. This firm did for years an enormous business with many of the railways and largest corporations in the country. In connection with Messrs. Nicholson & Chisholm (Stratford, Nicholson & Chisholm), the entire Air Line of the G.W.R. from Simcoe to Glencoe was completed. The contract price was $900,000, and the work was finished in nine months. After this he spent some years in Europe to recuperate his health. On returning to Canada he identified himself with certain large interests, and continued in active business to the time of his death. In the year 1885 he erected a monument to his memory that will never be forgotten, and placed Brantford under a great debt of gratitude, in the erection and donation to the city of the John H. Stratford Hospital. This is a beautiful and substantial edifice, erected upon an elevation overlooking the city, furnished and fully equipped with the latest appurtenances constituting a modern hospital. Since its opening in February, 1885, by Lieutenant-Governor Robinson, it has proved an unspeakable blessing to the city and to the County of Brant as well. he succeeded his brother, John H., in the management of his father's business. In the year 1875 his father retired, leaving the entire business in his hands, and it has so continued. He holds the position of captain and quartermaster in 38th Battalion Dufferin Rifles, is a member of Doric Masonic Lodge 121, Sons of England Salisbury Lodge 42, and Ancient Order United Workmen No. 71. In 1881 he built the beautiful structure known as Stratford's Opera House, a perfect gem of architectural beauty. He also took over single-handed Brantford Curling and Skating Rink, an acre of ice under cover, systematizing and making one of the finest rinks in America. Both of these enterprises were subsequently organized into joint stock companies, of which he has ever since been the president. At the death of his brother, he succeeded to the Board of Managers of the John H. Stratford Hospital for life, a position generally acknowledged well held. Since that time he has been annually elected president of the Board. He is now (1891) retiring from mercantile business, being interested in three of the largest stock farms in Ontario. Mr. Stratford married, May 24, 1881, Mary E. Killmaster, daughter of B. JOSEPH WHITEHEAD, retired railway contractor and ex-mayor of Clinton, Ont., was born in 1814 at Guisbro, Yorkshire, England. Mr. Whitehead had few advantages of education, having been sent to work at a very early age. He was at first employed on a railway, and was fireman on the first engine that ever ran. That was the historic engine designed by George Stephenson, which made its first run on the Stockton and Darlington Railroad on the 27th of September, 1825. Mr. Whitehead left England for Scotland in 1846, having a contract with the Caledonian Railway, and then came to Canada in 1849, when he was engaged in the construction of the G.W.R. He built a section of the road west of Copetown, and another west of London. In 1853 he contracted for the building of the Buffalo, Brantford and Goderich Railroad. The company failing, work was suspended until a new company was formed under a special act of parliament, and Mr. Whitehead given the contract for the road from Buffalo to Goderich. At Confederation, in 1867, he was elected to parliament and represented North Huron five years. He then spent nine years in Manitoba, and built sixty-four miles of road from the national boundary to Winnipeg, and twenty-two miles from Winnipeg to Selkirk. In 1877 he took the contract to furnish and lay the ties and ballast the road from Selkirk to Cross Lake, and for the construction of the road from Cross Lake to Rat Portage. Having had the honor of being engaged on the first locomotive run in England, he took the first engine into Manitoba in 1878, taking it by boat from Fisher's Landing down the Red River to St. Boniface. Mr. Whitehead was the first reeve of Clinton, and held the office ten years. He is the only surviving member of the first town council. He was mayor three years, declining to serve longer. In religion he is a Methodist. He has been married three times. By his first wife he had six children, who are now occupying important professional positions.

He began life on his father's farm, and at an early age engaged as clerk in a general store, where he was successful, and finally became manager. At the age of twenty-six he was converted to God, and immediately gave up business to prepare for the ministry, realizing a special call to that work. He entered upon the sacred calling as a probationer in 1876, and filled appointments at Bervie and Dorchester, then attended Cobourg College for two years, and received ordination in Brantford in 1881, after which he was stationed at Port Colborne, St. Catharines third, Troy, Oakland, and at the Conference in June, 1891, was appointed to Cainsville, his present charge. His entire ministry has been marked by an increase in spirituality, membership and finances. Among the many monuments of his energy, may be noted the beautiful church built at Bealton, on the Oakland Circuit, in 1890, the total cost of $5,000 being provided at the opening services. He is in every sense of the word a preacher, being possessed of a good physique, he presents a pleasing pulpit appearance, and by his untiring energy in the presentation of his helpful and practical addresses, commands the attention of his hearers. But it is in evangelistic services where his power and tact are seen to best advantage, as gracious seasons of revival have attended his full ministry. He is an ardent and fearless prohibitionist, and did grand work in Scott Act contests in Welland and Lincoln counties, and against the repeal movement in Brant, and led to victory in the late struggle for local option in the township of Oakland. Mr. Foote is married and has one child living.

Mainly through his indefatigable efforts, the heavy debt upon the church at Paris was paid, and it was subsequently renovated at an outlay of over twenty thousand dollars. In 1873 he purchased the separate school property and residence for the Sisters of St. Joseph in Paris. In 1877 Father Dowling accompanied the Canadian pilgrims to Rome, taking part in the Golden Jubilee of Pope Pius IX. In 1880 he built St. Patrick's Church, Galt, and in February, 1881, was appointed

In 1851 he was transferred to the pastorate of St. James Church, Stratford, where he at once removed, and has been incumbent there since that time. Subsequently he was made Rural Dean of the County of Perth by Bishop Hellmuth. On the 22nd of February, 1887, he received the appointment, from the Bishop of Huron, of Canon of the Diocesan Cathedral, London, to succeed the late Rev. Dr. Townley. Mr. Patterson is an earnest churchman, an energetic worker and an eloquent and able preacher. He also takes an active interest in all matters pertaining to the welfare of Stratford. He was for many years chairman of the Grammar School Board, and of the County Board of Public Instruction for granting teachers certificates. He also received from the Board of Education the appointment of Public School Inspector for the town of Stratford, which position he resigned in 1872 owing to the pressure of his parochial work. He was also repeatedly appointed by the Council Local Superintendent of Schools for several townships. Mr. Patterson married, in 1852, Jane Wauchope, youngest daughter of Donald Mackenzie, Esq., of Ottawa.

WILLIAM LOWELL, Niagara Falls, Ont., was born on the 16th of February, 1811, in the village of St. David's, township of Niagara, County of Lincoln, Ont. His father died about the close of the war of 1812 to 1815, when William was four years of age. Owing to the general devastation of homes, his mother was left with exceedingly slender means, but managed, with great industry and economy, to give her son a fair business education. When fourteen years of age he entered mercantile life as a clerk in the town of Niagara, and afterwards served for some time in the same capacity in St. Catharines. About 1828 he went to the London district, but returned to Drummondville, now the village of Niagara Falls, in 1831, and there commenced the general store business, in which he continued until 1860. During these years his business extended, and was very successful. Since his retirement from the dry goods business, he has been dealing in securities, etc. In 1842 Mr. Lowell was appointed a Justice of the Peace, and for several years discharged the duties of his office with great efficiency. He was a Reformer of the old school, and loved to associate his name with that of the late Hon. Robert Baldwin and the prominent politicians of that day. During later years he did not take an active part in politics. Mr. Lowell was in religion a staunch Presbyterian, and in 1887 built a church for that congregation, assuming the entire expense, which generous act was highly appreciated by the church. This deed of love appeared to be ordained as the finale of his kindly life, as he died very shortly after this, passing away on the 16th of March, 1888, and was buried in Drummond Hill Cemetery. His whole career was marked by an honest and diligent performance of whatever his hands found to do, and, in passing away, he left a memory to be cherished by those who knew him best. Mr. Lowell was married in 1834 to Mary, daughter of Christian and Mary McCarthy Zavitz, who were both natives of the State of Pennsylvania, U.S.A.

JAMES A. LOWELL, Niagara Falls South, Ont., was born there April 21st, 1849. He received his education at the public and High schools of his native place. At the age of seventeen he went to Wisconsin, U.S., and engaged in the dry goods and boot and shoe business, where he remained seven years. He then returned to Niagara Falls South, where he engaged in the dry goods business and was eminently successful, and was enabled to retire from business in 1882. Mr. Lowell is a member of the Masonic fraternity, being a member of Mount Nebo Chapter No. 76 R.A.M., also of St. Mark's Lodge No. 105 A.F. & A.M., also Murton Lodge of Perfection A. & A.S.R., Hamilton. He is also a member of A.O.U.W., and of the Select Knights of Canada. He was made Justice of the Peace in 1887, is a Liberal in politics, and president of the Liberal Association for Welland County. In religion he is an adherent of the Presbyterian Church, and he gives liberally to the church and benevolent objects. He was married May 29th, 1885, to Miss Mary Whybra, of Niagara Falls South. The biography of Mr. Lowell's father appears on the preceding page.

He was elected Bencher in 1855, created a Q.C. in 1859, appointed a Judge of the Court of Common Pleas in 1869, and Chief justice in 1887. His appointment was a most creditable one, as he has proven one of the most capable and esteemed judges known to Canadian Courts, sustaining this high honor with the ability and dignity appropriate to the position. Chief Justice Galt is a member of the Church of England. He was married October 27, 1847, to Miss Frances Louisa Perkins.

Leaving there he was sent to the widely extended mission of Priceville, which embraces the charges of Priceville, Glenelg, Durham, Melancthon, Dundalk and Osprey. Father Maloney is a member of the C.M.B.A. That he is one of the most laborious clergymen in the diocese, is evident from the large number of stations under his pastoral care, and the prosperity enjoyed by each.

Mr. Kerr is a Liberal in politics. Although avoiding public life, he has been tendered the nomination of his party on more than one occasion, and in 1891 contested Centre Toronto in the Liberal interest. He has been a most active and enthusiastic Free Mason for nearly thirty years. In 1865 he was elected W. M. of Ionic Lodge, Toronto, and was subsequently three times elected D.D.G.M. of the Toronto district. In 1874 he was Deputy Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Canada, and succeeded to the Grand Mastership on the death of William Mercer Wilson. Commencing business as a printer at the age of fourteen, he became both editor and proprietor of the Acton Free Press within three years. With limited experience, yet by indomitable energy, the paper soon attained a provincial reputation, and a substantial and remunerative business built up. In January, 1879, he was converted, and feeling called to the work of the ministry, he disposed of the printing business the following July to his brother, H. P. Moore, and began special preparation for his sacred calling. Licensed as a local preacher in 1879, he was received by the London Conference of the Methodist Church of Canada as a probationer in 1880 and sent to London North Circuit. Before ordination he labored with acceptance on the London North, Belmont and Salford Circuits, remaining on the latter two years. He was ordained at the Conference of 1884, Rev. W. C. Henderson, D.D., being president for that year, and has since served the church at Drumbo, Princeton, and his present charge, Simcoe Street, Hamilton. Mr. Moore has been blessed with gracious revivals on every Circuit, and very successful in adding to the membership of the church, being especially useful in his labors among young people. He is an earnest worker in behalf of temperance and Sabbath schools, and is an active member of the Executive Committee of the Provincial Sabbath School Association, taking deep interest in its work and urging its mission plans throughout the province. In June, 1890, he was a delegate to the International Sabbath School Convention, held in Pittsburg, Pa. Mr. Moore was married on the 16th of September, 1884, to Miss Lissa Newton, of Woodstock, Ont.

He received his education in the public schools of his native place and Albert University, Belleville. At the age of 21 he was converted and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, and from that time began to preach the Gospel. The church, recognizing his gifts and graces, granted him a local preacher's license. For a year before joining the Annual Conference, he preached on the Malahide Circuit. In 1871 he joined the

Since that event he has served the church at Ingersoll, Waterford, and his present charge. He has held important positions in connection with the church, having been journal secretary of the Niagara Conference for eight years before the union, and having held the same position in the Conference since. He has also been financial secretary of Districts. Mr. Laycock has built a goodly number of churches during his ministry, and at this writing (1891) he has undertaken the erection of a church in the eastern part of the city of Hamilton, to be known as the "John Wesley Memorial Church." The lecture platform is often occupied by him, and he is a frequent contributor to current literature. During his ministry he has been blessed with numerous revivals, hundreds of souls having been converted, and among them a goodly number who are now preaching the Gospel. Mr. Laycock was married on the 15th of April, 1879, to Miss Annetta Marie Dolson, daughter of Gilbert H. Dolson, of Chatham, Ont., a lady of culture and refinement.

HON. RICHARD MARTIN MEREDITH, one of the Justices of the Supreme Court of Judicature for Ontario, of London, Canada, was born there March 27th, 1847. He is the fourth son of the late John Walsingham Cooke Meredith, who was a B.A. of Trinity College, Dublin, and studied for the Bar in Ireland. Our subject received his education at the private schools of Rev. Charles P. Watson and Rev. T. D. Luard, M.A., London. In 1864, at the age of seventeen, he began the study of law under his eldest brother, W. R. Meredith. Soon after this he entered the military school, and was one of the first that graduated and received a commission. He served during the Fenian Raid on the frontier at Windsor, and in all the encampments which followed until the war feeling had subsided. He then resumed his law studies, and was admitted to the Bar in 1869. He at once entered into practice with his brother Edmund, and continued with him until he received his present appointment. He has always been firmly devoted to the study and practice of his profession. In politics Mr. Meredith was a Conservative, and in religion is an Episcopalian. He never married.

CHAS. R. ROSS, Niagara Falls South, Ont., was born July 8th, 1818, at Metuchen, New Jersey, U.S.A. His education was received at the public school of that place and by private study. He lived on his father's farm until fourteen years of age, when he came to Drummondville, Ont., to live with his brother, with whom he was associated in business for twelve years. In 1847 he accepted an appointment of the American Tract Society and went to Virginia, where he was engaged in the work of colportage. He was an earnest Christian young man, and this work was much more congenial to him than business life. For thirty years he visited Sunday schools and families, distributing Bibles, books and tracts. During the American war he was in labors abundant, attending to the sick and dying soldiers, conducting religious services and administering spiritual consolation to the inmates of the hospitals. Failing health compelled him to give up the work, and he returned to Canada to make his home with his brother Alanson, who died in 1885, since which time he has lived a quiet, retired life with his sister. Mr. Ross is a Methodist, and is highly respected.

REV. H. PAHTAHQUAHONG CHASE, Sarnia, Ont., hereditary Chief of the Ojibway tribe of Indians, president of the Grand Council, and missionary of the Colonial and Continental Church Society at Munceytown, Ont., Canada, was born at Belleville in the year 1818. He received his early educational training at the mission school of his birthplace, and afterwards attended Genesee College, New York State, from which institution he graduated in 1839. He was appointed to the Civil Service by Lord Metcalfe, as interpreter to the Indians on the frontier in 1843. He remained in this position for the long period of twenty years, and was created lieutenant in the service, making his complete term of service on the borders cover forty-seven years. Mr. Chase was married in the year 1852 to Miss Annie G. Armour. He was ordained in the year 1863 by the first Bishop of Huron, and has remained in Sarnia since that time. He is now living retired there. Upon the Prince of Wales' visit to Sarnia in the year 1860, Mr. Chase had the honor of reading the Indians' address to him, and, in return, the Prince conferred upon him the Queen's medal, as shown in his portrait on this page. He has been in England four times, and on each occasion was warmly received and treated royally. On July 1st, 1885, the Lord Mayor of London received him at luncheon at the Mansion House, where followed cordial addresses from

Sir Charles Tupper, Sir T. F. Buxton, Rev. J. A. Bailey, chaplain of the Foundling Hospital, and others. He was also warmly received by the Prince and Princess of Wales on this visit. Mr. Chase is not only a very much respected Indian chief, but has been a devoted missionary, and has done much for the elevation and Christianization of the aborigines of Canada. He had their cause at heart, and so earnest was he that he never failed to excite sympathy for them, wherever he was privileged to preach the Gospel. He is now in his 74th year, and retains much of the spirit of his earlier days.

REV. W. T. McMULLEN, D.D., pastor of Knox Church, Woodstock, Ont., was born on the 9th January, 1831, in the North of Ireland. He is a brother of James McMullen, M.P. for North Wellington. The subject of our sketch studied in Knox College under Prof. Esson, Geo. Paxton Young, and Dr. Willis. He graduated in the year 1856, and was ordained at Millbank on the 5th of November of the same year. He was married the following year to Miss Susanna Gilbert, of Toronto. In the year 1860 he accepted a call in Woodstock, where he has remained since. Dr. McMullen has always taken an active part in the discussion of the public questions of the day, having a most intelligent grasp of all such matters. In 1882 he presided at a Conference in the Parliament House, Toronto, representing four Anglican Synods, two Conferences of the Methodist Church, and two Synods of the Presbyterian Church, convened to press the matter of the reading of the Scriptures in the public schools on the attention of the Government. He introduced the deputation and addressed the Premier on this occasion, and the movement resulted in the introduction of the Book of Scripture Readings now in use. Dr. McMullen has been Moderator of the Synod of Hamilton and London, and has been Clerk of Paris Presbytery since October, 1878. In the year 1888 he was chosen by acclamation Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada at Halifax. To show with what efficiency and satisfaction to the church he filled this honorable position, we quote a few lines from the Presbyterian Review, of June, 1889: "By common consent Dr. McMullen has made a most efficient, dignified and courteous Moderator." He received the degree of D.D. from Knox College in the year 1889. Early in the same year he presided at one of the sessions of a Conference on Christian Unity held in Toronto, representing the Anglican, Methodist and Presbyterian churches of the Dominion.

 duated in 1853 with honors.
 He then continued his studies until 1854, when he was ordained priest. From 1854 to 1856 he was one of the best known missionary priests in Northern Indiana and Southern Michigan. In 1856 he received the appointment of president of the University of Saint

 the present has been actively engaged in mission work in the diocese of London, during which time he has been

 London Cathedral, and parish priest of Stratford. During the American Civil War Father Kilroy was appointed special agent of the State of Indiana to look after the wounded belonging to that State in the armies of the Cumber-

 appointment gave him an opportunity of ministering to the spiritual wants of hundreds of Roman Catholic soldiers who otherwise must have died without the rites of their religion. He visited Europe in 1876 and 1877, travelling

 through England, Ireland, Spain, France and Italy, in company with the Right Rev. Bishop Walsh, of London.
 During his stay in Rome he received

ARCHIBALD McNEE, Windsor, Ont., was born in Perth, County of Lanark, in the year 1845. His parents were natives of Perthshire, Scotland, and came to Canada in 1821. He received his education at the public school and at Perth High School. His early life was spent on a farm, and, with a view of going into stock farming, he took a course in agriculture at the Toronto University, and was among the first who obtained the diploma of the Ontario Veterinary College, Toronto. In 1867 Mr. McNee married Miss Isabella Campbell, of Lanark County, whose parents came from Argylshire, Scotland. In 1874 he removed to Winnipeg, and for a number of years was License Inspector for the Province of Manitoba. Having a strong inclination for newspaper work, he joined the staff of the Winnipeg Free Press, and for a period of years represented that paper in the Parliamentary Press Gallery at Ottawa. He was president of the Gallery in 1885. He was a member of the Winnipeg Council for several years, and also for a number of years a member of the Public School Board. During the boom in Winnipeg he operated in real estate, in which he was fairly successful. For some considerable time he was managing editor of the Free Press. In the year 1888 he severed his connection with that paper and purchased the Weekly Record in Windsor, Ont., where he has remained since. In 1890 he commenced the publication of the Evening Record. In politics Mr. McNee is a Liberal, although not a partizan. He is a thorough Canadian, believing in Canadian Independence, and that her political and commercial course should be shaped so as to secure her own best interests. Clarke, who founded the Congregational Church in London, Ont., in 1837, and was one of the pioneer ministers of Western Canada. He received his theological education in Toronto at the Congregational College of British North America, and entered the ministry in 1844, when he was only twenty years of age. His first charge was Burford, Ont., after which he became pastor of the Congregational Church in London, where he remained about ten years. While there he was Superintendent of Schools for the city, and secretary of the County Board of Education. He subsequently removed to Guelph and became pastor of the Congregational Church, from 1860 to 1872. After this he was pastor of several churches in Ontario. In 1888 he retired from the regular settled ministry. He has for many years been prominent in the promotion of agriculture, having been for thirty years a constant contributor to the Agricultural and Horticultural Departments of the Montreal Witness. He also founded the Canada Farmer, Ontario Farmer, and Rural Canadian, and was editor of The American Bee Journal of Chicago for two years. For twenty years he has been a constant contributor to the latter and to other journals. He is the founder of the Guelph Agricultural College, and has recently founded the Ontario Bee-Keeper's College. Mr. Clarke is also contributor to several of the leading journals in Canada and the United States. He possesses extensive knowledge of the leading questions of the day, and is a writer of great versatility and power, still retaining his strength and vigor, and bids fair to spend many more years in helping his fellows in the many ways for which he is so eminently fitted. He was married in 1844 to Mary Ann, daughter of the late Rev. William Lyle, a minister of the Primitive Methodist Church.

REV. JOSEPH PHILP, B.D., of East London, Ont., was born in the township of Manvers, County of Durham, on the 4th of September, 1851. He is of English descent, his parents having come from Cornwall, Eng., about forty-seven years ago. His education was commenced at the public schools, and was continued by private study, summer schools and special courses. He was the first Canadian to graduate from the Chautauqua School of Theology, receiving the degree of B.D. in January, 1890. He is a graduate of the C.L.S.C. of the class of 1883, and of the C.N.D. of 1881. He has also for many years made a special study of the science of geology. Mr. Philp, like many prominent men of the day, spent his early life on his father's farm. In 1869, when in his eighteenth year, he entered the ministry of the Methodist Church. Before ordination he travelled the following circuits: Omemee, Millbrook, Nelson and Auncaster. He was ordained in 1873, and since that time he has served very acceptably the church at Manvers, Blyth, Holmesville, Belgrave, Sparta, Talbotville, St. Thomas Central, Watford and London East, his present charge. He has had a large share of District and Conference honors, and has been for five years Conference treasurer of the Superannuation Fund. He is a strong advocate of temperance principles, and practices and takes a special interest in the Sunday School and Bible Society work of the present day. He is a great student, an earnest hard worker, and has been very successful in building churches and paying off church debts. He has also been very successful in evangelistic work, frequently doubling the membership on his charges. As a pastor his kindness of heart and brotherly sympathy win for him a place in the affections of all his parishioners. As a preacher he has few equals in the practical presentation of the Gospel. Mr. Philp was united in marriage with Miss Lonisa Wright Bennett, of Copetown, on the 11th of June, 1875.

HON. ALEXANDER MACKENZIE, of Toronto, M.P. for East York, and ex-Premier of Canada, was born near Dunkeld, Perthshire, Scotland, on the 28th January, 1822. He received his early education at the public school, and continued his studies at the Cathedral, Dunkeld, and at Perth. In 1842 he came to Canada, settling at Kingston, but soon after removed to Sarnia, Ont., started business as builder and contractor. Here he conducted his private avocations, though all the while studying public questions. A Whig in Scotland, he brought his Liberalism with him. In 1852 appeared the Lambton Shield, with Mr. Mackenzie as editor, and for two years with great force he contended through that paper for the expansion of liberty. He has always held the principles of the universal brotherhood of man, and believes in the extinction of all class legislation. In 1861 he was elected to represent Lambton in Parliament, where he at once attracted attention, and became head of his party. From 1867 to 1873 he was leader of the Reform party, and, in 1873, was placed at the head of the Liberal party of the Dominion. Upon the resignation of Sir John A. Macdonald in November, 1873, Lord Dufferin called upon him to form an administration. As an administrator he was conscientious,—there is not one deed of his that can be stamped with reproach. During his administration several important questions, which threatened the gravest complications, were adjusted. As a private member, he is author of many important measures. Mr. Mackenzie is president of the Sovereign Fire Insurance Company, of the North American Life Insurance Company, and a director of the Building and Loan Association. He was major of the Executive Council, and treasurer of Ontario in Mr. Blake's administration from 1871 to 1872. He was twice offered the honor of knighthood, but declined its acceptance. REV. ROBERT ALEXANDER FYFE, D.D., first principal of the Canadian Literary Institute, now so favorably known as Woodstock College, was born on the 20th of October, 1816, in the parish of St. Philippe, a few miles south of Montreal. He was of Scotch parentage, and gave evidence all his life of that virility and prudence that have characterized the Scottish Canadian. He was a man of unusual physical and mental robustness. His spiritual nature was warm, devout and joyous. Dr. Fyfe in his college career gave evidence of the brilliant and useful future before him.

He received his theological training at Newton Theological Seminary. In the year 1842 he was ordained and began work in the Ottawa Valley, which still remembers him with gratitude. While laboring here he organized the Perth Baptist Church. In the year 1843 Dr. Fyfe was married to Jane, daughter of James Thompson, Esq., of Laprairie. In 1844 he received a call from the March Street Church, Toronto, which he accepted. From this church have sprung directly and indirectly all the many Baptist churches to be found in Toronto to-day. In 1848 he returned to Perth, having become dissatisfied with the ultra rigid views of his Toronto people. He remained in Perth until the year 1853, when he accepted a call to the Warren Church, and later in the same year went to Milwaukee, where he remained two years. He then accepted a call from Bond Street Church, Toronto, where he labored faithfully until the year 1857, when he was asked to take charge of the Canadian Literary Institute, Woodstock, which he was instrumental in founding. He continued principal of the latter institute until his death, which occurred on the 4th of September, 1878. Dr. Fyfe is regarded as the Baptist Apostle of Ontario, and his name will be revered more and more as the doctrines of separation of Church and State, and of religious freedom, are more fully appreciated.

REV. BENJAMIN D. THOMAS, D.D., pastor of Jarvis Street Baptist Church, Toronto, was born on the 27th of January, 1843, near Narberth, South Wales. His first settlement in this country was with the Baptist Church in Pittston, Penn. In October, 1872, he assumed charge of one of the leading churches of the denomination in the city of Philadelphia, and maintained a successful pastorate for eleven years. In October, 1882, he removed to Toronto, where he still continues ministering to the largest church of the denomination in Canada. Dr. Thomas is the author of several small booklets, which have had an extensive circulation. He was married in Wales in 1864 to Mary Jones, who died in 1886, leaving six children. His present wife, to whom he was married in March, 1887, was Miss Mariana Bevan, daughter of the late Ebenezer Bevan, Esq., Pittston, Penn.

He received his education in the public school of Blenheim township, County of Oxford, Dundas High School, St. Catharines Collegiate Institute, and after taking the Gilchrist scholarship, he attended London University. He commenced the study of law in London, but had to give it up owing to ill-health. In 1875 he entered the Sentinel newspaper office, Woodstock, as junior partner. In 1880 he bought out his brother's interest in the Sentinel, and shortly after this amalgamated with the Review, his paper now being known as The Sentinel-Review. Since Mr. Pattullo took hold of the Sentinel the business has increased fourfold. The firm now consists of himself and his nephew, Andrew Laidlaw. Mr. Pattullo is recognised as one of the most able editors west of Toronto. He was president of the Canadian Press Association for 1890, 1891 and 1892. He is an able platform speaker, and is a power for the Reform party during campaigns. In religion he is a Presbyterian. Afterwards he accepted the charge of Parliament Street Church, Toronto, and from thence went to Aylmer for four years. Here the church enjoyed continued and increasing prosperity during his pastorate. Receiving a call to Brampton, he remained there four and a half years, during which time the cause doubled both numerically and financially, and, in 1891, moved to his present charge, Oxford Street, Woodstock. His acceptance of this church involved leaving a more lucrative field, but this he did cheerfully, believing his proper place to be where he was most needed. He was married on August 8th, 1882, to Nellie E., daughter of A. Rowland, London, Ont.

REV. CHARLES J. DOBSON, B.D., Toronto, was born September 19th, 1852, in the township of Reach, Ontario County, Ont. He has occupied the following pastoral charges:—Selkirk, County Haldimand, Albion West, Prince Albert, Claremont, and the People's Methodist Church, Toronto. Mr. Dobson has been examiner on the Board for probationers, and has been secretary of Districts, and on Conference committees. He has never aspired to the higher positions in the church, being thoroughly devoted to pastoral and congregational work. He was married June 30th, 1877, to Jennie H., daughter of David Hopper, of Victoria Square.

EDWIN RICHARD REYNOLDS, barrister, Toronto, was born July 12th, 1856, near Meaford, Ont. He received his education at the public school and at Collingwood Collegiate Institute. In 1878 he began the study of law with James J. Robertson, Owen Sound, and subsequently with John Hoskin, Q.C., and finished his course with F. M. Morson, now Junior Judge of York County. He was called to the Bar in 1884 and began the practice of his profession in Toronto. He was the means of re-establishing the Law School, founded by the late John Hillyard Cameron, but which was discontinued about the year 1878. He petitioned the Law Society to re-establish this school, and succeeded in accomplishing it, and to-day it is the chief seat of learning for the law students of Ontario. Mr. Reynolds is an adherent of Bond Street Congregational Church. He is in politics a Conservative, and is an earnest advocate of Imperial Federation, and is well versed in all the leading political questions of the day. He was married in 1882 to Mattie Finch, of Toronto.

CHARLES REA DICKSON, M.D., C.M., was born in Kingston, Ont., December 16th, 1858, of Irish parents. His father, one of the chief surgeons of his day, was amongst the founders of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons, Kingston, and of the Medical Council of Ontario, and its first president. Dr. Dickson was educated at Kingston Collegiate Institute, and entered the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons in 1876, graduated from University of Queen's College in 1880, spent a year at the Medical Department of the University of the city of New York, taking the collegiate as well as the post-graduate course, receiving the degree of M.D. in 1881, and attending at the same time private courses on Clinical Examinations by Prof. W. H. Thomson, M.D. He began practice on Wolfe Island in 1882, removed to Kingston in 1886, and to Toronto in 1889. The doctor is in religion a Presbyterian.

WILLIAM BUCKINGHAM was born in Devonshire, Eng., on the 3rd of December, 1832. He was trained to the printing, publishing and bookselling business, and at an early age became associated with leading newspapers in the North of England as shorthand writer. Coming to Canada in 1857, he was appointed on the parliamentary staff of the Toronto Globe. He maintained his connection with journalism in Canada as reporter, editor, proprietor of the Stratford Beacon and other well known papers until 1873, when he accepted the office of secretary to the Dominion Prime Minister. Meanwhile he had undertaken, with a friend, the enterprise of establishing at the Red River the first newspaper (The Nor'-Wester) published in that then lone land. This was in 1860, when the press, type and every other printing requisite had to be taken to Fort Garry from the nearest point at St. Paul by ox teams. In other ways Mr. Buckingham has made his personality felt. Twice he has been deputed to England—first in the capacity of official reporter to the Colonial Conference to arrange for Confederation, and next on immigration business of the Ontario Government. He subsequently declined the chief agency of that province in London, as well as the office of Inspector of Prisons and Public Charities. He has filled leading positions in the Canadian Press Association, and in the various municipal, trade, educational, local railway, hospital, church (Episcopal), and other organizations of Stratford, in which city he has chiefly made his home. He was a commissioner for enquiry into the management of city post offices while secretary to the Postmaster-General in 1862. When Mr. Mackenzie's Government went out in 1878, Mr. Buckingham received from Lord Dufferin a commission under the great seal as Deputy Minister of the Interior, which Sir John Macdonald revoked after Lord Dufferin had left Canada. Sir John offered an inferior office in lieu. This he declined with indignity.

Toronto. In 1874 he graduated from the latter institution and from Toronto University, carrying off the gold medal from both institutions. He then went to Europe and spent some time in visiting the leading hospitals there in order to further perfect himself in his profession. While there he spent nearly two years in St. Thomas Hospital, London. After this he took a trip to Australia as surgeon on a vessel, and spent some time in that colony. In 1876 he returned to Canada and commenced his profession at Stratford, where he still continues. Since settling there he has built up a profitable business, which continues to increase. He is held in high esteem by the medical profession, as well as by all other classes in the community, being one of Stratford's most respected citizens. Dr. Fraser is one of the professors of the London Medical School,

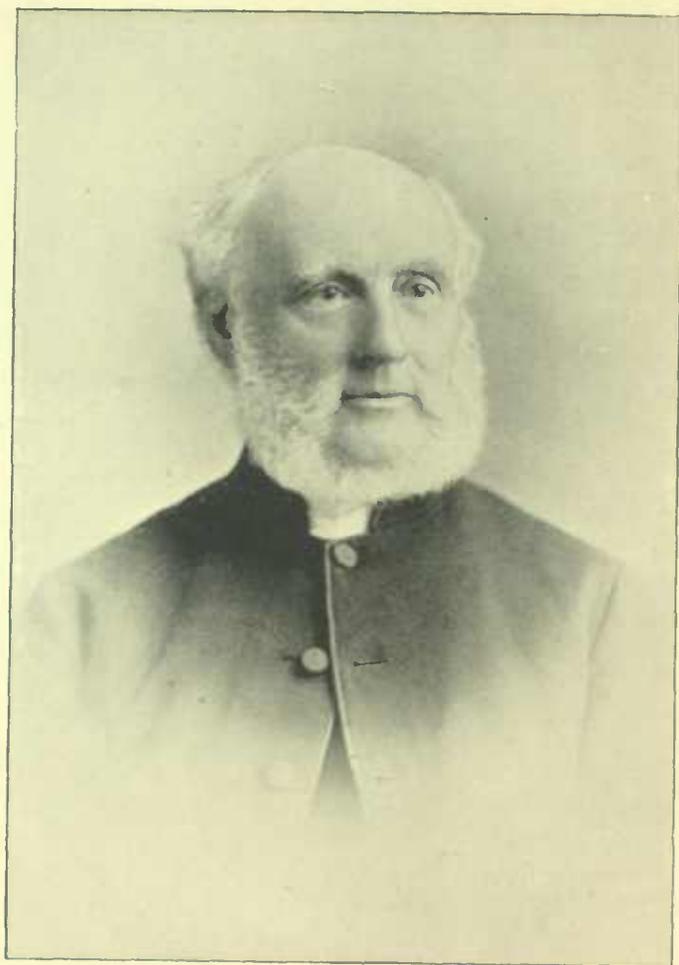

DONALD B. FRASER, M.D., Stratford, Ont., was born in September, 1848, in North Easthope township, County of Perth. He received his education, for the most part, at the public school, and applied himself with such zeal and perseverance that, when very young, he obtained a first-class county certificate. He then attended the Normal School, and succeeded in obtaining a second-class certificate, and then taught for about six years, most of this time being spent in his native township. In the year 1871 he commenced his professional education at Trinity Medical College, being lecturer in Histology and Pathology. He has been one of the examiners of Toronto University for the past six years, and is at the present time an examiner in Trinity College. In addition to his extensive practice, he is also medical examiner for several life assurance societies. He is a scholarly man, and well qualified to fill the many offices he holds in his own city and elsewhere. Dr. Fraser was married in January, 1888, to Miss Emily McCulloch, by whom he has two children—a son and a daughter. He is an adherent of the Presbyterian Church.

REV. JOHN JAMES,
D.D., "Craig Villa," Walkerton, Ont.,

was born on the 14th of October, 1825, near Dumbarton Castle, Scotland. His humble pious parents often sat at the Lord's table when three of their sons were officiating elders and two were ministers, the youngest of whom is Rev. G. F. James, Bristo Church, Edinburgh. Three grandsons are also ministers. Our subject's school days were very limited, and in a great measure he was self-educated, until entering Glasgow University in 1850. At nine years of age he went to work in his father's shop, and at twelve was apprenticed to tailoring. He soon became head of the well-known firm of J. & D. James, afterwards changed to D. & E. James, clothiers, Argyle street, Glasgow. He took a full arts course while in active business, studied theology in U. P.

Divinity Hall, Edinburgh, was licensed to preach in 1857, and designated to the Canadian field. Shortly after arriving in Canada he was ordained pastor of what is now Central Presbyterian Church, Galt, was afterwards pastor of Dumfries Street Church, Paris. He then returned to Europe and became pastor of Merridale Road Church, Wolverhampton, Eng. Returning to Canada, he was intercepted and called to State Street Presbyterian Church, Albany, N.Y. We quote the following from "Origin and Growth of Presbyterianism in Albany": "From 1871 it had six flourishing years under the Rev. John James, D.D., a man of Scotch birth and breeding, positive character, decided influence, and an able preacher. He did good work for Christ." Dr. James was married on the 31st of December, 1845, to Agnes Craig, near Glasgow. In 1874 he received the degree of D.D. from Union University, Schenectady, N.Y. In 1877 he accepted a call to Knox Church, Hamilton, where he remained eight years, when he resigned with the intention of retiring, but was invited to go to Walkerton to unite the two churches there. Here a most prosperous pastorate has been enjoyed.

JAMES B. HOLT, hardware merchant, Brantford, Ont., was born on the 20th June, 1837, at Walsall, Staffordshire, Eng. He received his education at the public schools of England. His boyhood days were spent on his father's farm, and at an early age he was apprenticed to the trade of gold and silver-plating, at which he served seven years. On the expiration of his apprenticeship, he was employed as foreman in the establishment in which he learned the business, remaining in this capacity for ten years. In 1869 he came to Canada and settled first at London, Ont., where he worked at his trade for one year. He then removed to Ingersoll and started business for himself as gold and silver-plater. While there he was very successful, doing work for the largest carriage manufacturers throughout the Province of Ontario. Being ambitious, and wishing to find a broader sphere for his energies, he removed to Brantford in the year 1876, and opened an establishment in his own line of business, namely, that of gold and silver-plating. After a time he engaged in the carriage hardware business, and afterwards branched out into a general hardware trade. By energy, perseverance and diligent attention to business, he has become one of Brantford's most successful merchants, and has accumulated a considerable amount of money. His success has come from a thorough knowledge of his business, a strict integrity in all his dealings, and the pleasing manner in which he always meets his customers. Mr. Holt is a public-spirited man, and has been alderman of the city. He is a member and trustee of the Methodist Church, and a member of the Society of the Sons of England. He is a thoroughly reliable man and much respected by all classes. He was married on the 9th of November, 1859, to Miss Caroline White, a native of Walsall, England. They have had born to them five children—one son and a daughter having passed away, and two sons and a daughter still living.

REV. J. WESLEY SAVAGE, Bond Head, Ont., was born in 1829 in Yorkshire, England. He was educated at Woodhouse Grove Academy, which was started in the time of John Wesley for the education of Wesleyan ministers' sons. On leaving school he concluded to study medicine with his brother, but, on his conversion, at once decided to study theology. He first thought of offering himself as a missionary to China, and, under the advice of the Rev. Dr. Hannah, was making arrangements to attend one of the Wesleyan colleges to study the Chinese language, when his father, a Wesleyan minister, wished and advised his son to follow him in the regular work of the ministry, hence the idea of going to China was abandoned. In 1854 he came to Canada and entered the ministry of the Methodist Church. His first circuit was Warwick. He has since then occupied the following circuits:—London, Prince Albert, Port Perry, Uxbridge, Orangeville, Albion, Glanford, Stirling, Aurora, and others. Mr. Savage's pastorate on each circuit has been followed by great revivals of religion. He has on different circuits had twelve camp meetings in charge. On eight of the previous circuits occupied, he remained the full term of three years, and this year was returned to his present charge for the third year by special request of the Quarterly Board. Mr. Savage has been financial secretary on two districts, this being his sixth year on the Bradford District. In 1880 he was a delegate to London, Eng., to the Memorial Centennial Sabbath School Conference, and the unveiling of "Raikes" monument. Mr. Savage has been twice married—first, in September, 1853, to E. Cooper, of Ripon, Eng., and again, in 1880, to Jennie McFarland, of Toronto. He is a writer of considerable ability, and has contributed to different papers and periodicals. He is now engaged on a literary work entitled "Distinguished Characters of Bible and Ecclesiastical History," which is regarded as his life work.

REV. W. A. MCKAY, B.A., Woodstock, Ont., was born on the 11th of March, 1842. He is the eldest of seven brothers, five of whom entered the ministry of the Presbyterian Church. From the age of sixteen until twenty-three, he taught school in Oxford County. On the 1st October, 1863, he was married to Amelia Jane, daughter of Joshua Youngs, a man greatly beloved for his many sterling qualities by all who knew him. Mr. McKay graduated in Toronto University in 1869, standing first in the honor list in Oriental languages, and taking a high place among the honor men in the department of Logic, Metaphysics and Ethics. In 1870 he graduated in Knox College, and was licensed by the Toronto Presbytery to preach the Gospel. In December of the same year he was ordained and inducted into the pastoral charge of Cheltenham and Mount Pleasant, where he had labored for two years previous as a student. On the 4th November, 1873, he was translated to the pastorate of Baltimore and Cold Springs in the Presbytery of Peterboro. In May, 1878, he became pastor of Chalmers Church, Woodstock, and in this large and important congregation he has since continued to labor with fidelity and great success. In addition to his pastoral labors, Mr. McKay takes an active interest in all public questions of the day. Perhaps no clergyman in the land has done more effective work on the platform and through the press for the cause of temperance and moral reform. Mr. McKay is the author of several well-known works, and is a constant contributor to the press. His book, "Outpourings of the Spirit," is published by the Presbyterian Board, Philadelphia, and is widely circulated in the United States. His best known work in this country is "A Discussion of Baptism from the Paedo-Baptist Standpoint." This book has reached a Canadian circulation in a few years of twelve thousand copies. Mr. McKay is in the vigor of his manhood and gives promise of much future service.

JONATHAN WILKINSON, of St. Thomas, was born near Halifax, Yorkshire, Eng., in 1827. His father was a Yorkshire farmer. He was educated in Manchester, and at the age of twenty-one came to the United States as amanuensis to a literary gentleman, with whom he travelled over the continent. On his return to England he published an account of his rambles, which was highly spoken of by the press. Coming to Canada in 1856, he settled in Hamilton, and was engaged as shorthand reporter and city editor of the Morning Banner. During the parliamentary sessions in Toronto, he went each day and returned at midnight with the reports, which were published in next morning's issue. In 1858 Mr. Wilkinson purchased the Guelph Advertiser from the Hon. A. I. Fergusson Blair, and continued it for thirteen years, during which time he began the publication of the daily. He then removed to Hamilton and started the Morning Standard. After two years he went to St. Thomas, where he began the Times, first as a bi-weekly, and afterwards, in 1882, as a daily. The paper has now a very large circulation in the adjoining counties. In 1887-88 Mr. Wilkinson visited the Pacific Coast and published a series of letters under the title of "Rambles in California," containing sketches of the principal points of interest in the Golden State, and its mining, agricultural and horticultural industries, including also Utah and Colorado. He spent the summer of 1889 in England and Scotland, and published another series of sketches, including the ancient cathedrals of England, and the famous haunts and homes of Scott and Burns and other celebrities. These, like Mr. Wilkinson's former efforts, were highly appreciated. He is a member of the Scientific and Historic Society of Elgin, and takes a deep interest in its work. In politics he is a Liberal-Conservative, but not a Tory, as the term is generally applied. He was married in 1852 to Agnes Luck, of Bedfordshire, Eng.

WILLIAM SCOTT, M.D., Woodstock, Ont., the oldest physician in the County of Oxford, was born November 27th, 1820, at Everingham, Yorkshire, Eng. His parents came to Canada in the year 1830 and settled in Oxford County, where the subject of our sketch aided in clearing two farms. While working on the farm he was a diligent student, all his spare time being devoted to study. At length he articed himself to Dr. J. Samuel Stratford, Woodstock, and commenced the study of medicine. At the end of five years, in the year 1848, he successfully passed his examinations in the Medical Department of Toronto University. He at once began to practice in Woodstock, where he has continued ever since, and enjoys the confidence of all classes of the community. In 1868 he received the honor degree of Doctor of Medicine from the Medical College at Castleton, U.S. Dr. Scott has been very successful in his practice. He has made a specialty of the diseases of women and midwifery, having had of the latter the extraordinary number of about eight thousand cases in his practice of forty-two years. He now does an office business exclusively, and such is his fame far and wide as a specialist, that patients come to him from long distances in Canada, and from the United States as well. He has filled a most important place in the community in which he has resided so long, and has by his wisdom and skill brought relief to thousands of homes. Dr. Scott has strong inventive ability, and has invented a number of surgical instruments, some of which have been strongly commended by medical faculties. He was surgeon in the 22nd Battalion Volunteer Oxford Rifles for a number of years, and has been one of the coroners for the County of Oxford for many years. In religion he is a member of the Church of England. The doctor has been twice married—first to Miss Sarah Maria Eakins, of Burford, who died in 1855, and he was again married in 1856 to Miss Elizabeth E. Martin, Blenheim.

BURTON, Senior Puisne Judge of the Court of Appeal, Toronto, was born July 21st, 1818, at Sandwich, County of Kent, Eng., being the second son of the late Admiral George Guy Burton, Royal Navy, of Chatham, Eng. He was called to the Bar in 1841, and began the practice of his profession at Hamilton. He was appointed a Bencher, and subsequently twice elected. He was created a Q.C. in 1863, and in 1874 was raised to the Bench. Judge Burton has given several decisions in very important cases upon constitutional questions of general interest, which involve far-reaching results. Justice Burton was married June 9th, 1850, to Elizabeth, daughter of the late Dr. Perkins, of Falmouth, Jamaica, and niece and adopted daughter of the late Col. Chas. Cranstan Dixon, of H. M. 90th Regiment. His family consists of six children—four daughters and two sons, one of the latter being a barrister at Hamilton, and the other a barrister in Toronto.

REV. J. CRAGG FARTHING, M.A., rector of the parish of Woodstock, Ont., was born December 13th, 1861, at Cincinnati, Ohio. He received his early education at Parkfield School, Liverpool. After this he attended Gonville & Cains' College, Cambridge University, England, and graduated B.A. in 1885 with honors. He then came to Canada and was ordained to the ministry of the English Church. He was ordained deacon in 1885 by Bishop Baldwin, and was appointed to the parish of Durham, Grey County. He was ordained to the priesthood in 1886, and, in 1888, was appointed curate at Woodstock, and subsequently rector. He received the degree of M.A. in 1888. Mr. Farthing is a member of the Executive Committee of the diocese of Huron, a member of the Masonic and I. O. F. fraternities, being chaplain of Woodstock Court. He was General Secretary of the Cambridge University Church of England Temperance Society, and a member of the Ely Diocesan Temperance Committee. Mr. Farthing was married in September, 1891, to Elizabeth Mary, daughter of John C. Kemp, manager of the Bank of Commerce, Toronto.

ROBERT LOGAN, of Seaforth, Ont., was born at Paris, County of Brant, on the 14th of June, 1851. His early educational training was received at the public school, Paris, and Galt Central School, and continued at Eastman's National Business College, Poughkeepsie, N. Y. He graduated from the latter institution in 1867, and started business life as a book-keeper in a mercantile house at Hamilton. After this he worked for a time in his father's mill at Wolverton. In the year 1871 he settled in Seaforth, where he was engaged in the grain business for a number of years. In 1879 he went to Portage la Prairie, Manitoba, and engaged in speculating. He then went to Edmonton, N.W.T., where he remained only a short time, and returned to Portage la Prairie. After remaining here some time, he removed to Carberry, Manitoba, and engaged in the triple business of lumber, grain and banking. In the latter business he had remarkable success and accumulated considerable money. Through too close attention to business his health broke down and he went to Banff, N.W.T., to get the benefit of the sulphur springs there. This change, however, did not restore him to health, and on the advice of his physicians he came back to Ontario to get the benefit of his native air and the professional skill of the province. Notwithstanding the fact that he was pronounced incurable, under the skillful treatment of

Dr. J. E. Graham, of Toronto, he has been restored to his former health and vigor. He now conducts a successful private banking business in the town of Seaforth, where he enjoys the esteem and confidence of the community. Mr. Logan married Miss Charlotte Brent, daughter of the late Dr. Brent, of Toronto, on the 9th of June, 1885, by whom he has two sons. He is an adherent of the Presbyterian Church. His mother, who is in her seventy-fifth year, is still living. She is a godly woman, and has been a member of the Presbyterian Church since childhood.

JOHAN CAMPBELL, M.D., C.M., (McGill), L. R. C. P., (Edinburgh), of Seaforth, Ont., was born in North Sherbrooke, Lanark County, on the 10th of February, 1839. His parents were natives of Scotland, who came to Canada in the year 1821. The subject of our sketch received such an education as the public schools of his day afforded. He worked on his father's farm and attended school until twelve years of age, when he entered a dry goods store in St. Mary's, and afterwards was employed in similar establishments elsewhere. He wearied of the life of a clerk, and studied for a teacher's certificate, and was successful in obtaining a second-class grade "A" at the Normal School in 1862. He then taught school in Usborne and Blenheim. He was a strong advocate of temperance, and soon revealed that he possessed unusual platform ability. He then began the study of medicine with Dr. Philip, of Plattsville, now of Brantford. In 1866 he entered McGill College, from which he graduated in 1869. After receiving his diploma he commenced to practice in Seaforth, and has continued there since in the enjoyment of a large and profitable patronage. Dr. Campbell has always taken a leading part in all matters pertaining to the improvement of Seaforth. He was a member of the High School Board, is president of the Mechanics' Institute, member of the Masonic fraternity, of the I.O.O.F., of the C.O.F., the R.T. of T., and of the Y.M.C.A. He is also a member of the Ontario and Dominion Medical Associations, and stands high in his profession. He was chief of the Caledonian Society of Seaforth for two years. In 1884 he published his little book, "The Land of Burns," which was favorably received by both press and people. He frequently lectures on Burns and Scottish literature for the Caledonian, St. Andrew's, and other Scottish societies, and has a series of very interesting lectures on the great Scottish poet. He was married on the 14th of May, 1872, to Jane Laird, of Haysville, Ont.

WILLIAM HENRY SHAW, of Stratford, Ont., was born on the 1st of April, 1858, in the township of Camden, Kent County. He received his early education at the public school, and by steady application and perseverance, succeeded in obtaining a third-class certificate when only seventeen years of age. He began teaching in 1875, which he continued until 1883, with the exception of from April to July, 1879, when in attendance at the Normal School, Toronto. He secured a second-class professional certificate from this institution, having passed non-professional in 1878 while teaching. After this he gave up public school work and accepted a position as teacher in the Canada Business College, Chatham, where he remained until December, 1886. He then withdrew from this institution and established the Central Business College in Stratford. This school was opened for the reception of students in January, 1887, and has since grown to a foremost position among the business colleges of the Dominion. The attendance each succeeding year has increased from twenty-two and one-half to forty-three per cent., and now has representatives from all parts of the Dominion and from the United States. This success is due to the ability and popularity of the principal, and to the efforts of himself and his excellent staff of assistants to do the very best work possible for the students. His school is now thoroughly and permanently established, and is an influential factor among our educational institutions, as it has no superior in its particular line of work. Mr. Shaw is a member of the Methodist Church. He was trustee of Wesley Church, Raleigh, and is now choir master of the Central Methodist Church, Stratford, also a member of the Official Board of the latter church. He is doing a grand work, not only in the line of his profession, but also in the church. He was married on the 1st of January, 1878, to Miss Charlotte J. Gill, of the township of Raleigh, County of Kent, Ontario.

DANIEL ROSS VAN ALLEN, of Chatham, Ont., president and manager of the Chatham Manufacturing Company, was born on the 27th of December, 1823, in Burford township, Oxford County. When he was five years of age his father removed to Port Dover and engaged in farming. Here the subject of our sketch received such education as the public school afforded. In 1833 he went to live with his uncle in Chatham, Captain Henry Van Allen, who was engaged in mercantile business there, with whom he remained until 1838, when he started out to do for himself. From this time until 1845 he was employed as clerk in various country stores. In 1845 he managed a store for a Chatham firm, at the point where the town of Dresden now is. While here, being impressed with the eligibility of the location as being desirable for a town, he purchased a lot of land, upon which he founded what is now the flourishing town of Dresden. He carried on business extensively here until 1849. He then removed to Chatham, where he engaged in the mercantile business, which he continued until 1858, when he abandoned this business and embarked in the manufacture of hardwood lumber, in which he has continued since with marked success. In 1882, after the adoption of the National Policy, Mr. Van Allen formed a Joint Stock Company for the manufacture of farm wagons, of which the Chatham Manufacturing Company is the result. In 1862 he exhibited, at his own expense, at the World's Fair, London, Eng., a lot of planks of timber, being specimens of the growth and varieties of wood in the vicinity of Chatham. He was awarded the highest prize in that exhibition for this remarkable display. Mr. Van Allen was for many years school trustee, councillor, reeve, deputy reeve, and for one year mayor of Chatham, all of which offices he filled with ability. In politics he is a Conservative. He is an active man, and has contributed largely to the material prosperity of that section.

He was educated at the school of his native town, and after taking a second-class certificate "A" in 1876, taught at Port Albert, Ont. He then attended Toronto University in 1878, and afterwards studied at the Toronto School of Medicine, where he graduated in 1882. During his course he took honors in anatomy, physiology and the practice of medicine. He then took charge of Dr. Park's practice at Milverton, and afterwards of Dr. Morton's practice at Wellesley, Ont. In 1886 he began practice in Goderich, and has remained there since. Dr. Whiteley is popular with the profession and the community at large. He has been deputy reeve and member of the Council for three years. In politics he is a Liberal-Conservative, and an adherent of the Methodist Church, a member of the I.O.O.F., I.O.F. and A.O.U.W., and attending physician for these societies. He is also sole examiner for the Canada Life, the Manufacturers' Life, and the London and Lancashire Assurance Companies. He was married on August 18th, 1886, to Miss Percy Fisher, of Goderich.

GEORGE DRUMMOND, manager of the Bank of Montreal, Goderich, Ont., was born in Kingston on the 8th of February, 1851, where his father carried on business as a wholesale grocer. He was educated at private schools and the Upper Canada College, entering the latter when only eight years old. After seven years study in that institution, he entered the Bank of Montreal, Toronto, and has continued his connection with the bank ever since, occupying every subordinate position up to that of manager. He has been connected with the branches at Toronto, Peterboro, Chicago, Montreal, Kingston and Hamilton, and has occupied his present position in Goderich since 1886. Mr. Drummond is an exceedingly affable and genial man of thorough business habits, and has made the bank which he represents exceedingly popular in Goderich and the surrounding country. His success in banking is owing to his special adaptation to that business. He is an expert and ardent cricketer and fond of the grand old English game. In religion Mr. Drummond is a Presbyterian. He is unmarried, having his mother and sister residing with him.

JOHN JUCHEREAU KINGSMILL, M.A., D.C.L., Judge of the County of Bruce, Walkerton, Ont., was born in the city of Quebec on the 21st of May, 1829. He is of Irish descent, and belongs to a noted military family. His grandfather was Major Kingsmill, of the 1st Royal Regiment, and his father was Colonel William Kingsmill, who came to Canada early in the second quarter of this century. Judge Kingsmill, our subject, was educated at Upper Canada College, the University of Toronto, from which he received the degree of B.A., and Trinity College, from which he received the degrees of M.A. and D.C.L. He commenced the practice of law at Guelph in the year 1853, and was for many years partner of the late Hon. Adam Ferguson Blair. He was County Crown Attorney from 1856 until 1866, and during his residence there was very active in volunteer matters. In 1867, on the separation of Bruce from Huron, he was appointed Judge of the County of Bruce, which position he has held since. He is cool and impartial in his judgments, and his charges to a jury are very clear and emphatic, and fills this high office with ability and dignity appropriate to the position. In religion he is a member of the English Church, has been a delegate to the Synod of Huron for years, and also a delegate to the Provincial Synod, Montreal. Judge Kingsmill has been married four times—first, in 1854, to Ellen Diana, eldest daughter of George J. Grange, formerly Sheriff of the County of Wellington. She was killed by accident in 1860. He was married a second time in 1861 to Julia, eldest daughter of Hon. W. H. Dickson, Senator, Niagara. She died in 1869. He again married in 1871 Caroline Louise, eldest daughter of Samuel Penn Stokes, of Windsor, who has since died, and in 1884 he married for the fourth time Agnes Caroline Grace, daughter of the late Lieut.-Colonel Bernard, of the 13th Hussars, and grand-daughter of the late Samuel P. Jarvis, Esq., of Toronto. He has a large family.

GEORGE M. BUCHART, of Owen Sound, Ont., was born in Dundee, Scotland, in 1827. He received his early training in that town, and then became an apprentice to the business of tinsmith. He then came to Canada, landing in Quebec in 1845. After spending some time in fish packing in Miramichi, he came to Toronto, and finally reached Owen Sound. He began by making and selling tinware, and, after a profitable eighteen months stay, went to Indiana, U.S., where he remained nine months, and then returned to Owen Sound. In 1850 he began anew as tinsmith, and by gradually adding to his stock, and engaging in other lines, increased his trade so much that a larger building was necessary. His business made rapid progress, until the effects of the Russian war overtook him and he was necessitated to suspend payment. Instead of compromising, he preferred, if time was given, to pay in full, which he did, with interest added, within ten years. Although three times burned out, his business steadily increased, and the handsome building now occupied by his sons, is an evidence of the success that attended him. Mr. Buchart, sr., died in 1882, and was succeeded by his two sons—R. P. and D. M.—as R. P. Buchart & Bro. Under their skillful management, the stock has been so greatly increased and improved, that it is now recognized as containing the most complete assortment of hardware and electro-plated goods in Western Ontario. They are also largely employed as steam and gas fitters. The late Mr. Buchart was a member of the Methodist Church and a liberal supporter. In politics he was a Conservative. He was ensign in the Fenian Raid, and afterwards made captain. For many years he was a member of the Town Council, and as a private builder, added greatly to the property of the town. Three years before his death he opened a store in Rapid City, Manitoba. His wife was Mary, youngest daughter of Samuel Chatwin, of Birmingham, England.

JOHN ALEXANDER BOYD, Chancellor of Ontario, and President of the High Court of Justice for the Province of Ontario, was born on the 23rd of April, 1837, in the city of Toronto. His parents were John and Margaret McCallum Boyd. His father was educated in Glasgow, Scotland, and for some time after coming to Canada he taught the school known as Bay Street Academy, Toronto. The subject of our sketch received careful educational training at the hands of his father, and afterwards attended Upper Canada College and Toronto University. He studied law and practiced as solicitor and barrister from the year 1863 until 1881, when, in May of the latter year, he received his present appointment. When elevated to this important office, he brought to the discharge of his duties a clear intellect, a sound understanding of law, and a well trained judicial mind, and he has attended to its duties with singular ability and dignity. In religion Chancellor Boyd is a Baptist. He was married in the year 1863 to Miss Elizabeth, daughter of David Buchan, late Bursar of Toronto University. The fruit of this union is a large family of sons and daughters.

EDMUND OLDHAM, M.D., Chatsworth, Ont., was born on the 11th of July, 1859, at Kidderminster, Eng. His father was the late Professor John K. Oldham, of Manchester, Eng., and Kingston, Ont. He received his early education at Woolwich and Manchester, and came with his parents in 1874 to Niagara Falls, where they lived three years, afterwards moving to Kingston. He attended the Collegiate Institute there, and having matriculated in medicine, spent four years at Queen's University, and graduated with honors in 1881. Dr. Oldham was the first demonstrator of anatomy of the Ladies' College in Kingston, and also demonstrator to the R. C. P. and S. in the session of 1881. He commenced practice at Williamsford, where he remained a year, and then removed to Chatsworth, where he has built up a very large and remunerative practice, and is highly respected by all classes. Dr. Oldham is an Episcopalian and church warden. In politics he is Conservative and vice-president of the North Grey Conservative Association. He was reeve of the township in 1887-88. He was married June 3rd, 1884, to Mary, second daughter of Alex. Ramage, Chesley, Ont.

FRANK DENTON, barrister, of Toronto, was born near Richmond Hill, York County, on the 18th of August, 1858. His father, the late William Denton, Justice of the Peace, came from England to Canada in 1850 and settled near Richmond Hill as a general merchant. After this he removed to Mono Centre, where he had a general store and farm. In 1885 he came to Toronto, where he resided until his death in 1888. Mr. Denton received his education at the Richmond Hill High School, the Collingwood Collegiate Institute, the Toronto Normal School, and Trinity College, where he took the degree of B.C.I. in 1887. He taught in the Orangeville Model School, and after that was first English master of the Cobourg Collegiate Institute. In 1883 he commenced the study of law with W. R. Riddell, Esq., Cobourg, and afterwards studied in Toronto with Mr. C. H. Ritchie, Q.C., and subsequently with Mr. D. B. Read, Q.C. He is now the senior partner of the firm of Denton, Dods & Denton, Toronto. On his commencing business for himself, he at once entered upon a large practice. He was one of the counsel for the city of Toronto in the celebrated Toronto Street Railway Arbitration, and for some time acting first assistant city solicitor under C. R. W. Biggar, Q.C. He was in 1890 appointed by the City Council of Toronto one of a deputation of three to visit the leading American cities to secure information and study the street railway problem from a municipal standpoint. Mr. Denton is an active member of the Broadway Tabernacle Methodist Church, Toronto, and has represented his church at the Toronto Conference and elsewhere. He is an active Liberal in politics and a ready and fluent debater. He has succeeded in taking a leading place in his profession very early in life, and has every prospect of a brilliant future before him. In 1884 Mr. Denton was married to Miss Lizzie Clingan, daughter of the late Flenning Clingan, J.P., of Orangeville.

THE LATE JOHN BATTLE was born in 1824 in the town of Ballymote, County Sligo, Ireland. He came to Canada in 1842 and settled at Thorold, where he has lived continuously, with the exception of one year, for half a century. He commenced life as a day laborer on the Welland Canal, and all through his after life looked back with pride to the days when he earned the munificent sum of 62½ cents per day, out of which he saved the few dollars which gave him the foundation on which he built up a competency. His first savings were invested in a team, which he used in towing vessels on the canal, again saving from this increased revenue, he purchased another team, and so on until he became known as the proprietor of an important towing line. Having got this business well under control, he gave his attention to other business matters, and it soon became apparent that John Battle was to be an important factor in the commercial prosperity of the community. In 1860 he became interested in shipping, building and owning several vessels and tugs, which he managed with great success. He was possessed of a keen insight in all business matters, and seemed able to forecast the future, thereby avoiding many losses by dropping an enterprise when it had begun to wane. About one year after the estate of the late John Brown was wound up, Mr. Battle became sole proprietor of the Cement Mills, which, under his skillful management, became known and patronized in all parts of the Dominion. He was almost entirely instrumental in inducing a branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce to locate in Thorold, and afterwards became a large stockholder in the same. His many friends testify that money making did not by any means absorb his better nature, and that behind what a stranger might call an unsympathetic exterior there was a heart as tender as a woman's, which never turned from a case of need when properly presented. He was never accused of wronging any man out of a shilling, and very frequently gave employment to men out of pure kindness of heart when his works were more than fully manned. In his own family he was cherished and revered, receiving that deference which his years and efforts for their welfare so richly deserved, and their loving hands were permitted to do everything that could possibly lengthen his life, or comfort his dying hours. For months prior to his demise, it was well known that he was prostrated by a malady, from which he was not expected to recover, and he gradually sank until he quietly laid down his life work and peacefully passed away on the evening of the 26th of February, 1891, at the age of 67 years. His funeral was, as might be expected, very impressive and conducted in a way befitting his well known career. The casket was borne by six of his sons, while all along the route every respect was shown by the citizens; business was suspended, and stores and public works were closed, the Church of Our Lady of the Holy Rosary was crowded by citizens of all denominations. The entire services were most impressive and thoroughly appreciated, and, after a memorable sermon by Rev. Dean Harris, of St. Catharines, the remains were laid away by loving hands. At the first meeting of the Town Council after the decease, that body took occasion to frame a very kindly worded and complimentary resolution of sympathy. When this resolution was moved and seconded, the council arose as one man and showed with much feeling how heartily they endorsed it. Mr. Battle was married in 1851 to Cecilia, daughter of Patrick and Margaret (Macdonald) Cullen at the old historic town of Niagara. There were born to them ten sons and two daughters, all of whom survive but one son.

HENRY RICHARDS, of the firm of Richards Bros., 504 Yonge street, Toronto, was born on the 12th of August, 1841, at Birmingham, Eng. He is a son of Abram Richards, of Greet, in the same county. He received his early education in Birmingham in his native land, and while yet a mere youth, entered the employ of a gas and steam fitting establishment. He came to Canada in 1870 and settled in Toronto. In 1872 he entered into partnership with his brother Alfred in the plumbing, steam and gas fitting business, and succeeded in building up a large trade. Mr.

Richards is in every respect a self-made man, and is thoroughly conversant with true business principles. In religion he is a Baptist, and takes an active part in the work of Emanuel Church. He is also Past Grand Master of the Canadian Order of Odd Fellows, Manchester Unity, and a member of the Executive Board, and is also a member of the Masonic Order, the Royal Arcanum, etc. In politics he is a Conservative and a true son of his adopted country. He was married on the 18th of December, 1865, to Catherine Hurley, daughter of Wm. Hurley, Gloucester, Eng.

REV. ALEX. D. McDONALD, of the Presbyterian Church, Seaforth, Ont., was born on the 9th of November, 1832, in the Citadel, Quebec. His father was bandmaster in the 79th Regiment, and was present at the battles of Corunna and Waterloo. After leaving the army he received a pension and a grant of land in the County of Durham, and died shortly after the close of the Rebellion, when Alexander, the subject of our sketch, was hardly eight years old. On his father's death, Alexander lived with a farmer until he was 18. He then began study, and attended the township of Tuekersmith, and chairman of the Seaforth High School Board. In 1880 Mr. McDonald travelled extensively in Great Britain, and in 1882 and 1887 in Manitoba and the North-West. Mr. McDonald was married June 23rd, 1859, to Agnes Cavan, daughter of James Cavan, of Paris, Ont. Four of his sons are employed in wholesale houses in Winnipeg and one in Detroit. He has been a diligent, laborious and successful pastor in all the charges in which he has labored and greatly beloved by his people. His pulpit ministrations bear evidence of thorough preparation.

Toronto Academy, then under the charge of Prof. Gale. He alternated his studies by working on a farm, and taught school in Blenheim in 1853 and 1854, and was employed as a student catechist in 1855 at Westport and Newburgh, and in 1856 and 1857 at Collingwood and Bradford. After completing his theological studies at Knox College, Toronto, he was assistant to the late Dr. Bayne, of Galt. Having been duly licensed by the Hamilton Presbytery, he was ordained pastor of Willis Church, Clinton, in 1859, and in 1869 he was settled as pastor of Knox Church, Elora, and in 1879 inducted as pastor of his present charge in Seaforth. For eight years he was clerk of the Huron Presbytery, was Moderator of the Synod of Hamilton and London in 1883, and has also been Superintendent of Public Schools in Clinton and the

Bishop of Huron, London, Ont., was born in Toronto on the 21st of June, 1836. He is the fourth son of the late John Spread Baldwin, and cousin of the late Hon. Robert Baldwin. He received his early education at the Upper Canada College, subsequently entered the University and graduated at Trinity College, Toronto, in 1859. In 1860 he was ordained deacon by the late Bishop Cronyn. His first appointment was curate to the late Dr. St. George Caulfield, of St. Thomas. In 1862 he entered upon his first independent charge as incumbent of St. Paul's Church, Port Dover. In 1865 he was appointed to St. Luke's Church, Montreal. In 1870 he became assistant minister at Christ's Church Cathedral, Montreal, and in the same year was appointed one of its canons. On the death of the Very Rev. Dean Bethune in 1872, he was unanimously elected rector of the parish of Montreal, and subsequently made Dean of Montreal. In October, 1883, he was elected Bishop of the Diocese of Huron, and consecrated in Christ's Church Cathedral, Montreal, in November following. Thus being called to the higher work of the Episcopate, he returned to preside over the diocese which had given him Holy Orders, and where the first years of his ministerial life had been spent. Besides the many important parochial duties His Lordship has so faithfully discharged, he has written several pamphlets, and two books entitled "A Break in the Ocean Cable" and "Life in a Look," which have had a wide circulation. These books are eminently clear and scriptural, and give a very correct idea of the views and style of their gifted author. Bishop Baldwin is a fluent and impressive preacher, and as a pulpit orator, a logical reasoner, and a true and faithful ambassador of Christ, he is widely known and highly appreciated all over the Dominion. He is remarkable for his earnestness, his strong simple faith, and his singular devotion to the Master's service.

E. H. GULLEDGE, Oakville, Ont., was born in that place on the 17th of November, 1851. He is the youngest son of Henry Gullede, Esq., Somersetshire, Eng., who came to Canada and settled in Oakville, and for many years carried on a saddlery business there. His education was commenced at the public school and completed under private tutors. On leaving school he entered upon an apprenticeship to the saddlery business in his father's shop, and finished his trade in Jamestown, New York State, U.S.A., on the 3rd of May, 1871. He then returned to Oakville, and on the 5th of June, 1871, was accepted as a partner in his father's business, he being at that time only nineteen years of age. This partnership continued until 1877, when he bought out his father's interest, and since that time has carried on the business alone. At first the making of harness was the only line to which attention was given, but the present owner has added boots and shoes, trunks, valises, etc. In fact anything in first-class leather goods can be purchased there. He has been very successful, the business increasing year by year, until now it is safe to say that he has the most extensive trade in his line in Western Ontario. Mr. Gullede attributes his success largely to keeping reliable goods and selling them at a reasonable margin of profit. He has a ready grasp of all the requirements of his business, and brings to bear upon every department the skill and experience of a thorough practical training. In religion he is an Episcopalian, being a member of St. Jude's Church, Oakville. In politics he is a strong Conservative, and takes an active interest in all matters pertaining to his party. He has been a member of the Oakville Town Council three years, having been twice elected by acclamation, which is an evidence of the estimation in which he is held in the community. He was married on the 21st of March, 1881, to Miss Jane Armada Oliphant, daughter of Duncan Oliphant, of Oakville, Ont.

WARRENTOTTEN, Q.C., Woodstock, Ont., was born in Paris, Brant County, on the 23rd May, 1835. He was educated at the Common and Grammar schools, studied law at twenty-one, and was admitted in 1861 to practice as a Solicitor. In 1862 he was called to the Bar and enrolled on the books of the Law Society, Toronto. He practiced law at Paris from 1861 to 1864, then for two years in Brantford. In 1866 he removed to Woodstock, where he still continues to practice. Mr. Totten entered public life at the age of forty, when he was elected Deputy Reeve (Town Council), and has been almost continuously connected with the same. He is Solicitor for Canada for the Order of Fraternal Guardians. Mr. Totten's life has been a continued response to the, apparently, unlimited appeals to assist in the welfare of much that has been outside of his profession. He is a member of the Church of England, and is an ex-warden.

JOHN JOSEPH GEE, M.D., C.M., Trinity and Victoria, F.T.M.C. and M.C.P.S.O., Toronto, Ont., was born on the 1st of November, 1860, in Rainham township, Haldimand County. His parents are Hiram and Mary Ann Hall Gee, his father being a prosperous farmer in Haldimand County. His mother came from England, and his father is descended from the U. E. Loyalists. The latter has served for about twenty years in the Township and County Councils of Haldimand, and at present holds the office of License Inspector of said county. The subject of our sketch received his education under difficulties, only being able to attend school in the winter months, but by faithful application and perseverance, he obtained a third-class teachers' certificate before he attained the age of twenty. He then attended the Model School at Caledonia, and commenced teaching in 1880. He taught three years, after which he attended High School at Caledonia for eighteen months, preparing for matriculation in medicine. Here he obtained a second-class grade "A" certificate, on which he taught one year. He entered Trinity Medical College in 1887 and graduated in 1890 with the following degrees: M.D., C.M., Trinity University; M.D., C.M., Victoria University; F.T.M.C., Trinity Medical College; and M.C.P.S.O., member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario. He was a student with Dr. W. S. Clark, of Toronto, and in 1890, when the latter went to Europe for his health, he took charge of his practice. Dr. Clark, on his return, resolved to go to California to reside permanently, when Dr. Gee purchased his practice, and now retains this large and profitable connection. His office is on the corner of Gerrard and Jarvis streets, Toronto. Dr. Gee is an adherent of Methodist Church. LACHLAN E. McKINNON, St. Catharines, Ont., was born on the 19th of September, 1854, at Owen Sound, Ont. His father was the late Rev. John McKinnon, Presbyterian minister, who served the church at Carleton Place and Owen Sound for a number of years. He died when the subject of our sketch was but ten years of age, and the family were kept together and educated by the mother, with the help of the eldest son, who is now superintendent of the Industrial School at Minico. Mr. McKinnon received his education at the Grammar School, Carleton Place, and Owen Sound High School, and at the age of fourteen commenced work at the hardware business with Mr. Kough, of Owen Sound. After serving a term of four years there, he removed to St. Catharines and engaged in the same business with Mr. Jeffrey, with whom he remained three years.

A partnership was then entered into under the firm name of McKinnon & Co., which took in the carriage hardware department of Mr. Jeffrey's business. In the year 1878 Mr. McKinnon bought out Mr. Jeffrey's interest, and formed a partnership with Mr. Mitchell under the name of McKinnon & Mitchell. This firm existed for ten years, when it was dissolved, Mr. McKinnon taking the manufacturing department, which had been commenced in 1881. The business is still carried on by him alone under the name of McKinnon, Dash & Hardware Co., which is also the name of a branch company in Buffalo, N.Y., which he established in 1887. Both of these concerns have been eminently successful, owing largely to several patents on articles manufactured by them, issued to Mr. McKinnon in Canada and the United States. The extensive business now controlled by him is the result of his thorough knowledge of the requirements of his trade, the marked ability displayed in conducting it, and the increasing energy so noticeable in his whole career. Mr. McKinnon was married in February, 1878, to Miss Emma E. Armstrong, and he is blessed with a happy home and family.

The building occupies an excellent site on Dundas street, and is a handsome and comfortable structure. Mr. Aylward was married on October 5th, 1886, to Miss Bridget A. Ritchie, of Havant, England.

REV. JOHN POTTS, D.D., Secretary of Education in the Methodist Church of Canada, Toronto, Ont., was born at Maguire's Bridge, Ireland, in 1836. At the early age of seventeen he came to America, first settling at Kingston, and subsequently Hamilton, where he engaged in mercantile pursuits. This work, however, was not congenial to his tastes, and at the solicitation of friends, along with his own natural desires, prior to the expiration of his arts course at Victoria College, Cobourg, he was induced to study for the ministry. His probationary period was passed at Markham, Aurora, Newmarket and Thorold. After ordination, his first appointment was London, as assistant to the Venerable Richard Jones, then Yorkville, and in 1866 was chosen the first pastor of Centenary Methodist Church, Hamilton, and such were his talents, and so forcible his preaching, that he soon filled the church. A Methodist of Methodists, he is a man of most liberal views, and is respected and esteemed by those outside its pale, both as a man and a minister.

THOMAS H. PARKER, ex-mayor of Woodstock, and one of its most successful business men, was born in Cumberland, Eng., on the 10th of February, 1828. His parents were John and Jane (Harrison) Parker. Both the Parkers and Harrisons are old Cumberland families. In 1831 the family emigrated to Canada and settled in Peterborough, where our subject spent fifteen years in farming and attending a public school part of the time. In 1846 his father moved to Zorra township, Oxford County, where he purchased a farm and cultivated it for some years. At the age of twenty, our subject returned to Peterborough, engaging in the lumber business in the summer and attending the Rev. Mr. Taylor's Grammar School during the winter. From 1850 to 1855 he was at Brantford and Hamilton as a merchant's apprentice. He then removed to Woodstock and commenced business for himself. At the expiration of one year he formed a partnership with John D. Hood. He continued in this business until 1873, when, having realized a competency, he sold out and retired from active business. While in trade, Mr. Parker's excellent business habits, keen insight and ready grasp of all matters pertaining to the welfare of the community, were patent to the public, and he was frequently called upon to fill various public offices. He was in the Council several years, and subsequently filled the office of first and second deputy reeve. In 1878 he was elected mayor, and was so popular that he was re-elected by acclamation the next year. He was president of the Mechanics' Institute, was the first president of Woodstock Board of Trade, and has always been identified with all matters pertaining to the welfare of the town. Hood, mentioned above. Their family consists of two daughters.

DUNCAN SMITH, M.B., Fingal, Ont., was born at North Knapdale, Argyleshire, Scotland, on the 15th September, 1865. He is the son of Dugald Smith and Mary McArthur of that place. His father was a shoemaker, and came to Canada for the benefit of his family, but lives retired, never taking up any business. Dr. Smith was only seven years of age when his parents left Scotland. He received his early education at the public schools of Belmont, in the County of Middlesex, where they settled on coming to Canada, and afterwards attended the Dresden public school. He then returned to Belmont and began the study of medicine, and matriculated at London in 1884, and graduated in April, 1890, taking honorary certificates in both the primary and final years. In May, 1890, he also graduated at Toronto University with the degree of M.B., and the week after passed the College of Physicians and Surgeons in Ontario. At the end of his third year's studies Dr. Smith bought out a practice in the northern part of Wisconsin, U.S. After graduation he opened an office and drug store in Port Stanley, where he now is. His father's family consisted of eight children—the three eldest sons are now engaged in carrying on a large and increasing flax business, and the youngest son is in the clothing and tailoring business. His two eldest sisters, Jessie and Eliza, are married—the one to John McColl, a farmer, and the other to John McTavish, who is engaged, like his brothers, in the flax business. Dr. Smith is a member of the Presbyterian Church, as all his ancestors have been. In that part of the Highlands of Scotland where he was born Presbyterianism is the prevailing religion, and its people are tenacious of their creed and church wherever they are found. In Dr. Smith's religious views and preferences is seen illustrated the loyalty of the people of the Highlands of Scotland, no matter where they are scattered, in standing by the honest and sturdy faith of their ancestors.

ELIAS ROGERS, coal merchant, Toronto, Ont., was born on the 23rd of June, 1850, and belongs to one of the oldest families in the County of York. His great-grandfather, Timothy Rogers, came to this province from the United States about the year 1800, bringing with him forty families and settling near the village of Newmarket, Ont. The subject of our sketch spent the early years of his life on the old farm, and, at the age of twenty-one, made his first commercial venture in the lumber business, at which he was successful. A few years later he became interested in coal mining operations in Jefferson County, Pa., and shortly after this turned his attention entirely to the coal trade. About the year 1876 he came to Toronto, and in partnership with Mr. F. C. Dinniny, of Elmira, N. Y., laid the foundation of the business which has now grown to be one of the most extensive of its kind on the continent. Although still a young man, he is probably the best known dealer in fuel in the Dominion. The secret of his success, so early in life, is in great measure due to the strength of character and determination inherited from his parents. To this he added industry and a good business training, which, when brought to bear with his well-known perseverance, has placed him where he now stands. Mr. Rogers is a member of the Council of the Toronto Board of Trade, a director on the Boards of the Bible Society, Willard Tract Society and the Y. M. C. A., and takes an active interest in all matters pertaining to the general welfare and prosperity of Toronto. After serving one year in the Toronto City Council, Mr. Rogers was presented with a petition, signed by over five thousand voters, requesting him to become a candidate for the Mayoralty for 1888. Though much against his inclination, he was finally induced to consent. The contest, which was one of the keenest Toronto has ever known, resulted in the election of his opponent by a small majority through a third candidate being placed in the field.

availing himself of all that is new
from time to time in the better equipment of his business. Although still stock consider him one of the best photographers in the province. In religion he is a member of the Church of England. He is also a member of the

he has continued to labor with very great acceptance since. This church was founded in 1878, the Rev. John Knox Wright being the first pastor and Mr. Roger the second. It has performed an important part in supplying the spiritual wants of the eastern part of the city of London. Mr. Roger was convener of the Committee on the State of Religion in the Synod of Toronto and Kingston five years, and has been connected with various other departments of church work. He was Crown counsel in the conviction of McConnell, for the murder of Nelson Mills, at the Hamilton Winter Assizes in 1876. In this case, the plea of prisoner's insanity was set up and strongly urged by his counsel, and still forms a theme for discussion among medical men. The prisoner was convicted and executed. He also defended Joseph France, who was tried for murder at the Goderich Fall Assizes in 1874, and Maria Elliott, for the murder of her child, at the Spring Assizes in 1876. In both of which cases the prisoners were acquitted. JOHN McCLARY, of the McClary Manufacturing Co., London, Ont., was born on the 2nd of January, 1829, in the township of Westminster, County of Middlesex. On his father's side he is of the historical stock of Adams, his grandmother being a cousin of the celebrated John Quincy Adams, a name which will long stand forth as one of the greatest among American families. His mother, Sally Stark, who was born in Pennsylvania on the 17th of March, 1786, was a descendant of Gen. Stark, of Revolutionary fame. Mr. McClary learned the tin business in London, and in 1850 went to California. He returned to London in 1851, and, in partnership with his brother Oliver, started the present establishment under the firm name of J. & O. McClary, which was carried on until 1871, when a joint stock company was formed under the name of the McClary Manufacturing Co. (Ltd.). The business has, as is well known, reached gigantic proportions, and their stoves, furnaces and tin supplies are handled by the trade in every town and city in the Dominion, while they also do their share of foreign trade. Mr. McClary in religion is a member of the Methodist Church, and is a trustee of Wellington Street Church, London. He has always been a Reformer in politics, but is a strong supporter of the National Policy and a thorough advocate for developing the natural resources of the country. He is a magistrate, director of the L. and P. Ry., vice-president of the Ontario Loan and Debenture Co., vice-president of the London Life Assurance Co., and is president and chief stockholder in the Manufacturing Company which bears his name. He is a shrewd business man, and the success of the company is due largely to his ability. Mr. McClary has been twice married—first, in 1853, to Mary Ann, daughter of Phoenix Drake, and again, in 1866, to Miss Pavey. He has two daughters by his first wife—Mrs. Gunn and Mrs. Gartshore—both of whose husbands are engaged in the business with Mr. McClary.

MARSENA MORSE, undertaker and embalmer, Niagara Falls South, Ontario, was born on the 18th of April, 1831, at that place. He was educated at the public school of his native town. At the age of fifteen he engaged with his father to learn the business of cabinet making, and in 1861 became apprenticed to the trade of carpenter and builder. On the death of his father in 1874, he bought the estate and carried on the undertaking branch of the business, which he continues to the present time with every satisfaction to the large patronage that has come to him.

In 1880 he commenced studying the art of embalming, and in 1883 received a diploma from the Rochester school, certifying to his graduation in that art. On his conversion in 1855, he immediately united with the Methodist Church, of which he is a prominent member. He has occupied many official positions, such as steward and class-leader. He is a member of the I.O.O.F., and also of the Royal Templars of Temperance. Mr. Morse was married on the 18th of October, 1854, to Mary A. Gray, daughter of William Gray, a soldier of the 93rd Highlanders.

He came to Canada in 1848, and entered the Methodist Conference the same year. Guelph was his first circuit. He was afterwards stationed in Peterboro, Lindsay, Cobourg, Owen Sound, Toronto, and many other principal towns and cities of Canada. He served in the active work of the ministry thirty-eight years, and during that time was chairman of several important districts, and was a delegate to the first General Conference, and to each subsequent Conference until he was superannuated in 1886. He was agent for Victoria College twenty years, and since superannuation has been collector for the Federation Fund, and has held evangelistic services in many of the leading towns and cities of Ontario. The prominent aim of his life has been the building of churches and the saving of souls, in which he has been most successful. Mr. Fish has been twice married—first, in 1842, to Mary Wilkinson, and again, in 1860, to Catherine Johnson.

J. ARTHUR WILLIAMS, M.D., L.R.C.P. London, M.R.C.S. and L.M. England, Ingersoll, Ont., was born February 21st, 1837, at Queenston, Ontario. His parents were James and Rebecca (Smith) Williams. Dr. Williams came to Oxford County in his boyhood, where he was educated at the common schools and also by private tutors. Like many professional men of Canada, he spent his early life on his father's farm. In 1860 he entered the Toronto School of Medicine, and subsequently the Medical Department of Victoria University, Cobourg, and graduated M.D. in 1863. Two years after he received the appointment of demonstrator of Anatomy in Victoria College, holding that position until 1867. He spent some time in New York in the special study of the eye and ear, and subsequently visited England, attending the leading hospitals and passing the examinations for the degrees above mentioned. Resigning his position in Victoria College, he commenced practicing his profession in Ingersoll, where he still lives in the enjoyment of a large practice. Dr. Williams has been a member of the Ontario Medical Council since 1880, representing the Gore and Thames electoral division, and is now its president. In 1869 he was appointed a trustee of the High School and a member of the Board of Education, which position he held until 1889. He was a member of the Council in 1876 and 1878, and has been reeve of the town continuously since 1887. In politics he is a Liberal-Conservative, and was for a time president of the local Liberal-Conservative Association. In 1882 he contested the South Riding of Oxford with Hon. Adam Crooks, being defeated by a small majority. In 1885 he contested the riding again with Dr. McKay, and, after a gallant fight, was again defeated, which is not a matter for wonder, as it is well known that South Oxford is a strong Reform constituency. In religion he is a Methodist. He was married first in 1871, and again in 1880 to Miss Fullerton, of South Dorchester, by whom he has one son.

JAMES STEVENS, Division Court Clerk, Ingersoll, Ont., was born July 17th, 1836, at Whitby, Ont. He was a leading young man in the community, a forceful public speaker, an enterprising business man, and enjoyed the full confidence of all who knew him. His eldest daughter is Mrs. E. H. Hugill, and his youngest, Minerva May, is still at home with her parents.

It has received exhaustive commendations, both from the secular and religious press of Catholic and Protestant denominations, and from eminent scholars of all creeds as well. This work is intended to supply the Christian public with a handbook which will answer the most mischievous of modern sceptics' objections against the truth and inspiration of Holy Scripture, and it furnishes a reliable synopsis of the arguments whereby these attributes of Scripture can be maintained.

He was then pastor at Cobourg three years, dur-year, having been 51 years in the work, he retired from the active ministry and settled in London, where he had spent nine years as a pastor. Mr. Sanderson was president of the Conference in 1876, and again in 1885, was a delegate to the First General Conference at Toronto in 1874, and to the General Conference at Montreal in 1878. The honorary degree of D.D. was conferred upon him by the University of Victoria in 1877. Although retired, Dr. Sanderson still preaches frequently at special services, church openings, anniversaries, etc. He is a fine specimen of the Christian minister.

Afterwards he occupied positions at different places, including Toronto. He then joined the staff of the Bank of Commerce, in which he remained four years, with much satisfaction to that institution. Mr. Smith was married to Miss Belle Taylor, daughter of Chief Justice Taylor, of Manitoba, on July 31st, 1883, by whom he has one child. In the year 1888 he commenced the business of private banking in Seaforth, which he still carries on. He enjoys the full confidence of the business and farming community, and does a most successful banking business. He is a member of the Presbyterian Church, and takes an active interest in all church work. He is president of the Christian Endeavor Society, and a faithful worker in the Sabbath School. In politics he is a Reformer.

THOMAS D. FAWCETT, L.D.S., London, Ont., was born on the 13th March, 1866, at St. George, Brant County, Ont. He is a grandson of the late Rev. Thos. Fawcett, a well known Methodist minister. His father was a dentist, and died at St. George in 1866. His mother is still living, and resides with her son at London. Dr. Fawcett received his earlier education at St. George public school and Dunferm College, London. He received his professional education at the Royal College of Dental Surgeons, Toronto, and was also a student under F. M. Harvey, L.D.S., London, Ont. He graduated from the College of Dental Surgeons in the year 1891, and immediately commenced his profession in London, and here he has already acquired a very encouraging practice. Mr. Fawcett is attentive and capable, is a young man of the highest character, of gentlemanly appearance, and popular with his patients. With his thorough education, solid talents, and devotion to his profession, it is not difficult to foretell a successful career for this young dental surgeon. Mr. Fawcett was united in marriage with Miss May, daughter of James Lafferty, of Hamilton, Ont., on the 14th of October, 1891.

ARTHUR L. VANSTONE, merchant, Brantford, Ont., was born on October 5th, 1857, at Tyrone, in the County of Durham, Ont. His parents are Samuel and Elizabeth (Elford) Vanstone. His father, who was a merchant miller in Bowmanville for many years, is now living a retired life there. The subject of our sketch received his education at the public and High schools at Bowmanville and Port Hope. He matriculated into Toronto University in the year 1878, and obtained a second-class teacher's certificate in the same year. He afterwards attended the Normal School at Ottawa. He then followed the teaching profession for nearly four years, when he gave it up to enter business life. He first engaged in the grain and milling business at Bowmanville. In the year 1885 he purchased a grocery and crockery business in the city of Brantford, which business he is still carrying on, and has made it one of the most important in his line in the city. This is largely due to his ready grasp of the requirements of his trade, whether in buying or selling. He is regarded by all who have business dealings with him as an honest and capable man. He is admirably adapted to meeting the general public, having a most genial deportment, and, being possessed of strong social qualities, he makes himself agreeable to all with whom he comes in contact. Mr. Vanstone in religion is a member of the Methodist Church, having joined that body in the year 1874 while attending the High School at Port Hope. He is at present a leading member of Wellington Street Methodist Church, Brantford, being a trustee and pew steward of that church. He received his theological education in Knox College, graduating from that institution in the year 1883. He also attended the Theological Seminary at Princeton, N.J., for one year, and spent one year in the Theological Halls of Edinburgh, Scotland, and at Leipsic, Germany. In April, 1885, he was ordained and inducted into the pastorate of Knox Church, London, where he has continued to labor with great acceptability since. He was introduced to his present charge by the late Rev. Thomas McPherson, who was for many years pastor of Knox Church, Stratford, and who was the pastor of Mr. Ballantyne's parents, and by whom he was baptized. He joined the church on profession of faith in the year 1877. He was one of the most accomplished scholars of his class at Knox College, and has been eminently successful in his pastorate. The membership of the church and congregation has very greatly increased under his care, and he is held in high esteem, not only by his own people, but by members of other churches and the public generally. Mr. Ballantyne is still young with a bright future. He was married on the 12th January, 1886, to Miss Florence Clarke, daughter of the Hon. Charles Clarke, of Elora, County of Wellington, Ont.

Mr. Dymond was engaged for several years in advocating the abolition of capital punishment and lectured and wrote extensively on that question. He joined, in 1857, the Morning Star, of London, Eng., and in 1866 became its manager. As a Liberal in politics, he took an active share in many movements formed to promote a Liberal policy, particularly the Constitutional Defence Association, called for by the resistance of the House of Lords to the abolition of the paper duty in 1860, and the Emancipation Society, organized to elicit an expression of public opinion in favor of the Union during the American Civil War. In 1869 Mr. Dymond settled in Toronto, joining the editorial staff of the Toronto Globe. From his arrival in Canada he identified himself with the Liberal party, and in 1874 was elected M.P. for North York, which constituency he represented during the ensuing parliamentary term. In parliament he was opposed to all protective tariffs, advocated the claims of Canada to make her own copyright laws, also the right of defendants in criminal cases to give evidence in their own behalf, and carried the Common Assaults Act, in which that principle was for the first time embodied in legislation. From 1878 to 1880 he was occupied in preparing official reports and holding commissions of enquiry for the Ontario Government. In 1880 he acted as the executive member of the Ontario Agricultural Commission, and compiled the voluminous report, in which the evidence taken was condensed and digested. In 1880 he accepted the position he still holds. Principal Dymond takes a deep interest in the affairs of the Anglican Church, of which he is a member and a lay reader. He is also chairman of the Huron Anglical Lay Workers' Association.

He was prepared for medical matriculation at Pickering College and by private study. While acting in this capacity and leading a quiet, studious, and economical life, he acquired the means to complete his medical training. He graduated in the Toronto School of Medicine in 1884, and in Edinburgh in 1885. After graduating in Edinburgh he went as surgeon on a steamship to India, remaining there only a short time, but in that time gaining a fair idea of Oriental life. This was at the time of the Zulu war, and there was considerable excitement in the army and navy. Returning to Glasgow, he acted for a time as assistant practitioner. Upon the decease of Dr. Mothersill, of Stratford, in 1885, he bought out his fixtures and at once commenced practice there. Being a total abstainer from stimulants and narcotics, and possessed of great energy and ambition, he has been successful in building up one of the largest practices in the county in which he resides. He is also one of the active staff of the General Hospital, Stratford. Dr. Robertson is a faithful member of the Presbyterian Church, and was an active Sunday School worker until his extensive practice necessitated his giving it up. In politics he is an Independent Conservative, but he takes no active part in any work outside the church, his time being fully devoted to his profession. In his early days he was very fond of out-door sports, always desirous of fostering physical culture. In later years he has won many laurels as a bicyclist on the wheel called "The Eagle." Dr. Robertson continues to believe that much of the suffering of the body may be avoided by giving proper care and attention to the development of the physical life.

At the age of eighteen he was chosen to fill the position on the Free Press editorial staff, which had been vacated by Mr. Mackintosh, the present member for Ottawa. From that time Mr. Bremner steadily gained in reputation as a studious, ready and tireless worker on this journal. His history is coincident with the history of the Free Press, on which he has labored without intermission since 1865 as the trusted assistant and colleague of the late eminent editor, Mr. Josiah Blackburn. On the death of Mr. Blackburn in 1890, Mr. Bremner was appointed his successor in the editorial control, a position for which he had long been designated by his old and beloved chief. Mr. Bremner has never aspired to public office, but devotes all his powers to the service of the journal, in the success and progress of which he has been so largely concerned.

His able management caused it to be raised in 1886 to the status of a Collegiate Institute. This change necessitated the appoint-

Woodstock Collegiate Institute now ranks among the very best of the educational institutions of Ontario. Briggs, banker, Buffalo, U.S.; and Josephine, all surviving. In 1869 he returned to Canada, the land of his predilection, and settled in Brantford, where he bought the Peter Jones homestead, in which he resided for a number of years. He began the practice of law in Brantford in 1869, where he has continued since. He was appointed Police Magistrate of Brantford on the 31st of December, 1889. This appointment has given abundant satisfaction, as Mr. Woodyatt brought to the discharge of the duties of his office a well trained legal mind and a quick perception of all the important points in the many perplexing cases coming before him. He is singularly apt at analyzing evidence, and can arrive at his judgments and deliver them with an impartiality which cannot be questioned, and being of an affable and genial temperament, performs the functions of his office in a most pleasant manner. Mr. Hugill has a large patronage in Ingersoll and vicinity, and is turning out some of the finest work done west of Toronto. He does all classes of work, from the smallest to life-size portraits, and keeps fully abreast of all inventions and improvements. The large measure of success which he has attained in the art to which he has devoted himself, is owing, mainly, to the fact that he is a born artist, and to his marked natural artistic ability has been added many years of careful industry and intelligent, painstaking perseverance. In other words, he merits his success. He is a member of the Methodist Church, having been converted in 1882, when he joined that denomination. He is at present a

Upon his return from this service he was appointed lieutenant in the troop of cavalry commanded by Captain Harvey. He was then sent to Dickinson's Landing to bring up the headquarters of the 32nd and 83rd regiments. This duty accomplished, he assisted, under Sir John Colborne, in raising a company of the Queen's Loyal Borderers, in which regiment he was gazetted captain in 1838, and served in that corps at Brockville six months. While there, suspicious-looking vessels appeared, apparently making for Prescott, and he volunteered as a private marine on board Her Majesty's steamer "Experiment." His services were accepted, and he was on board when she opened fire at Prescott on these vessels and upon the steamer "United States." The enemy landed at the Windmill, and Mr. Macqueen went on shore and volunteered on the advance guard of the attacking force, under the command of the late Col. R. D. Fraser, and received the first fire of the enemy. This division compelled the surrender of the rebel commander, who handed his sword to Mr. Macqueen, a trophy of the victory, which is still in the possession of the family. Shortly after this he was called to the Bar, and, after a brief practice, received the appointment of Judge of Oxford County. Judge Macqueen was greatly beloved, and his memory will long live in the hearts of the people. On going to Woodstock he joined No. 6 Company 22nd Battalion Oxford Rifles, and soon received the appointment of staff-sergeant. He was appointed lieutenant of No. 1 Company in 1876, and in 1878 obtained the captaincy. It is now twelve years since his promotion, and he has always received special mention in the annual reports of the militia. He was for seven years secretary and treasurer of the Woodstock Rifle Association, and is a director of the Western District Rifle Association, London, and was one of the 22nd Battalion League team in 1891. His education was commenced at Edinburgh and finished at Woodstock, Canada, whither his parents came in 1854. He entered the dry goods business when very young, remaining with his first employer one year and a half. He then entered the establishment of his brother David, who was a dry goods merchant at Ingersoll at that time. He continued here about one year and a half, when in 1860, at the early age of nineteen, he commenced business for himself at Woodstock, the firm being G. & J. White. After three years his brother retired from the firm, and the subject of our sketch carried on the business alone under the style of John White & Co. Mr. White commenced business with great energy and in a large way, and by strict attention to it has been enabled to keep abreast of the dry goods business in Woodstock and the West. He first visited the European markets in 1862, and has been a direct importer ever since, having crossed the Atlantic over fifty times. His marked success is the result of a thorough knowledge of his business, gained by long experience, close attention to the details of buying and selling, and a remarkable adaptation for meeting the public. Mr. White has always taken an active interest in all that pertains to the welfare of Woodstock. He was president of the Board of Trade for a number of years, a member of the Town Council for some time, and was mayor in 1888. He was then taken into the Post Office at Brantford at the early age of fourteen, and has remained there ever since. He was appointed Postmaster in 1862, and has proved to be a competent and obliging official. Perhaps there are fewer complaints of the postal service of the Brantford office than of any office in the province doing the same amount of business. Mr. Clement belongs to no societies, but for some years was prominent in the fire department of the city, and has always been interested in all that pertains to the welfare of the community. In religion he is a Congregationalist. He was married on September 18th, 1871, to Miss Lydia Emma, daughter of John Kendall, Brantford. His parents emigrated to Canada when he was very young and first settled in Montreal, where they remained only one year, when they removed to London. Mr. Coffey received his education at the Christian Brothers' School, Montreal, and afterwards at London. He learned the trade of a printer in that city, and for many years held an important position in the Advertiser printing establishment. He helped to bring out the first copy of the daily Free Press, and some years afterwards the first copy of the daily Advertiser. In the year 1878 the Catholic Record, a weekly religious paper, was established in London, but, after a few months, the promoters of the enterprise abandoned it. Mr. Coffey then bought the plant, and has since carried on that paper with very great success, it being now a widely read journal, netting the publisher a handsome income. It is the recognized organ of the Catholic Church, and, with the able co-operation of the editor, the Rev. Father G. R. Northgraves, of Ingersoll, is the leading paper of that faith in the Dominion, having a circulation of over ten thousand copies. Mr. Coffey is admirably fitted for conducting the work which he has in hand, as he brings to the publishing of the Record the result of long years of experience in journalistic work, thoroughly understanding all the details, from setting type to writing editorials. He is a member of the C.M.B.A., and held the position of second vice-president of the Supreme Council for one term, and first vice-president for two years. In politics he belongs to the Reform party. He was ordained and inducted pastor of Southampton and Dumb-lane in 1861, remaining there two years, when he accepted a call to Port Hope. Five years afterwards he accepted a call to St. Mary's. In 1883 he became pastor of St. David's Church, St. John, N.B. While here the fire of the year 1877 destroyed his house and church, together with the homes of about eighty families connected therewith. The church was rebuilt without delay, a considerable part of the funds being collected by the pastor in Canada and the United States. In 1881 he was installed pastor of his present charge, having previously received important calls from Toronto and Brooklyn. Since being engaged in the ministry, Dr. Waters has taken the degree of LL.B. and LL.D. from Toronto University, and in 1882 D.D. from Rutgers College. His father and family settled in the township of Garafraxa, Wellington County, Ont. In about ten years they moved to the township of Peel, the present family home. He worked on the farm till he was twenty-two years of age, when the often expressed desire to get a better education was revived. Being advised by Mr. Chas. Langford, of Arthur, he entered upon a course of study. He received his education at Arthur village and Alma village public schools, and Fergus High School and Georgetown Academy. He is a self-made man, having had to work and study, hiring with farmers during vacation to provide money to go to school. Securing a teacher's certificate, he taught school one year, when in June, 1875, he entered the ministry of the Methodist Church on probation. He spent a few months under the chairman on the Mount Forest circuit, and the four years of his probation at Holstein, Lucknow and Brigden two years. At the Conference held in London, Ont., June, 1879, he was ordained, and returned to the Brigden circuit for a third year. During this year, on October 9th, he was married to Miss Annie M. S. Shields. Since his ordination he has filled with great acceptability the following circuits: Brigden one year, Oil

Springs three years, Plattsville three years, Innerkip three years, Bookton one year, and the united circuits of Bookton and Otterville, his present field of labor, one year. During his ministration new churches were built at Brigden, Oil City, Inwood, Haysville and Innerkip. He then purchased the Daily Times, St. Catharines, afterwards merged into the News. After conducting this paper for a number of years, he sold out, and in 1878 started the Daily News, Berlin, it being the first daily paper in the county. This paper has been a success from its establishment, which is entirely due to the proprietor's energy and ability. Mr. Moyer is a public-spirited citizen, and is active in all matters pertaining to the welfare of Canada. He has been the leading advocate in his town of street railways, electric

Since that he has served the church at Burlington, Clinton, London, Richmond and Queen Street churches, Toronto, Centenary Church, Hamilton, the Dominion Church, Ottawa, Central Church, Toronto, and Queen Street Church a second time, Wesley Church, Hamilton, St. Catharines, Carleton Street, Toronto, and his present charge. Under his administration the Dominion Church at Ottawa was erected, and he was permitted to remain a fourth year—a very unusual event in Methodism—in order to complete the edifice and place its finances on a sure basis. He has filled every office eligible to a minister of the Methodist Church. He has been chairman of District, secretary and president of Conference, a member of every General Conference since the union of Methodism, and a member of many important committees. Dr. Hunter has always been a diligent student, and in the midst of a busy pastorate, has pursued special courses of study in biology, physiology and kindred subjects. In 1887 he attended a course of lectures in the American Institute of Phrenology and Anthropology, and took the diploma of that institution as valedictorian of a very large graduating class. Dr. Hunter is an eloquent preacher, a successful lecturer, and a competent administrator. He is also a very warm advocate of temperance, and is at present pastor of the largest and most elegant Methodist Church in the world.

ROBERT REID, Collector of Customs, London, Ont., was born on the 1st of January, 1822, in Paisley, Scotland. In 1884 he removed to London, where he established a branch of the Toronto Eastwood Publishing business. Mr. Reid married, in 1851, Ann Jane McElroy, a distinguished graduate of Toronto Normal School. His family consists of six sons and one daughter, two of whom carry on the printing and publishing business which he established. Mr. Reid is a Presbyterian, and in politics is Reform. In 1851 he received a commission as militia officer, and subsequently was appointed a Justice of the Peace. He was president of the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Societies several years, and was trustee of the Common and High School Board eighteen years, and has now been for some years president of the Dominion Saving and Loan Society of London.

HUBERT C. McBRIDE, of the firm of McBride & Jones, architects, surveyors and civil engineers, London, Ont., was born in that city on November 5th, 1860. His father was the late William McBride, for many years city assessor and secretary of the Western Fair Association. He met his death in the Thames disaster in 1881. Mr. McBride received his education at the public school and Collegiate Institute in London. He commenced the study of his profession in the office of S. Peters & Son, London, and afterwards studied for a time in the United States. He began to practice at London as a member of the firm of Peters, Jones & McBride in 1885. This partnership continued until 1891, when Mr. Peters withdrew, the firm now being McBride & Jones. Mr. McBride has drawn the plans for some of the leading buildings in London, and the firm is receiving a constantly increasing patronage from other parts of the Dominion. Mr. McBride was married February 10th, 1886, to Miss E. Mutchmor, of Ottawa, Ontario. In religion he is a Methodist, and in politics is Reform. He has been a member of the Ontario Association of Architects since it was established in 1888.

REV. GEO. BOYD, pastor of Queen's Avenue Methodist Church, London, Ont., was born February 13th, 1847, at Grangemouth, Stirlingshire, Scotland. He received his primary education at the public and Grammar schools, by private tuition in Glasgow, and then finished at Mount Allison College, Sackville, N.B. When a boy Mr. Boyd had an ambition to become a practical engineer, and worked at that trade for several years. He, however, felt called to the ministry, and in the year, 1869, became a local preacher in connection with the John Street Wesleyan Church, Glasgow. He was brought up in the Presbyterian faith, but, at the age of fourteen, was converted in the Methodist Church, and united with that denomination. In the year 1872 he went to Newfoundland, where he joined the Wesleyan Methodist Conference, and was ordained in 1877. He continued in that Conference for eighteen years, when, in the year 1890, he was transferred to the London Conference. While in the Newfoundland Conference he travelled the following circuits: Port-de-Grave, Cupids, Carbonear, Harbour Grace and St. John's, remaining on the two circuits in the latter place for six years. He then became pastor of his present charge. At the Conference of 1891 he was elected chairman of the London District. Mr. Boyd was twice secretary of the Newfoundland Conference, and its president in 1886. He was one of the representatives of that Conference to the General Conference of 1882 at Hamilton, of the Union General Conference at Belleville in 1885, and of the Conference at Toronto in 1886. He has been the representative of his Conference to the General Board of Missions on several occasions. He is an eloquent and earnest preacher, a diligent and sympathizing pastor, and is greatly beloved. He is also a strong advocate of temperance. Mr. Boyd was united in marriage with Miss Bartlett, daughter of Isaac Bartlett, of Bay Roberts, Newfoundland, on the 23rd of August, 1877.

HENRY MATHEWSON, secretary-treasurer of the London Free Press, London, Ontario, was born in Scotland, being reared mainly at Dundee. In early life he learned the trade of a baker and confectioner, at which he served a regular apprenticeship. In the year 1841 he came to Canada, and, upon his arrival, was shipwrecked off the coast of Newfoundland, but reached the shore without injury. He first went to Montreal, where he remained until the year 1842, when he removed to London, and continues to reside there still. Here, by a long term of years of steady and successful business pursuits and upright citizenship, he has built up a name and character without reproach. On going to London he commenced business at his trade as a confectioner, which business he carried on until the year 1856. In 1845 he suffered seriously, financially, from the great fire which occurred in London that year. Subsequently with a partner he engaged in the manufacture of steam engines, which he carried on for some time. After relinquishing this business, he became connected with the London Advertiser, and remained with that four or five years. In 1867 he accepted a position with the Free Press Printing Co., in 1871 was taken in as a partner, and in 1882 was elected to his present position as secretary-treasurer of the company. The paper with which he is connected is an exponent of the great Conservative principle of National Policy. It is a recognized leader of opinion, and owes much of its prosperity to the business qualifications of the subject of this sketch. Mr. Mathewson has been twice married—first, in the year 1844, to Miss Ann Smith, a native of England, by whom he had three sons and one daughter, of whom only one son is now living. He was married a second time to Mrs. Annie Newcombe, whose maiden name was Lancaster, by whom he has one daughter living. Mr. Mathewson is a man of great energy and ability, and takes a great interest in matters of public welfare.

REV. MICHAEL J. BRADY, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, Woodstock, Ont., was born on the 29th of October, 1858, at St. Thomas, County of Elgin, Ont. He received his primary education in the public and separate schools of that city, and continued it at St. Michael's College, Toronto, attending the latter institution for six years, and passing from there to the Grand Seminary, Montreal, where he completed his philosophical and theological education, remaining there four years. He was ordained priest in the year 1882 by Archbishop Walsh in the chapel of the Convent of the Sacred Heart, London, Ont. Immediately after ordination he was appointed to the mission of Mount Carmel, as assistant to the late Father Kelly, and acted in that capacity for a short time, when he was appointed to Stratford, as assistant to Dr. Kilroy. In a short period of time he was translated to Woodstock as laureate to the late Rev. Father Carlin, and at his death, which occurred in the year 1885, the subject of our sketch was appointed to succeed him as parish priest, which charge he has filled with great acceptability since. Father Brady has been very successful in the material as well as the spiritual upbuilding of the church, having built a handsome new edifice in Woodstock in 1886, to take the place of the first church, which was dedicated by Archbishop Walsh when he was Bishop of London. He also built a church at Princeton, Ont., which was dedicated in the year 1889. The entire expense of the latter beautiful structure, amounting to about $9,000, was donated by Miss Elizabeth Markham, who now resides in Bridgeport, Conn., U.S.A. Father Brady is zealous in the performance of his duties to his church. He is a kind and sympathizing pastor, and is genial and popular among all classes of people, irrespective of party or creed. He has taken a leading position very early in life, and appears to be destined to wear the highest honors in the gift of the Church.

ANGUS MCKAY, M.B., M.P.P., Ingersoll, Ont., was born on the 2nd of October, 1852, in Oxford township, Oxford County. His father was the late Donald McKay, farmer in North Oxford, and a native of Sutherlandshire, Scotland, who died in 1887. His mother is still living and resides with her son, the doctor. Dr. McKay was educated at the public schools of the township and Trinity College, graduating M.B. in 1872. He then went to Edinburgh and graduated L.R.C.P. & L.M. in 1874 at the Royal College of Physicians there. He spent some time at Sir Morrell McKenzie's

Throat Hospital and St. Thomas Hospital, London, Eng., and was also a student at Brompton Hospital for Diseases of the Chest. He then returned to Canada and commenced his profession at Ingersoll, where he has remained ever since in the enjoyment of one of the largest medical practices in that part of the country. He was examiner of Materia Medica for the Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons in 1887 and 1888. Dr. McKay has always been an ardent Liberal in politics. In 1886 he was nominated by the South Oxford Reform Convention for membership in the Ontario Legislature, and was elected M.P.P. on the 28th of December, 1886, Dr. Williams, on the Conservative ticket, and George A. Cook, the late member, as an Independent Liberal, also opposing him. He was re-elected in June, 1890, at the Ontario General Election, Richard Butler, an Equal Righter, being the other candidate. The doctor is a Presbyterian in religion, has been a member of the Board of Management, and is now a member of the Building Committee of St. Paul's Church, Ingersoll. Dr. McKay is the Ministerial whip, a member of the Private Bills, Municipal and Railway Committees of the House, and was the author of the bill regarding fire escapes in public buildings which passed in 1888. He had charge of the bill to amend the Ontario Medical Act in 1891, and also caused several amendments to be made to the Ontario Municipal Act.

E. JONES PARKE, Q.C., of the firm of Parke, Mills & Purdom, barristers, etc., London, Ont., was born at Toronto on the 1st of November, 1823. The subject of our sketch was educated at the London District Grammar School, and studied law in the office of Sir John A. Macdonald and Sir Alexander Campbell in Kingston, Ont., and was called to the Bar in 1847. He began to practice at Woodstock in partnership with the late Thomas Scatcherd, Q.C., M.P. In the year 1852 Mr. Parke returned to London, where he has since remained. He was influential in obtaining the charter for the London and Port Stanley Railway, of which he is solicitor. He is Police Magistrate for the city of London, vice-president of the Law Association of Middlesex County, was created Q.C. in 1885, and has been Deputy Judge on different occasions. In politics he is a Liberal. Mr. Parke was married on February 4th, 1869, to Miss Mary Helen, daughter of George Southwick, M.D., St. Thomas.

REV. FATHER MICHAEL CUMMINS, Bothwell, Ont., son of Wm. Cummins, was born in the year 1850 at Kingston, Ont. He received his early educational training at St. Michael's College, Toronto, and his theological training in Montreal College, where he studied three years. He was ordained to the priesthood in the year 1878 by Archbishop Walsh. His first appointment was to Irishtown, where he labored for fifteen months. He was then appointed to Corunna, where he remained nine months. He then became pastor of St. Mary's Church, London, remaining there a year and a half. He was then appointed parish priest of Woodslee, where he labored with great acceptance for five years. The Bishop then formed a new parish at Bismarek, and the subject of our sketch was appointed first pastor, remaining there nine months. He was then appointed to the Mission of Raleigh, where he labored for over two years, when he was removed to Thamesville, Wardsville and Bothwell, his present charge. Here he is held in high esteem by all classes in the community irrespective of creed or party. In politics he is a Conservative.

GEORGE ROBINSON VAN NORMAN, Q.C., Brantford, Ont., was born on the 12th of March, 1821, at Canandagua, N.Y., coming to Canada the same year. He was educated at London District School and Victoria University, and studied law under the late Hon. Robert Baldwin Sullivan, Toronto. He was called to the Bar of Ontario in 1847, and soon afterwards formed a partnership with Dr. McMichael, Q.C., of Toronto, under the name of Van Norman & McMichael. This partnership expiring, he and the late Hon. Michael Hamilton Foley entered into partnership at Simcoe under the name of Van Norman & Foley. He removed to Brantford in 1858 and was appointed County Crown Attorney the following year. He became ex-officio Clerk of the Peace on the death of the late John Cameron, both of which offices he has filled to the present time. He was appointed a Q.C. by the Dominion Government in 1873, and by the Ontario Government in 1876. Mr. Van Norman has held retainers as counsel in very many important suits in the Ontario Courts. Clear and logical in argument, felicitous in expression, calm and persuasive, though forcible, he readily secures the attention of the Bench, which invariably gives to his reasoning the respect and weight which are due to the efforts of superior counsel. Perhaps the most important case, from a litigious point of view, in which he has been engaged, was that of Peart vs. the Grand Trunk Railway Co., in which, at the Assizes, at the Divisional Court, at the Court of Appeal for Ontario, and before the Ultimate Court of Appeal in England, he secured a victory for the plaintiff against a large and wealthy corporation, who were the defendants. It may be added that he is the first and only counsel as yet from Brantford who has had the honor of holding a brief before the Privy Council. He has been twice married—first to Miss M. A. Berry, Toronto, and again, December, 1886, to Miss A. E. Duncan, Stratford. Mr. Van Norman is a communicant of the Anglican Church.

REV. THOMAS S. JOHNSON, First Baptist Church, Brantford, Ont., was born on the 1st of December, 1841, near Paris, Brant County. His parents were John and Ellen (Pike) Johnson. His father was for many years a farmer in Brant County, also a magistrate. Mr. Johnson was educated at the public schools, Paris High School, and Woodstock College, where he studied theology. He graduated in 1873 and accepted a call to Petrolia, being inducted and ordained there the same year. In October, 1874, Mr. Johnson was married to Adelia, daughter of James McConnell, of Malahide township, County of Elgin. He was the first pastor of Petrolia, and at the end of two years had built a new church and left the cause well established. He then accepted a call to Sarnia, which was also a mission church when he took charge, but it soon grew under his administration to be self-sustaining, and a very fine new building was erected. He remained in Sarnia eight years, then accepted a call to Adelaide Street Church, London, where similar results attended his labors,—a small church being displaced by a fine new structure and the membership more than doubled. In 1890, after a pastorate of six years at London, he accepted a call to the First Baptist Church, Brantford, where he continues to labor with very great success. Since his pastorate there the membership of the church has greatly increased, upwards of one hundred having joined, more than one-half of this number being taken in by baptism. Mr. Johnson is a remarkably clear and practical Gospel preacher, and appeals to the hearts and consciences of his hearers. This church was founded in 1833, Rev. Wm. Rees being the first pastor, who was followed by Rev. John Winterbotham, Rev. T. L. Davidson, D.D., Rev. Thos. Cull (student), Rev. John Alexander, Rev. Wm. Stewart, D.D., Rev. Charles Carrol, Rev. J. C. Hurd, M.D., Rev. W. H. Porter, Rev. William Brookman, Rev. J. B. Tuttle, and Rev. G. M. W. Cary, now of Ottawa.

PETER HERMAN BALL, Merritton, Ont., was born there in 1817. He received his education at the old Grantham Academy, and spent his early life on the farm. In those days the educational facilities were exceedingly limited, and very inferior to those of 1891, but our subject received the best education then possible, and applied it with such industry to practical life, that he soon became a man of power and influence in the community. For seven years he has occupied the responsible position of Police Magistrate. In discharging the duties of his office he brings to bear a clear apprehension of the matter in hand, a calm well balanced mind, and an impartial administration of Justice. In the delivery of his judgments there is no nervous apprehension of the possibility of having arrived at conclusions which lack for a basis, the fullest consideration. He still lives upon the old homestead in the village of Merritton, where he employs his time, when at home, in cultivating a most beautiful garden of the rarest flowers and choicest fruits. In this delightful employment Mr. Ball finds ample opportunity for the gratification of his love

GEORGE THOMSON, merchant tailor, No. 392 Yonge street, Toronto, Ont., was born on the 30th of April, 1860, at Banchory, Kincardineshire, Scotland. His parents were William and Barbara (Gray) Thomson. His father conducted a merchant tailor's business at Banchory, Scotland, for over thirty years, and is still living there. Mr. Thomson received his education at the schools of his native parish in Scotland. He was apprenticed to the tailoring business at the age of fifteen. On completing his apprenticeship, he came to Canada in the year 1881, and settled in the city of gathering from the storehouse of nature many interesting truths hidden in botany and horticulture. He revels in thus obtaining more of the secret of mother earth than is exhibited in the fruit and flowers. He possesses a well selected library, which he not only makes good use of himself, but is generously placed at the disposal of his neighbors for consultation. This kindly act arises from the remembrance of those early days in which he so fully appreciated the rare opportunity of having access to good reading. Mr. Ball is a devoted member of the Church of England and an Orangeman since 1843. He is one of the oldest residents of this old-settled part of Canada, and enjoys the confidence and esteem of the entire neighborhood irrespective of religions or political creed. His long life has been marked by patient industry, perseverance, and a strict integrity in all his relations with his fellow men. He was married in the year 1839 to Miss Jane Gertrude Ball, third daughter of J. C. Ball, J. P., of Niagara township. Of his family of two sons and one daughter, the daughter only remains alive, both sons being dead.

of Toronto. In the year 1885 he commenced business for himself as a merchant tailor in that city, and is now in the enjoyment of a very large and profitable trade. He is an industrious and energetic man, and has earned for himself a good reputation and business standing since he came to Canada. Mr. Thomson in religion is a member of the Methodist Church. He is also a member of the Caledonian Society, the Sons of Scotland and the Young Men's Protestant Benevolent Association, in which societies he has always taken a very deep interest.

ADDISON NORMAN, M.E., was born in Yorkshire, Eng., in 1843. His father, a cabinet-maker by trade, devoted a large portion of his spare time to the study and application of static electricity for curative and other purposes, and in this way the subject of our sketch became acquainted with the uses of electricity at a very early age. In 1863 he came to this country, and after travelling over a portion of Canada and the United States, staying in various cities acquiring information and experience in the ways of the people, finally settled in Toronto. For nearly twenty years he has been engaged in the manufacture of electro curative appliances. At first he commenced to manufacture insoles for rheumatism in the lower limbs and for cold feet. Finding them a success, he extended the idea to other forms, so that the electric healing power might be applied to other parts. This he found of very great service in the relief and cure of all kinds of bodily ailments, particularly those of the nervous system, such as debility, lumbago, indigestion, sciatica, exhaustion, catarrh, sexual weakness, etc. These and kindred diseases that will not yield to the influence of medicine he found to be easily curable by the outward application of a steady flow of mild galvanism and magnetism. As time went on he improved on the original principle and wrought many wonderful cures, as his many testimonials from prominent men abundantly show. About ten years ago he brought out his Aeme Electric Belt, which combines galvanism and magnetism in one appliance, and may be used to carry the current through or around any part of the body. There is no other belt in existence that produces so great a quantity of combined electricity, and it is especially adapted for affections of the kidneys, bladder and scrotum. This appliance requires to be moistened with vinegar and water when used. This dampening railroad men and travellers found to be very inconvenient, and Mr. Norman set to work to devise an application that would give off as much curative electricity when used in dry form. This he at length succeeded in doing, and the result was the introduction of his Excelsior Electric Belt, which excels all other electric body wear in the quality and quantity of electro galvanism it gives off, and, besides this, a great volume of magnetism is discharged from it continuously. The user is in no way incommoded, and there is no loss of time required in the application of electricity in this form. The difference between electricity applied in this way and electricity used from a battery is, to use an illustration, the difference between food and a stimulant. The intense current got from a Galvano-Faradic Battery acts as a stimulant to the nerves and circulation, but the pure galvanic or magnetic current given off from the belts feed the blood and nerves with vitality, that is vital force. Electricity and vital force are the same thing, only slightly changed in form, just as light, heat and galvanism are only different forms of electricity. It is manifestly better to feed and nourish the system than it is to stimulate it, and particularly so when we are sick or weak. His establishment is fitted with various kinds of baths, such as electric, sulphur, vapor, mercurial and herbal baths, and applies the curative properties of electricity in all its forms, both wet and dry, as suits the case he is treating, and all his patients feel themselves to be in the hands of a man who knows his business. Mr. Norman claims to be the leading medical electrician of this continent. He was married in 1868 to the daughter of Mr. G. Read, builder, of Toronto.
